

O. W. R. & N. GIVES STATE LAND FOR MEDICAL SCHOOL

Commanding Tract of 20 Acres Overlook South Portland and Is Skirted by the Terwilliger Boulevard.

VALUE OF ACREAGE IS PLACED AT $100,000

Donation of Land Made to Medical Department of U. of O.

Twenty acres of land on the foothills overlooking South Portland and skirted by the Terwilliger boulevard, valued at $100,000, has just been donated to the state of Oregon as a campus for the medical department of the University of Oregon by the Oregon-Washington Railroad & Navigation company.

An announcement that the executive committee of the company had decided to take the unexpected gift was given out last night by J. D. Farrell, president of the O. W. R. & N.

Much credit for the action taken by the railroad belongs to Dr. K. A. J. MacKenzie, dean of the university's medical school, and chief surgeon of the railroad, who first broached the subject to President Farrell nearly a year ago.

President Farrell in turn became interested in the proposition, and he later took it up with Judge Lovett, head of the Harriman system, who also favored the plan and passed it on to the executive committee with a result that the donation was authorized.

The land in question is the pick of a plot of 100 acres owned by the foothills in the vicinity. It lies in the foothills of South Portland and commands one of the most beautiful scenic vistas that Portland can boast.

A superb panoramic view of the city, the Columbia and Willamette rivers and the Cascades can be had from the land which will be approached by easy grades as soon as the contemplated parkway and boulevard is completed.

Under the provisions of the donation, full title to the land, including the use of the property as a site for public or private hospitals, will be permitted the construction of hospitals on the campus a custom that is in vogue in all the large European centers and leading American communities, and thereby create a medical center such as the Johns Hopkins university and the Harvard medical school.

Recently the city of Cincinnati acquired 27 acres of land upon which was constructed a hospital containing 850 beds in close proximity to the State Medical college.

Quarters Needed Badly. Mr. Farrell, it is felt, has a sympathetic interest in medical education. While he realizes that it is more the province of the large educational foundations and private individuals than of public service corporations to support educational institutions, in this instance the railroad company happened to own land that is an attractive college site and seriously considered the request that it be donated, when urged by Dr. MacKenzie.

The medical department which is rapidly becoming an important unit of the state university is located at present in an old wooden structure on Twenty-third street opposite the Good Samaritan hospital.

It has occupied these quarters for 22 years, and is badly cramped for room. During the last few years it has made great advances in its standards and is now a "class A" medical school.

Last year it absorbed the medical school of Willamette university, and is now the largest medical territory within the boundaries of Oregon, Washington, Idaho and Montana.

In speaking of the donation, in which he played such a large part in securing, Dr. MacKenzie said that he believed the first unit of the buildings that will later rise on the site can be paid for by donations from private citizens and without resort to state appropriation. He also predicted a bright future for the medical department.

Medical Center for Future. "The drift to the west of the most robust and enterprising elements of the human family, mingling as it does with the sturdy pioneer elements, makes it certain that great activities in medicine and surgery will develop on the shores of the Pacific, and there is no reason to doubt that there will be a great medical center in the northwest with Portland, which now harbors the only medical school in this vast territory, as its center," said Dr. MacKenzie.

"The executive committee of the O. W. R. & N. Co. was assured that the Portland school enjoys a very high rating at the hands of the state and councils of medical education; its standards are acceptable at large; its faculty is imbued with the spirit to advance all these standards, and those who are interested in the railroad company and naturally interested in the community, have undertaken on the representative part of the encouragement that it seems to deserve.

Has Wide Scope. "The committee does begin to appreciate the scope of the laboratories that have been installed in the college of medicine in its present quarters under special conditions are only too willing as officers of the state to furnish service to the state, the city of Portland or any community in need of expert care, these laboratories are embraced in the departments of pathology, bacteriology, chemistry and other fundamental branches.

"A greater interest is taken in the donation of this land because it is believed that the stimulus it will impart to the cause of higher medical education will lead the people of the

TODAY'S SUNDAY JOURNAL Consists of SECTION ONE—TEN PAGES

- 1. O. W. R. & N. Gives Site for Medical School. Registration of Democrats Shows Increase on Tolls Repet March 23. ...

SECTION TWO—TWELVE PAGES

- 1. Sinnott Proposes Irrigation Amendment. Realty and Building News of the Week. ...

