Battleship South Carolina is sent to reinforce cruiser Montana in protecting foreign lives in Haiti.

(United Press Special Wire.)—Washington, Jan. 28.—The battleship South Carolina was steaming at full speed today from Guantanamo toward Port au Prince, Haiti, to help the cruiser Montana in protecting foreign residents endangered by the latest revolution.

With President Oreste's sudden resignation and flight on board the German cruiser Vineta, it was said complete anarchy prevailed at the Haitian capital. Shooting was said to have been continuous throughout the night.

American bluejackets from the Montana were on guard over the United States legation, the cable station and the French hospital. The other legations and German stores in the city were guarded by detachments from the Vineta.

Reports received by the state department declared that a blockade of Cape Haitien, the storm center of the latest Haitian revolution, had been proclaimed by the government at Port au Prince. The diplomatic corps at Port au Prince, the reports added, designated a committee of safety to assume charge of affairs.

Ex-Senator From Illinois and Ex-Governor of State Succumbs to Old Age.

(United Press Special Wire.)—Washington, Jan. 28.—Ex-Senator Shelby M. Cullom, of Illinois, died shortly before 2 o'clock this afternoon at his home in Washington.

Cullom, who long represented Illinois in the upper house of the national legislature, had been in a critical condition for some time from a general breakdown due to old age. His family was summoned repeatedly to his bedside, but he showed great vitality and rallied again and again.

The ex-senator was born at Monticello, Ky., November 22, 1829. He was still a baby his parents removed to Tazewell county, Illinois. Their son went to Springfield to study law after completing his academic education at the Rock River seminary. Mount Morris, Ill., was admitted to the bar in 1855 and maintained a Springfield residence to the time of his death. In 1855 he married Hannah M. Fisher, who died in 1881 and two years later he was wedded again to Julia Fisher.

He interested himself in politics early in life, and after holding various local offices, was elected to congress in 1865. In 1875 he was elected governor of Illinois, in which office he served until he resigned in 1883 when he was chosen United States senator. He served in the senate continuously until March 3, 1912.

Funeral services will be conducted at the Cullom home here tomorrow, the Rev. Charles Wood officiating. The body will be taken to Springfield for burial.

DILATORY TACTICS OF JUDGE MORROW CAUSE ANNOYANCE

In December 1, 1912. Allowing for Judge Morrow to begin consideration of the case shortly after that date, he has been at it ever since, a year and almost two months.

Clients Blame Attorneys. Attorneys for the plaintiff state they have repeatedly urged Judge Morrow to decide the motion. They state that they have been seriously embarrassed by the delay, and that they are not understanding the intricacies or delays of the law, and thinking their own attorneys were holding the case up, took out their hands. The case was brought back to them again, Conley states that Judge Morrow's invariable excuse when questioned about the matter was that he had not the time to take it up then, but would attend to it in a few days.

Later a new action was started involving the same issues and it was tried at Salem last December. From its inception the matter was closed up in three or four weeks and it is now under advisement for a final decision before the Marion county judge.

The case is said to be a complex one, involving a number of separate real estate issues, the sums at stake are large, and mature deliberation is expected by the attorneys for both sides.

Lawyer Says Morrow Unfit. "Judge Morrow is wholly unfit for the bench," asserted Attorney Conley of counsel for the plaintiffs. "He is intellectually and temperamentally unfit for the office of judge. We will never try another case before him, dismissing the action and filing it again when another judge is secured."

A legislative act of 1911 decrees that circuit judges or justices, before they can collect their salary, must decide any issues that come before them for decision within three months, unless they are prevented by sickness or unavoidable casualty or the time for decision has been extended by stipulation of attorneys for both sides and presented to the judge within the three months. To collect his salary, the judge must sign a certificate stating that all the cases have been cleared up within the stated time. If this certificate is false, as several certificates that Judge Morrow has signed have been, then the judge is subject to removal by the legislature. The act does not apply to justices of the supreme court.

Final Result May Be Known at Adjourned Meeting on Friday.

