

SCENIC BEAUTIES OF ALASKAN TRIP LEAVE LASTING IMPRESSION

Glacial Formations Lend Charm to Traveler and Waterfalls Delight the Eye.

GREAT MINE DESCRIBED

Treadwell Property Heavy Producer; Juneau District Appears to Be Heavily Mineralized.

By Fred Lockley.

If Portland people knew how delightful the Alaska trip is the Stetson would have every afternoon engaged for every trip.

From the forecastle head I counted 19 waterfalls in sight at one time on one side of the channel. The snow on some of the lesser peaks is fast melting and throwing over the green slope of the mountains a hundred lacey-like veils of spray.

Must Be Handy. I asked the captain what the duties of a sailor were. "Well a good sailor must be a skilled mechanic of great ability," the captain responded.

How many fathoms, not how many feet deep is the channel? Aboard ship you never hear the expression, "How many miles are we going an hour?" Instead you will hear, "She is making about 11 knots."

Many Met Death. In the early days a good many fatal accidents took place with explosives and the workmen frequently went to glory and into fragments at the same instant, as a result of an unexpected blast.

Juneau Is Visited. We spent part of last Sunday in Juneau, which is at the head of the Gastineaux channel, and is the capital of Alaska.

How much this largest gold mine in the world has produced since Mr. Treadwell paid $450 for the two original claims I do not dare to state, for no one would believe the figures.

Just as Jumbo mountain rises behind Missoula, Montana, so Jumbo mountain rises back of Treadwell and the village of Douglas.

Juneau is in the center of the famous Juneau gold belt, which runs from Windham Bay north to near the head of the Lynn canal.

from Windham Bay north to near the head of the Lynn canal, a distance of some 100 miles. It is worth coming a thousand miles to see the glaciers near Juneau.

As you skirt the shores of Douglas Island you see the workings of the famous Treadwell mine, with its huge "glory hole," from which millions of dollars have been taken.

In the evening we went over to Douglas Island and visited the town of Douglas, near the Treadwell mine. Douglas Island was untouched until 1881.

MORSON IS ASKED TO MAKE STATEMENT ON DESCHUTES PROJECT

State Land Board Wants Receipts, Expenditures and List of Sales by Options.

KAY ALONE OPPOSES

Governor Carries Point for Which He Has Battled at Many Meetings of the State Board.

(Salem Bureau of The Journal.) Salem, Or., April 17.—All of the members of the desert land board, except Treasurer Kay, yesterday afternoon joined with Governor West in demanding that the Deschutes Land company, of which J. E. Morson is president, furnish the board with a financial statement showing the receipts and expenditures of the company and also a description of all the lands in the company's project which have been disposed of by selling options.

This action was a distinct victory for the governor in support of his contention during many stormy sessions of the board that Mr. Morson should be required to furnish this information as the board could act intelligently in protecting the rights of settlers.

Mr. Kay would not vote on the proposition because he said he did not think the board had the right to request this information and if Morson should refuse the board would be in another squabble.

That this information be requested of Morson was suggested in a letter from State Engineer Lewis accompanying his report of his investigation of one unit of the project.

In his motion, the governor stated that the information was wanted so the board could tell whether the company has sold options on land in the project, for which there is no immediate prospect of water, or in the west side unit for which water could be supplied with a comparatively slight expenditure of funds.

Replied to a query from Attorney General Crawford, Governor West said if Mr. Morson can show his ability to go ahead with the project in good faith he will do all he can to help it along.

Mr. Kay asked the governor if he was not allowed to dictate the terms. "I'll agree to any reasonable contract," replied the governor, "and you can write the contract."

"I want to know if you will proceed under the old contract," said Mr. Kay.

"I'm opposed to the old contract because of the straw bond it allows," stated the governor, "but with a new contract I will agree to any reasonable terms the board is of a mind to make."

The secretary of the board was instructed to request the company to have the information desired before the board by April 24, when another meeting will be held.

The Man Who Knows Is the Man Who Wins!

To be ignorant of world geography is unpardonable in this day and age of accurate maps, interesting facts, and widespread knowledge, yet many otherwise well educated people have the hazy kind of notions as to the location, position, size, and importance of countries we hear about every day.

Mexico with nearly a million square miles and sixteen million people is a land most people know nothing about. Our large map showing all the states, mountain ranges, rivers, railroads and cities is a mine of information. The newspaper dispatches mention some Mexico city or state every hour. Here is a land of treachery and intrigue, and civil war. Americans are fleeing to Vera Cruz. The battle at Torreon has decided the fate of the state of Chihuahua. But do you know where Vera Cruz and Torreon and Chihuahua are located? What their extent is, and why they appear so often in the newspaper?

The average man has no conception of China, the new republic, with her four hundred million people. A land of such tremendous force and possibilities should be familiar to every American.

Europe with interest centered in Bulgaria, Serbia, Montenegro and Turkey is always in the limelight. Where are these countries and what is their relative importance? You should know. The Journal's Atlas will tell you. A glance at what this Atlas contains will prove its usefulness and worth.

The Prince of Monaco came to the United States to hunt, and traveled through Colorado and other states. Where is Monaco? Do you know that it is the smallest country in the world? It has only eight square miles of surface, has a standing army of seventy-two soldiers, has a total of seven thousand population, and is supported by the revenue of Monte Carlo, the biggest gambling place in the world.

The Journal's Census Atlas of the World and Panama is a Reference Work, always ready and always at hand. It is a book of large dimensions, substantially bound, and contains maps of Panama, parcels post, state maps, special maps of all the islands, large map of the United States, Asia, Japan, Korea, Europe, Canada, Mexico, etc.
