NEW GOLF COURSE AT GEARHART WILL BE ONE OF VERY FINEST

During 1914 Season Temporary 18-Hole Course Will. Be Provided at Beach.

SPECIAL GRASS SEEDS WILL BE PLANTED OUT

Length of the Course Will Be 6100 Yards; Distance From Tees.

Oregon can boast of a golf course that resembles the courses of England and Scotland, when the new 18 hole course at Gearhart is completed. This course when completed will be one of the finest, if not the finest, on the Pacific coast. It is full of natural hazgards and the turf is springy. The course as pictured in the above photograph will not be completed until 1915, but during the 1914 season, a temporary 18 hole course will be made so that the golfers spending the summer at Gearhart will not have to content themselves by playing on the old nine hole course.

Special grass seed will be planted on the course before the opening of the 1914 season and after the close of the coming season. In 1915 this course will rival any on the Pacific coast for springy turf. Matches can be played on this course 10 minutes after a hard rainfall, because of the sandy soil.

The length of the course will be 6100 yards. The longest hole will be the sixteenth one, which is a distance of 570 yards from the tee. There will be several other long holes with dis-tances varying from 400 to 500 yards. The distances from the tees to the Golf experts, who have walked over the course, state that it is the most natural course on the Pacific coast and will undoubtedly be very popular during the golf season. Last year the course was crowded with players and the appeal for a larger course was so great that the Gearhart people decided to install the 18 hole course.

An effort will be made during the holding of the Pacific northwest championship tournament in Seattle this year to secure the 1915 tournament for Gearhart. If this tournament can be in San Francisco, will undoubtedly en- shape can be started. ter the northwestern tournament.

W. W. NAUGHTON WAS STANDARD AUTHORITY ON FISTIC MATTERS

Dean of Sporting Writers Started in Life as Printer in New Zealand.

EARLY IN LIFE WAS ALL-AROUND ATHLETE

Talent for Writing on Sports Became Evident After Coming to America.

William Walter Naughton who died at his home in San Francisco March 10 was the dean of American sporting writers and a standard authority on all matters pertaining to pugilism.

He was born in Auckland, N. Z., July 31, 1854, and was a man of large physique. Early in life he leared the printer's trade securing his first employment "at the case" in the composing room of the New Zealand Herald. He soon acquired a reputation as a writer of clever verse and paragraphs. In the field of sports he gained a reputation as a boxer, runner, carsnan, swimmer and rifle shot. In 1886 he left his native country and came to San Francisco joining the reportorial staff of the San Francisco Chronicle. A few days after his arrival he wrote an account of a Fourth of July celebration that attracted wide attention. Before the days of the typewriter Mr. Naughton became known as a man who could turn out copy faster than any man on the coast. Talent for Writing "Sports,"

In 1887 the reporting by Mr. Naughon of the old bay district tract horse races and the Sullivan-Ryan and Burke-Dempsey prize fights showed that he had a marked talent for that line of work and he gradually drifted into the specialty of writing "sports." While on a flying visit to Australia and New Zealand in the latter part of 1887 he arranged to supply American sporting news to Australian papers, notably to the Sydney Referee, a connection that he kept up through

Mr. Naughton's account was so lively and convincing that it aroused great interest In the old days of bare knuckle fighting and when rings had to be pitched by stealth in remote places Mr. Naughton described the battles John L: Sullivan and Jake Kilrain in Mississippi and of Sullivan and Charlie Mitchell in Florida. Since the coming in of the padded glove and the Marquis of Queensberry rules there has hardly been a championship contest in the United States that Mr. Naughton was not at the ringside writing his widely read descriptions.

His book, "Kings of the Queensberry Realm," is in every sporting library and will long remain as an authority in pugilisti history. In private life Mr. Naughton was genial man and a good companion. In 1895 he married Miss Annabelle Laurie by whom he is survived together with a son and a daughter. At the time of his death Mr. Naughton was president of the San Francisco Press club.

n the big show. Then the Braves traded him to Chicago, and Chicago shipped him to Toronto. Now he has been sold to the Wichita Western league club. Twenty-five players are on the roster of the South Portland Colts. Manager Scott will hold the first workout this afternoon at 1:30 o'clock on the South Portland Bottoms.

In Covaleski Williams and Cavet, Manager Jennings, of the Tigers, believes he has a trio from which a dependable southpaw pitcher will be developed.

Larry Lajole, who has been detained in Florida several weeks by the illness of his wife, has joined the Cleveland Naps at Athens, Ga. The great second sacker looks to be in tip-top condition.

After giving "Rabbit" Maranville the "once over" Johnny Evers declared that the Braves' shortstop is destined to be one of the greatest performers in baseball.