SECTION THREE—TWELVE PAGES

- 1. Home Run Feature of Santa Maria Opening. Organize Baseball Leaders Banquet. ...

SECTION FOUR—EIGHT PAGES

- 1. Leaders of the Moose Lodge Visit Portland. The News and Gossip. ...

SECTION FIVE—TWELVE PAGES

- 1. Reed College Campus Is Game Preserve. San Francisco News Letter. ...

SECTION SIX (MAGAZINE)—TEN PAGES

- 1. What an Explorer Found in Peruvian Jungle. A Little Bit of Everything from Almost Everywhere. ...

SECTION SEVEN (COMIC)—FOUR PAGES

New Army to Be Erected for Guard

Building Will Likely Be Located on the East Side of the River; Committee Named by Adjutant General.

A new army is to be built by the county for the Oregon National guard. It will probably be located on the east side. The old Army at Tenth and Couch is to be abandoned.

The east side is favored because it is believed that money from the sale of the old building and the block upon which it is located will pay for an east side location and adequate building, with plenty of room for parade grounds, and other facilities lacking, but necessary in the present Army.

The problem of either repairing the old Army or building a new one confronted the National guard. It was found that the present Army was in serious need of repair, and that the county approach to satisfactory work would cost not less than $50,000, and probably more.

A new building is more favored by guardsmen than the present one. The National guard does not have authority to own property. The Army is owned by the county, and the county commission must act as purchasing agent and owner in connection with the new site.

West Favors Board for All Prisons

Tells Prison Reform Congress One Body Should Regulate City, County and State Penal Institutions.

(Special to The Journal.) New York, March 7.—Governor Oswald West of Oregon advocated a central board of control for all the prisons of each state at the second conference on prison reform under the auspices of the Metropolitan section of the women's department of the National Civic Federation at the Hotel Astor this morning.

He wanted a board that would have absolute jurisdiction over all matters relating to prisons, facing all city prisons under their own jurisdiction, and that the speakers repudiated the present form of cell life in prisons, and advocated out door life.

Mrs. Francis McNeil Bason, Jr., presided. "The executive committee of the O. W. R. & N. Co. was assured that the Portland school enjoys a very high rating at the hands of the state and councils of medical education; its standards are acceptable at large; its faculty is imbued with the spirit to advance all these standards, and those who are interested in the railroad company and naturally interested in the community, have undertaken on the representative part of the encouragement that it seems to deserve.

REGISTRATION OF DEMOCRATS SHOWS HEAVY INCREASE

Republican Lead Drops From Three to One in 1912 to Little More Than Two to One.

OLCOTT'S ESTIMATE OF TOTAL IS 250,000

Will Be Rush During Last Days if This Mark Is Reached.

STATEWIDE REGISTRATION (TO DATE)

Table with 2 columns: Party and Total. Republicans 48,132; Democrats 20,257; Prohibitionists 3,178; Progressives 2,825; Socialists 2,132; Miscellaneous 3,109; Totals 79,633.

(Salem Bureau of The Journal.) Salem, Or., March 7.—If all the persons who are entitled to vote in this state intend to register in time to participate in the nomination of party candidates at the primary election May 15, some of them will have "to hurry." Many are going to get caught in the big rush of the last few days and suffer the inconvenience of tedious waiting in the line, unless they attend to this duty of citizenship without further procrastination.

When Secretary of State Ben W. Olcott finished the registration lists at the close of business hours this afternoon, only 79,633 registrations had been reported to his office from all the counties in the state. Registration has been going on since the first of the year, and only seven weeks and a fraction are left until the books will close prior to the primary election.

Olcott Makes Estimate. In 1912, before the women were given the franchise, the registration totaled 159,888, and now there are as many women voters as men. By one estimate that the same proportion of women will register as men. However, Mr. Olcott estimates that the registration will reach 250,000 this year.

Accepting this estimate as a basis, less than one-third of the voters have registered. To reach this estimate by May 1 will require an average weekly registration of over 24,000 voters. This will be an average of 4000 a day.

It is noticeable in the registrations already made that the proportion to proportion throughout the state is much larger than it was in 1912. In that year, the Republican registrations outnumbered the Democrats more than three to one. This year, the Republicans and two Democrats have filed declarations for all the other state and district offices to be filled this year, and presumably their nominating petitions are now being circulated. All petitions for these offices must be filed not later than April 10.

