

What Society is Doing

BY NONA LAWLER

Oh, Sunny California!

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Feb. 26.—To the Society Editor—"Oh, sunny California! It has rained here here in the last 48 hours than it did in dear old Oregon during the whole month of January. We are marooned here. Cannot reach San Diego or San Bernardino for safety. The streets are lovely, swimming pools. One man with stout rubber boots is doing a land office business carrying people across one very puddly street at so much per. Sincerely, (Signed) "INEZ EVANS-SCOTT."

THE "LOVE SLAVE'S" SACRIFICE

By Edna K. Wooley.

LITTLE while ago we read the pitiful story of a woman who for 15 years had been the voluntary "love slave" of a prominent attorney. She had sacrificed everything that most women hold dear. She had been his clerk, his stenographer, his housekeeper in a dingy room back of his office, and his wife without the sanction of the law. She had given up all human society for this one man—was afraid to leave the place where she was immured, for fear it would cause gossip and bring ignominy to him she loved. She could not even buy herself clothes, and when she was discovered was wearing the garments of several years ago. When the man died and his effects were examined, it developed that he had made no provision for the woman in any manner whatever, though she had made a will giving him her little property. Not even had he recompensed her for her services as his clerk and housekeeper. True, he bought the meagre food supplies upon which she lived and gave her house room. But he did not buy her clothes and he did not pay her a salary. His "love" was sufficient. When the woman's brother spoke of suing the attorney's estate for wages due her as his stenographer, she forbade him to take such proceedings. All she asked was that she be permitted to go away and hide herself from the public. The general opinion is that this woman could not have been quite right in her mind. But if she is insane, then there are thousands and thousands of legitimately wedded wives who are human rights. And like as not, if the husband should die first, it is found that no provision has been made for her, for unless a man owns real estate, in which a wife has a third interest as dower right (and this only in parts of the United States), the lack of a will allows the husband's relatives to step in and "claim their share"—which usually means everything that can lay their hands on. There are women who are slaving for just their shelter and enough food to exist, who do without reasonable clothes and who give their services and their love to some man who, perhaps, even begrudges returning a kind word now and then. These wives give health and strength and often rear large families of children. In return they are looked upon as beings somewhat below anything masculine. They are not given even human rights. And like as not, if the husband should die first, it is found that no provision has been made for her, for unless a man owns real estate, in which a wife has a third interest as dower right (and this only in parts of the United States), the lack of a will allows the husband's relatives to step in and "claim their share"—which usually means everything that can lay their hands on. Yet, knowing all this, these loyal wives slave on, giving their best, doing the work of housekeeper, seamstress, nurse, tailor—attending to the most menial duties; doing it lovingly, and daring anybody to find fault with their masters. And what actual good do they do, in the long run? Yes, there are many women who are not quite right in their minds. They must be a little insane, for such sacrifices are needless, and do not gain either the respect or consideration of the men for whom they are made.

TOO MANY CHILDREN

are pale and frail—backward in studies—with pinched faces and poor blood—their minds and bodies are actually starved because their regular food does not nourish. Such children need Scott's Emulsion above everything else; it contains nature's rarest life-giving fats; it is essentially food value—blood-food and bone-food, free from wine, alcohol or harmful drug. Scott's Emulsion often builds many times its weight in solid flesh—its medicinal, tonic and nutritive properties make all good food do good. IT IS NOT A PROFIT, BUT A FOUNDATION FOR STURDY GROWTH. Every Drought Has It. Avoid Substitutes.
