The Dodge line hear future otherwise we will vary soon as to what we can expect in the near future otherwise we will vary likely have to look to the San Francisco end. The present service is so unsatisfactory that we simply cannot stand for it much longer. The merchants all along the river will give you their business. We are now shipping most of our goods from Portland to Coos Bav and reship from that point to the Siuslaw river. That is too slow and quite a round about way, and to ship on the Elmore boats is simply prohibitory as one does not know what he has to pay from one trip to the other. We have often got to buy our goods over again and if something is not done very soon to get the "Anvil" on the run again this whole business will go to Sha Francisco. We will have to ship on sailing schooners from there. It is rather slow, but preferable to the present arrangements. "Portland is our natural and proper buying point and it looks to me that the wholesale people in Portland would assist in the matter of getting the boat on the run again. They are putting a great deal of money and effort in getting boats on the Alaska run. Would it not be as well for them to take a little better care of what they have closer to home? We have spent on harbor improvements in the last two years $200,000 along with a like sum from the government, and we propose duplicating this in the next two years. The bar is good now and getting better all the time and it will only hear of the propose of the

"I am not sure whether or not vou have ever brought the matter before the Portland people, but if not it might be well to do so as they may assist you in some way to get the boat on the run. They are wide awake and always ready to help a good cause.

"I realize that Portland has a great many calls on her for assistance, but so has any other city of her size and importance. We have that right here at Florence. It will pay her well to take care of what she has so close to flome, and I would advise that you see some of the principal wholesale houses and see just what can be done. We want to do business with Portland if we can. I nder the present conditions it is simply impossible. For ourselves, we cannot keep our stock up. We can sell the goods, but can't get them in to sell and it is not at all pleasant to tell your patrons, from day to day, that we are just out of what they call for.

"This business is growing very rapidly all along the coast, and the merchidly all along the coast, and the merchants are mostly in the habit of going to Portland for what they want. Now, don't you think it would be a good thing to keep them in this habit, and an old habit is not so easily thrown off. In speaking for ourselves I know that we could increase our sales at least $26,000 a year if we could keep our stock up, and there are others just in the same box, and all those things tend to take the snap out of young men who are trying to do business for all there is in it."

To put the Anvil back into a for merly very successful and profitable service requires the raising of $6000 capital from among Portland business ouses interested in the trade opportunity. Preferred stock with an eight per cent guarantee and division of surlus profits is offered, said Mr. Nash. The Anvil has 360 tons carrying capacity and when put eack into service will make three to four trips a month.

The company is asking authorization to charge 10 cents between Portland and Linnton, instead of the present 5 cent rate as fixed by its franchise. The people of Linnton are strenuously opposing a 10 cent fare.

At the same time the commission postponed indefinitely the hearing of the Garden Home case, in which residents of Garden Home and other communities ask that the Oregon Electric be ordered to lower its rate to a flat 5 cent fare between Portland and Garden Home. The representatives of the Garden Home people asked for the postponement to enable the commission to undertake an appraisal of the Oregon Electric's properties.

This means that the application of the Garden Home residents, for a 5 the Garden Home residents, for a 5 ent fare instead of the present charge of 20 cents, cannot be heard some time, as it will be necessary to appraise approximately 120 miles of line.

The Garden Home case is based nuch on the Linnton rate case for he reason that the patrons of the Oregon Electric assert that they are eing discriminated against because Linnton enjoys a 5 cent fare and Garden Home, which is nearer Portland, is called upon to pay 20 cents. The ommutation fare is much lower, lowever

The hearing yesterday was given over largely to testimony of the com-mission's experts, in regard to the eproduction cost of Railways and depreciation. The figwres showed that the cost of hauling passengers between Portland Linnton is 9.6 cents and the fare is cents.