Many of the aspirants for office who have made formal announcements have not yet filed their declarations, some of which must be done before they can begin the circulation of nominating petitions, or be classified as officially in the race. This is particularly true of the candidates for governor. Eight Republicans, four Democrats and one Progressive have publicly proclaimed their intention to go after the gubernatorial plum; but only six Republicans and two Democrats have thus far filed their declarations.

Some Are Missing. Few candidates for state senators and representatives have filed their declarations. No declarations have been filed from the following senatorial districts: First, Marion; second, Linn; sixth, Jackson; ninth, Benton and Polk; tenth, Yamhill; twentieth, Umatilla, and twenty-third, Baker. No declarations have been filed from the following representative districts: Fourth (two to elect), Douglas; fifth (one to elect), Cook; sixth (one to elect), Coos and Curry; seventh (two to elect), Josephine; eighth (two to elect), Jackson; ninth (one to elect), Douglas and Jackson; tenth (one to elect), Benton; eleventh (one to elect), Polk; twelfth (two to elect), Yamhill; fourteenth (one to elect), Tillamook and Yamhill; fifteenth (three to elect), Washington; sixteenth (one to elect), Clackamas and Columbia; twentieth (two to elect), Crook; twenty-first (two to elect), Crook; twenty-second (one to elect), Morrow and Umatilla; twenty-third (two to elect), Umatilla; twenty-fifth (one to elect), Union; twenty-sixth (one to elect), Baker; twenty-seventh (one to elect), Harney and Malheur; twenty-eighth (two to elect), Gilliam, Sherman and Wheeler; twenty-ninth (two to elect), Hood River and Wasco.

In Multnomah county 12 representatives are to be nominated and elected, and 11 candidates have filed declarations. Candidates who have filed for the various offices are as follows: Members of the National Committee, Henry Way to Coos, Portland, Progressive; R. E. Williams, Portland, Progressive; W. H. Canon, Medford, Democrat.

United States Senator. George E. Chamberlain, Portland, Democrat. Representative in Congress, First District. B. F. Jones, Roseburg, Republican.

BOURNE'S WITHDRAWAL REVEALS FINE ITALIAN HAND OF OREGONIAN

If Bourne Had Beaten Both Republican Wing Would Have Supported Hanley.

Jonathan Bourne's announcement yesterday that he would not participate in the senatorial race and its accompanying announcement of the political strategy played by the Oregonian and the old line Republicans has set the politicians abuzz.

It needed only Bourne's withdrawal from the race to reveal the fine Italian hand of the Oregonian in William Hanley's candidacy for the United States senate on an independent ticket. With Bourne out of the game its house of cards fell flat and it was revealed to the public that the anti-Bourne Republicans were playing both ends against the middle.

Had Bourne defeated R. A. Booth of Eugene for the Republican nomination for the Oregonian and the wing of the Republican party favorable to Booth but bitterly opposed to Bourne would have swung behind the candidacy of William Hanley. Had Booth come out victorious over Bourne, their support would have remained with the Eugene man and Hanley would have been left to shift for himself, making the race solely his personal popularity and following.

Had Bourne been chosen as his party's nominee the candidacy of William Hanley in the general election, despite their many pleas for party harmony and unity, would have been a party defeat. The belief is expressed on all sides that they would have repudiated their own party's candidate, even though the necessity had been chosen by a majority of that party, as there would have been but two Republicans pitted against each other for the nomination.

Back in the old days when Statement One was a burning issue the late Harvey Scott editorially proclaimed that it was to be "the knife and the hit" for all Republicans who adopted the statement. With the knife now menacingly out for Bourne, it is pointed out the Oregonian's policy has evidently remained unchanged.

Hanley's independent candidacy was (Concluded on Page Four, Column One.)

A SURE SIGN OF SPRING

STILL MORE OFFICES THAN OFFICE-SEEKERS IN STATE-AT-LARGE

Many Formally Announced Have Failed to File Necessary Declarations at Salem

(Salem Bureau of The Journal.) Salem, Or., March 7.—Entries have been made for all the state and district offices, aside from state senators and representatives, except for congressman in the second district, superintendent water division No. 2, judge of the fourth judicial district, department, and judge of the eleventh judicial district. One or more candidates have filed declarations for all the other state and district offices to be filled this year, and presumably their nominating petitions are now being circulated. All petitions for these offices must be filed not later than April 10.