Action by the city council on the proposed cross town car line of the Portland Railway, Light & Power Co. was again postponed this morning. Final action is expected at the adjourned meeting to be held Friday morning. Before that time the members of the council in a body are to make a trip through the neighborhood of East Twenty-eighth and Haystack streets, in an attempt to definitely settle the question of whether the tracks are to be located on East Twenty-eighth or East Twenty-fourth, after leaving Haystack.

Commissioners, who recommended that the proposed route remain as it was in the original, that is with the line going down Haystack street after leaving the East Twenty-eighth street bridge to East Twenty-fourth street, then northward. Resolutions adopted by various improvement clubs of the district were read, and after much discussion on the subject, Mayor Eggleston's suggestion, the ordinance went over to Friday, to give time for the council to visit the scene.

GOVERNOR EXPECTED TO APPEAR BEFORE GRAND JURY TODAY

Executive, It Is Supposed, Will Give Information in Connection With Graft Inquiry.

Governor West is expected to appear before the grand jury this afternoon in connection with an investigation of charges of graft in the north end. Rumor has it that he will tell his reasons for granting a pardon to Sam Kraemer, who some months ago received a rockpile sentence on an extortion charge. The governor was in Portland this morning, and from a conversation with his office held by District Attorney Evans yesterday, it was understood the state executive intended to appear this morning. This, however, was not true.

Sheriff Word appeared before the grand jury this morning as a witness for Deputy Sheriff Frank Curtis, against whom a charge of graft has been lodged by Robert Irvin, an ex-convict, and P. J. Hayden, a hotelman. He and Deputy Sheriff Lumaden, who followed, were character witnesses. It was expected that Curtis will be called to check up his defense this afternoon, and that Curtis' statement will end the investigation of his case.

A. B. Gilman, held pending investigation of a parole breaker, made the statement this morning that while he was held in the city jail last Saturday he overheard Irvin say that he had a grudge against Curtis, who was warden of the penitentiary when Irvin was an inmate. Other witnesses are said to have given information which bears out Gilson's statement.

CASHIER DRAWS GUN INSTEAD OF MONEY

Tacoma, Wash., Jan. 28.—Excitement was created in the business district here this afternoon when a man walked into the Scandinavian-American bank and depositing a small canvas bag on the counter, pushed a note into the cashier's ticket, demanding $1000. The cashier, who was a woman, drew a large volume of business and present conditions do not allow this impartial feeling.

Judge Stevenson asks that persons interested in this matter see him in the afternoon, as he has more time then.

"Our Mutual Girl" is here and making friends with Portland picture goers at the Columbia, where she will be four days of every week in the year, beginning on Wednesday. Norma Phillips is the Mutual Girl.

First the girl is shown as the simple country lass at home with her father, who has just received a letter from his New York agent to come to the city to visit. She journeys to the city, where she is met by her aunt, who takes her at once to the establishment of Madame Lucile, the famous modist. There she sees living models exploiting the latest and most beautiful in gowns.

The close of the picture sees her tucked snugly in bed at the end of her first day in the city. The pictures of next week will show Margaret in her new gowns seeing more and more of the famous actors and actresses.

Miss Phillips is exceptionally pretty and was a happy selection to meet and exploit the prominent people of the country, as she will in the series. The educational feature of the bill is "Moscow, Russia and Its Environs," showing much of the city and its environs. A big gripping drama, well played and well photographed with many tense moments, is "The Primitive Call" in three parts. A highly improbable but none the less funny comedy, is "The Phil's Mistake," a Keystone, that abounds in laughs.

UNEMPLOYED THREATEN TO BLOW UP STATION

Chicago, Jan. 28.—Precautions to prevent further trouble from Chicago's army of the unemployed were taken here today when extra police were placed on duty in the vicinity of the Maxwell street station. This action followed the receipt by Captain Thomas Storen of a letter threatening to blow up that police station unless six alleged rioters, arrested last night and arraigned today, were released.

