

Social and Personal

FRIDAY afternoon and evening will be the big time for society at the Auto show, which is the attraction of the week, and is being held at the Armory. The show opened Tuesday evening and brings of people have visited the splendid exhibition, both afternoon and evening. Friday, however, has been set aside as the social day, and is being anticipated with much pleasure by the men and women of the smart set, who are just socially interested, as well as the countless motor devotees. But whatever may be the disposition of those who go in, it is safe to predict that no one will come out of the Armory other than a motor devotee. The handsome cars are all that could be desired, and they are exhibited in a clever and altogether attractive setting. The great barren Armory is robed in a most cozy attire. Blue and white bunting is stretched so as to form a ceiling of bright colors, and around the sides is a beautiful painted scene that might be found in any place, en tour in this scenic country. The various classifications of cars are designed with miniature street lights, which are effective as well as decorative. The cars are arranged in each stand in harmony with the general scheme of furnishing add their note of beauty. The show as a whole is proclaimed by many to be equal to some of the large eastern cities.

Dr. and Mrs. Kelly Celebrate Anniversary.

Dr. and Mrs. Richmond Kelly were hosts Tuesday evening at one of the largest functions of the week, when they celebrated their twenty-ninth wedding anniversary. Their beautiful home, 1051 Gladstone avenue, was elaborately decorated for the occasion and about 200 guests called. The Misses Laura and Esther Kelly, Miss Joyce and Wilbur Kelly, Mrs. Kelly, Dr. and Mrs. Kelly. The receiving line stood in the living room, which was a tower of flowers and greens. The various red carnations were used with quantities of smilax, fern and palms with splendid effect. Mrs. Kelly was beautifully attired in a gown of crepe organde elaborated with handsome old lace.

Miss Laura Kelly was gowned in a becoming white marquisette draped over pink and prettily trimmed with lace. Miss Esther Kelly wore an attractive gown of blue draped in white and elaborated with white lace. The library and hall were also decorated with the crepe carnations and greenery. The stairway was draped with streamers of the smilax. Lunch was served in the conservatory by the Misses Marjorie Silverthorn and Olive Kincaid. Here, too, the pink potted azaleas and clusters of flowers were arranged with the many growing plants to carry out the scheme.

In the dining room where Mrs. L. E. Kern and Mrs. Sarah Cornell presided huge clusters of yellow daffodils and roses were used. Countering the handsomely appointed table was a huge basket of the daffodils and violets were strewn about the cloth. On the buffet a beautiful bowl of the golden yellow rose buds were arranged. The rose favors were presented to the guests. Assisting in serving were Miss Evangeline Putnam, Miss Lillian Stevenson, Miss Marguerite Gross and Miss Estelle Lanier.

Transportation Club Arranges to Learn New Dances.

Mysteries of the one-step, the three-step and the hesitation waltz are not to remain unsolved by Portland railroad men, if the entertainment committee of the Transportation club can help it. Beginning tonight, the members of the club will be given instruction in the ball room adjacent to the club quarters in the Multnomah hotel. N. C. Soule, chairman of the committee, had observed at the last club dance that when the program called for these dances, most of the guests tripped through the mazes of the old-fashioned two-step or waltz, as the rhythm of the music allowed.

For the month of February, the club planned a number of dances. The first of these will be the noon luncheon February 3, when William F. Woodward, secretary of the Social Hygiene society, will be the speaker. He will be introduced by Dr. E. B. McDaniel, chief surgeon of the North Bank road, who will be chairman of the day.

A smoker will be given February 5 in the club rooms. The entertainment committee is planning some unique stunts for the amusement of the members.