Many of the aspirants for office who have made formal announcements have not yet filed their declarations, some of which must be done before they can begin the circulation of nominating petitions, or be classified as officially in the race. This is particularly true of the candidates for governor. Eight Republicans, four Democrats and one Progressive have publicly proclaimed their intention to go after the gubernatorial plum; but only six Republicans and two Democrats have thus far filed their declarations.

Some Are Missing. Few candidates for state senators and representatives have filed their declarations. No declarations have been filed from the following senatorial districts: First, Marion; second, Linn; sixth, Jackson; ninth, Benton and Polk; tenth, Yamhill; twentieth, Umatilla, and twenty-third, Baker. No declarations have been filed from the following representative districts: Fourth (two to elect), Douglas; fifth (one to elect), Cook; sixth (one to elect), Coos and Curry; seventh (two to elect), Josephine; eighth (two to elect), Jackson; ninth (one to elect), Douglas and Jackson; tenth (one to elect), Benton; eleventh (one to elect), Polk; twelfth (two to elect), Yamhill; fourteenth (one to elect), Tillamook and Yamhill; fifteenth (three to elect), Washington; sixteenth (one to elect), Clackamas and Columbia; twentieth (two to elect), Crook; twenty-first (two to elect), Crook; twenty-second (one to elect), Morrow and Umatilla; twenty-third (two to elect), Umatilla; twenty-fifth (one to elect), Union; twenty-sixth (one to elect), Baker; twenty-seventh (one to elect), Harney and Malheur; twenty-eighth (two to elect), Gilliam, Sherman and Wheeler; twenty-ninth (two to elect), Hood River and Wasco.

In Multnomah county 12 representatives are to be nominated and elected, and 11 candidates have filed declarations. Candidates who have filed for the various offices are as follows: Members of the National Committee, Henry Way to Coos, Portland, Progressive; R. E. Williams, Portland, Progressive; W. H. Canon, Medford, Democrat.

United States Senator. George E. Chamberlain, Portland, Democrat. Representative in Congress, First District. B. F. Jones, Roseburg, Republican.

Cheated by Death of Name She Asks

Mrs. Cook, Pendleton, Was to Have Been Married to Man Killed by Her Former Husband.

Pendleton, Or., March 7.—Mrs. Edith Cook, divorced wife of Charles Cook, who on November 1 of last year shot and killed Dave Rowan and then committed suicide, has petitioned the county court to change her name from Cook to Rowan, stating that but for the murder she would have borne the name of Rowan as the wife of the man who was killed by her former husband.

Judge Maloney has set April 11 as the date for the hearing of the petition. Mrs. Cook in her petition sets forth that she was divorced from Charles Cook in 1912, and that she was engaged to be married to David Rowan at the time of the latter's tragic death, and that the wedding was to have taken place within a few days. Because of the act of her former husband, she relates that the name of Cook to Rowan, stating that but for the murder she would have borne the name of Rowan as the wife of the man who was killed by her former husband.

Judge Maloney has set April 11 as the date for the hearing of the petition. Mrs. Cook in her petition sets forth that she was divorced from Charles Cook in 1912, and that she was engaged to be married to David Rowan at the time of the latter's tragic death, and that the wedding was to have taken place within a few days. Because of the act of her former husband, she relates that the name of Cook to Rowan, stating that but for the murder she would have borne the name of Rowan as the wife of the man who was killed by her former husband.

Judge Maloney has set April 11 as the date for the hearing of the petition. Mrs. Cook in her petition sets forth that she was divorced from Charles Cook in 1912, and that she was engaged to be married to David Rowan at the time of the latter's tragic death, and that the wedding was to have taken place within a few days. Because of the act of her former husband, she relates that the name of Cook to Rowan, stating that but for the murder she would have borne the name of Rowan as the wife of the man who was killed by her former husband.

