

POLITICAL 'BARNACLE'
KINDLY TERM APPLIED TO ATTORNEY GENERAL

Mr. Crawford Gently Chided for Apparent Hostility to Carey Settlers.

"You have been a barnacle upon the body politic of Oregon so long that you begin to think we cannot get along without you."

In these few pleasant and neighborly words, J. J. Ellinger of Redmond, Or., passes the John H. Attorney General Crawford and rhetorically casts him to the political Davy Jones' locker.

How farsighted a prophet Mr. Ellinger is can only be shown by future developments, but if the views of the Redmond man are a criterion of the general sentiment of central Oregon it is a double barreled certainty that the attorney general will fare poorly at the forthcoming election in that section of the state.

As Ellinger expresses it not only himself but the whole community is "sore" at the attorney general, and State Engineer John H. Lewis, who for their continued attitude of hostility toward any action that would benefit the settlers on the Carey act lands. At a recent meeting of the state land board both Crawford and Lewis voted against Governor West's proposition to have the United States and the state take over the Carey unit of the Central Irrigation company's irrigation project.

Writer Sings Sweet Song.

Inasmuch as this stand on part of the two officials is believed to be inimical to the best interests and future of the Carey act section and the whole of central Oregon, Mr. Ellinger is inclined to take both Mr. Lewis and Attorney General Crawford to task. He reverses the usual procedure, however, of writing on men and measures to the public prints, and instead writes to the men in question themselves. Incidentally he makes a few remarks en passant on politics which can hardly be sweet music to their ears.

Writing to Mr. Lewis he says: "Your actions make me sore and every man I meet is sore at you and the rest of the board, who voted against the governor's plan, which plan would immediately and effectively eliminate the Central Oregon Irrigation company and bring a return of prosperity to central Oregon."

"Mr. Crawford and yourself ought to realize your absolute incompetency in everything the servants of the people should be. You are making asses of yourselves by showing your spleen against the only friend on the board of the state of Oregon ever had. The sooner such men as you are forced from public office, the better for all concerned; and I think you will be glad if the settlers of Oregon have their way you will get your walking papers quick."

Cheering Words for Candidates.

After applying the particularly euphonious word "barnacle" to the attorney general, Mr. Ellinger proceeds to say a few words on Mr. Crawford's candidacy for the governorship. They are very comfortable, cheering words of encouragement and are as follows:

"Provided that the primaries should nominate you, just keep tab on what amount of votes you get in central Oregon. I think you will be able to count them without the aid of your secretary. If ever you had a chance here in central Oregon (which is doubtful), you have effectively eliminated it by your continual opposition to the first and only friend that the settlers on the Carey lands in Oregon ever had upon the state desert land board."

"Governor West has a plan for completing the north canal of the U. S. O. I. company, which means a very great deal for this vicinity, but you and other members of the board are now playing a dangerous game with the governor, simply because you do not feel friendly toward him. The benefit his plan will be to central Oregon, or the good it will do for the settler, does not enter into your consideration. You have yet to give a decent excuse for your opposition to this matter."

"I wish you would come to Redmond and bring that other 'barnacle'," (there's that pretty word again), "J. H. Lewis, with you, and let us have your ideas regarding your scheme for reclaiming the desert here. I can assure you of a full house and a hot reception. . . . You might find it profitable to open your campaign for governor here in Redmond. You would get a feeling of what public opinion is regarding your long service on the board. We have your measure, and have known full well that both Lewis and yourself were wolves in sheep's clothing. Here's hoping that you will wake up."

OREGON LAW NOT BAR TO COUPLE'S MARRIAGE

Fearing that the Oregon law might make trouble, L. H. Deffen of Terra Buena, Cal., and Mrs. Ida Pease secured a written opinion from District Attorney Evans as a preliminary to the issuance of a marriage license to them. In December, 1912, Mrs. Pease secured a decree of interlocutory divorce from her first husband and last month she was granted a final decree.

Under the Oregon law the final divorce is the only one granted and divorced parties must wait six months if no appeal is taken before remarrying. District Attorney Evans scanned the California statutes and found that the final decree permitted remarrying at any time after it was granted, so gave his opinion that the marriage could not be attacked. The license was issued yesterday as the law was not interpreted Tuesday night until after the county clerk's office had closed.

WOMEN MAY JOIN MARION COUNTY CLUB

(Salem Bureau of The Journal.)

Salem, Or., Jan. 29.—Representative James G. Holtz, president of the Marion County Republican club, has called a meeting of the club for tomorrow night at the county courthouse. It is expected the club will re-organize and get in fighting trim for the present campaign. Changes are to be made also to admit women to membership.

Divorce Decree Granted.

Circuit Judge McGinn granted a divorce to Catherine Bolton from Daniel G. Bolton on grounds of cruelty and drunkenness. The Boltons were married March 14, 1877, in Wisconsin. He also gave a decree to Augusta Grell against P. A. Grell on grounds of desertion. The Grells were married in Utah on March 14, 1902.