Two boys delivered the letter to Captain Storen. They said a man gave them a dime for their trouble. The letter warned Storen that unless the six prisoners were released by noon, the station would be dynamited.

An all day meeting of industrial workers of the world was held in Workingman's hall. It was attended by hundreds of jobless men.

CALL FOR A PUBLIC DEFENDER IS ISSUED BY MUNICIPAL COURT

Place Offers Chance for Betterment of Social Conditions of City.

Study of conditions in the local municipal court having convinced him of the need of legal assistance by many who have not means to employ counsel or are absolutely ignorant of their own legal rights, Judge John Stevenson has issued a call for a public defender.

The public defender is coming to be felt all over the country as a public necessity. It is in line with modern advanced politico-scientific and sociological thought, and the judge has seized upon it as a means to improve social conditions in Portland.

Judge Stevenson is looking for applicants for the position, preferably to be filled by a young attorney, who is interested in the unraveling of some of Portland's social problems. There will be no salary, as it is to be in the nature of an experiment. A committee from the allied social workers of the city has the matter under consideration, however, and is working out a scheme to maintain such an officer at the police station, but the plans are still indefinite and will not conflict with the immediate scheme proposed by Judge Stevenson.

"It has long been my desire to know the value of a public defender at the municipal court," says the judge. "I shall consider favorably any applicant who is in sympathy with the idea, give him all the authority in the court's power to do such an officer, and will try the scheme for two or three months. If it appears feasible, further and definite arrangements for continuing it can be made. There will be no salary. The work will probably fall in the forenoon, between 9 and 12 o'clock, and will be that of looking after the defense of men and women who are not financially able to employ an attorney."

The scheme will not interfere with the present practice of lawyers, for I don't intend to offer legal counsel except in cases where the poor or their friends who can do so. Day after day men and women come before the court utterly unaware of their legal rights. It is the theory that the city and district attorneys act impartially, but a large volume of business and present conditions do not allow this impartial feeling."

Judge Stevenson asks that persons interested in this matter see him in the afternoon, as he has more time then.

CLUBMEN ENTERTAINED BY PERFORMING HORSE

The Ad club at its luncheon in the Hotel Portland this afternoon was entertained by King Pharaoh and informed by representatives of the Social Hygiene society.

King Pharaoh is a performing horse of notable accomplishments. His director, Dr. Boyd, presented him in address to the club members up to four feet, he multiplied correctly, picked up pieces of cloth when told to do so and laid them in places indicated, he read numbers up to four hundred, he hoisted them and did the words written thereon told him to. The feats were so unusual that the Ad men accepted him with considerable interest.

King Pharaoh is a first rate representative of the German school for the development of intelligence in horses.

Dr. E. A. Pierce was introduced by President C. F. Berg as chairman of the day, and Dr. Pierce, in turn, introduced Dr. William T. Foster, first vice president of the Oregon Social Hygiene society and president of Reed college, as the speaker.

Dr. Foster declared that the Oregon Social Hygiene society has been doing a work not equaled by any other organization of similar nature in the world; that its campaign against quack doctors has been the most successful ever conducted anywhere; that its activities in educating boys and girls and parents to life facts cannot be duplicated in effectiveness. Short addresses were delivered by A. F. Flegel, Dr. Calvin S. White and Wilbur E. Coman.

WILSON WON'T SUPPORT TAGGART OR SULLIVAN

Washington, Jan. 28.—Denial of reports that President Wilson would support the senatorial candidacies of Indiana and Illinois of Thomas Taggart and Roger Q. Sullivan, political bosses, respectively in those states, was voiced today at the White House. The reports followed a conference at the executive mansion last night between the president and E. M. McCombs, chairman of the Democratic national committee, and several administration officials.

President Wilson is not taking part in local fights anywhere," declared Private Secretary Tumulty.

It was understood, however, that President Wilson will take a firm stand against Taggart's candidacy.

The gas company alleged in answer that the Sharkeys should have used their telephone to notify the company that the mains were leaking and the leaks would have been stopped in time to save the trees.