Judge Maloney has set April 11 as the date for the hearing of the petition. Mrs. Cook in her petition sets forth that she was divorced from Charles Cook in 1912, and that she was engaged to be married to David Rowan at the time of the latter's tragic death, and that the wedding was to have taken place within a few days. Because of the act of her former husband, she relates that the name of Cook to Rowan, stating that but for the murder she would have borne the name of Rowan as the wife of the man who was killed by her former husband.

Judge Maloney has set April 11 as the date for the hearing of the petition. Mrs. Cook in her petition sets forth that she was divorced from Charles Cook in 1912, and that she was engaged to be married to David Rowan at the time of the latter's tragic death, and that the wedding was to have taken place within a few days. Because of the act of her former husband, she relates that the name of Cook to Rowan, stating that but for the murder she would have borne the name of Rowan as the wife of the man who was killed by her former husband.

Judge Maloney has set April 11 as the date for the hearing of the petition. Mrs. Cook in her petition sets forth that she was divorced from Charles Cook in 1912, and that she was engaged to be married to David Rowan at the time of the latter's tragic death, and that the wedding was to have taken place within a few days. Because of the act of her former husband, she relates that the name of Cook to Rowan, stating that but for the murder she would have borne the name of Rowan as the wife of the man who was killed by her former husband.

Will Sue to Force Building of Road

Lumber Company Alleges Portland, Eugene & Eastern Co. Did Not Make Good on Alsea Valley Agreement.

Eugene, Or., March 7.—A suit to force the Portland, Eugene & Eastern Railway company to build a line to Alsea Valley to tap over 200,000,000 feet of timber, and asking $125,000 damages for the alleged failure of the built its sawmill at Monroe, two years ago, the railway company agreed to build its line to the Alsea country, but that it has refused to do so. The lumber company has lodged off its land, it alleges, tributary to the existing line of the railroad and is now without logs.

A local attorney is now preparing the papers in the case and will send them to Corvallis on the first mail. It is alleged that when the Alpine company built its sawmill at Monroe, two years ago, the railway company agreed to build its line to the Alsea country, but that it has refused to do so. The lumber company has lodged off its land, it alleges, tributary to the existing line of the railroad and is now without logs.

A local attorney is now preparing the papers in the case and will send them to Corvallis on the first mail. It is alleged that when the Alpine company built its sawmill at Monroe, two years ago, the railway company agreed to build its line to the Alsea country, but that it has refused to do so. The lumber company has lodged off its land, it alleges, tributary to the existing line of the railroad and is now without logs.

A local attorney is now preparing the papers in the case and will send them to Corvallis on the first mail. It is alleged that when the Alpine company built its sawmill at Monroe, two years ago, the railway company agreed to build its line to the Alsea country, but that it has refused to do so. The lumber company has lodged off its land, it alleges, tributary to the existing line of the railroad and is now without logs.

A local attorney is now preparing the papers in the case and will send them to Corvallis on the first mail. It is alleged that when the Alpine company built its sawmill at Monroe, two years ago, the railway company agreed to build its line to the Alsea country, but that it has refused to do so. The lumber company has lodged off its land, it alleges, tributary to the existing line of the railroad and is now without logs.

A local attorney is now preparing the papers in the case and will send them to Corvallis on the first mail. It is alleged that when the Alpine company built its sawmill at Monroe, two years ago, the railway company agreed to build its line to the Alsea country, but that it has refused to do so. The lumber company has lodged off its land, it alleges, tributary to the existing line of the railroad and is now without logs.

A local attorney is now preparing the papers in the case and will send them to Corvallis on the first mail. It is alleged that when the Alpine company built its sawmill at Monroe, two years ago, the railway company agreed to build its line to the Alsea country, but that it has refused to do so. The lumber company has lodged off its land, it alleges, tributary to the existing line of the railroad and is now without logs.

A local attorney is now preparing the papers in the case and will send them to Corvallis on the first mail. It is alleged that when the Alpine company built its sawmill at Monroe, two years ago, the railway company agreed to build its line to the Alsea country, but that it has refused to do so. The lumber company has lodged off its land, it alleges, tributary to the existing line of the railroad and is now without logs.

A local attorney is now preparing the papers in the case and will send them to Corvallis on the first mail. It is alleged that when the Alpine company built its sawmill at Monroe, two years ago, the railway company agreed to build its line to the Alsea country, but that it has refused to do so. The lumber company has lodged off its land, it alleges, tributary to the existing line of the railroad and is now without logs.

A local attorney is now preparing the papers in the case and will send them to Corvallis on the first mail. It is alleged that when the Alpine company built its sawmill at Monroe, two years ago, the railway company agreed to build its line to the Alsea country, but that it has refused to do so. The lumber company has lodged off its land, it alleges, tributary to the existing line of the railroad and is now without logs.

A local attorney is now preparing the papers in the case and will send them to Corvallis on the first mail. It is alleged that when the Alpine company built its sawmill at Monroe, two years ago, the railway company agreed to build its line to the Alsea country, but that it has refused to do so. The lumber company has lodged off its land, it alleges, tributary to the existing line of the railroad and is now without logs.

A local attorney is now preparing the papers in the case and will send them to Corvallis on the first mail. It is alleged that when the Alpine company built its sawmill at Monroe, two years ago, the railway company agreed to build its line to the Alsea country, but that it has refused to do so. The lumber company has lodged off its land, it alleges, tributary to the existing line of the railroad and is now without logs.

A local attorney is now preparing the papers in the case and will send them to Corvallis on the first mail. It is alleged that when the Alpine company built its sawmill at Monroe, two years ago, the railway company agreed to build its line to the Alsea country, but that it has refused to do so. The lumber company has lodged off its land, it alleges, tributary to the existing line of the railroad and is now without logs.

A local attorney is now preparing the papers in the case and will send them to Corvallis on the first mail. It is alleged that when the Alpine company built its sawmill at Monroe, two years ago, the railway company agreed to build its line to the Alsea country, but that it has refused to do so. The lumber company has lodged off its land, it alleges, tributary to the existing line of the railroad and is now without logs.

'AFFINITY EARLE' AND HIS LATEST GUILTY OF KIDNAPING CHILD

They Are Sentenced to Prison by French Courts but Term Is Technical.

Romorantin, France, March 7.—Perdunné Finney Earle and his latest "affinity," Miss Charlotte Hermann of Rutherford, New Jersey, were found guilty today of the kidnaping of Earle's 8-year-old son Harold from a private school at Lamotte-Beaurivon. Earle was sentenced to two months' imprisonment and Miss Hermann to one month, both sentences to date from the time of their arrest in Norway. Both were therefore liberated tonight. Earle was also fined $5 and Miss Hermann $3. Madame Fischbacher, the divorced first wife of Earle and mother of the boy Harold, was awarded $1400 damages.

Earle this morning changed the white rose worn in his button hole yesterday for a big pink camelia. "I may not be free this evening," he said to the reporters as he sat in the dock.

Miss Hermann was attired in a less showy costume than yesterday with a costly lace collar and a small black hat. She smiled and chatted with Earle across the court.

Fashionable Admirer Earle. Fashionable women again filled every corner of a dozen flanking the judge on the bench. Most of the time they had no eyes except for Earle, who basked in their gaze, occasionally smiling.

Resuming his speech, M. Fischbacher's lawyer, Maitre Boppon, dwelt scornfully on Earle's notion of his own importance when he acknowledged a great personage. Earle had explained the wearing of a disguise when he went to the school to take Harold away by saying that the American newspapers had persecuted him. "Look at the way they treat Wilson and Roosevelt," he said.

M. Boppon anathematized Earle's proposal to his first wife, that she enter with him and Julia Kuttner into a "marvelous trinity of love and mutual understanding." The lawyer emphasized the fact that from May, 1913, until June, 1913, Earle did not once

Resuming his speech, M. Fischbacher's lawyer, Maitre Boppon, dwelt scornfully on Earle's notion of his own importance when he acknowledged a great personage. Earle had explained the wearing of a disguise when he went to the school to take Harold away by saying that the American newspapers had persecuted him. "Look at the way they treat Wilson and Roosevelt," he said.

M. Boppon anathematized Earle's proposal to his first wife, that she enter with him and Julia Kuttner into a "marvelous trinity of love and mutual understanding." The lawyer emphasized the fact that from May, 1913, until June, 1913, Earle did not once

Resuming his speech, M. Fischbacher's lawyer, Maitre Boppon, dwelt scornfully on Earle's notion of his own importance when he acknowledged a great personage. Earle had explained the wearing of a disguise when he went to the school to take Harold away by saying that the American newspapers had persecuted him. "Look at the way they treat Wilson and Roosevelt," he said.

M. Boppon anathematized Earle's proposal to his first wife, that she enter with him and Julia Kuttner into a "marvelous trinity of love and mutual understanding." The lawyer emphasized the fact that from May, 1913, until June, 1913, Earle did not once

Resuming his speech, M. Fischbacher's lawyer, Maitre Boppon, dwelt scornfully on Earle's notion of his own importance when he acknowledged a great personage. Earle had explained the wearing of a disguise when he went to the school to take Harold away by saying that the American newspapers had persecuted him. "Look at the way they treat Wilson and Roosevelt," he said.

M. Boppon anathematized Earle's proposal to his first wife, that she enter with him and Julia Kuttner into a "marvelous trinity of love and mutual understanding." The lawyer emphasized the fact that from May, 1913, until June, 1913, Earle did not once

Resuming his speech, M. Fischbacher's lawyer, Maitre Boppon, dwelt scornfully on Earle's notion of his own importance when he acknowledged a great personage. Earle had explained the wearing of a disguise when he went to the school to take Harold away by saying that the American newspapers had persecuted him. "Look at the way they treat Wilson and Roosevelt," he said.

M. Boppon anathematized Earle's proposal to his first wife, that she enter with him and Julia Kuttner into a "marvelous trinity of love and mutual understanding." The lawyer emphasized the fact that from May, 1913, until June, 1913, Earle did not once

VOTE ON REPEAL OF CANAL TOLLS WEEK MARCH 23

Adamson and Underwood Agree Two Days Will Be Sufficient House Debate; Opposition Will Be Fair.

NO CAPTIOUS EFFORT TO DELAY THE VOTING

Underwood Announces He Will Vote and Speak Against Repeal.

(United Press Special Wire.) Washington, March 7.—A tentative agreement was reached tonight by house leaders to vote on the repeal of "free Panama toll exemption" during the week beginning March 23. Underwood and Chairman Adamson of the house interstate commerce commission, agreed upon this course. The debate in the house will be limited to two days, according to present plans.

There will be no capitious effort on those opposed to the repeal to prevent its consideration, said Mr. Underwood tonight. "I am going to speak and vote against the repeal," Adamson and Underwood agreed that two days' general debate should be sufficient. The time will be divided, not between the Democrats and Republicans, but between those opposing and favoring the repeal.

Representative Knowland of California tonight began preparing the similar and began preparing the interstate commerce commission protesting against the repeal. He said it would be "blistering and stinging" criticism of the president's policy. Representative La Follette, Progressive, will sign the Knowland report.

Representative Knowland of California tonight began preparing the similar and began preparing the interstate commerce commission protesting against the repeal. He said it would be "blistering and stinging" criticism of the president's policy. Representative La Follette, Progressive, will sign the Knowland report.

Representative Knowland of California tonight began preparing the similar and began preparing the interstate commerce commission protesting against the repeal. He said it would be "blistering and stinging" criticism of the president's policy. Representative La Follette, Progressive, will sign the Knowland report.

Representative Knowland of California tonight began preparing the similar and began preparing the interstate commerce commission protesting against the repeal. He said it would be "blistering and stinging" criticism of the president's policy. Representative La Follette, Progressive, will sign the Knowland report.

U. S. AND BRITAIN HAVE AGREEMENT OVER THE MEXICAN SITUATION

All Indications Point to Concurrence of Action; Fall to Denounce Secretary.

By John Edwin Kevin, Staff Correspondent of the United Press. Washington, March 7.—President Wilson will be asked on Monday to assume a frank attitude on the Mexican situation, Senator Fall, admitted loan of the present "watching and waiting" policy, if tonight that he will do this in person. His action may precipitate in the upper house of congress developments which will show the first time just what is really behind the public policy of the administration in dealing with Mexico.

Even the senators who have accepted without question the suggestion of the president that the less said about the subject the less likely may be regretted, are chafing under the secret attitude of President Wilson and Secretary Bryan. Bryan, heretofore loquacious on main affairs, may not only emulate the sphinx but when asked direct questions on subjects, the innermost secrets of which are ascertainable from public documents, simply declines to reply to civil questions. This was especially noticeable today when asked regarding the truth of a report of what the president had already denied, he assumed an angry