Memorial Services At Trinity Church

Rev. C. H. H. Bloor, in Pulpit at the Trinity Episcopal Church, Offers Prayers for Shipwreck Dead.

Rev. C. H. H. Bloor, assistant to Dr. Morrison, preached the sermon at the Trinity Episcopal church yesterday morning. The services were largely of a memorial nature as a mark of respect for the late Bishop Scadding. Prayers were said for the family of the late bishop, for the late Mrs. C. H. Lewis, one of the oldest parishioners, and for the families of the Empress of Ireland's victims. The heroes of the wars were also remembered. Rev. Mr. Bloor took for his text Galously disappears from her home and atlans v:22-23, "The fruits of the the New York police force is searching spirit are love, joy, peace, long sufferfor her. Summer Headaches

Many people suffer from headache during the summer months who are free therefrom the balsuch cases an interior examina-tion of the eye reveals a sensitive retina. Such a retina cannot stand the ultra-violet rays of light. There is need of a special quality glass to filter out those injurious rays. This comes under the head of advanced optics and that is where we specialize.

What the Camera Tells About Our Water System

WE HAVE been in the water system business for years have sold thousands of water systems—near Portland we have 150 or 200 of our Mitchell Pneumatic Water Systems that are giving the users satisfactory service. We realize that this widespread use of our system is our best asset and most convincing argument in favor of our plant with an intending purchaser, so we have printed a booklet which we call "Through the Eye of the Camera." It is full of views of homes in this vicinity that are equipped with our system. It tells briefly the principle of operation of the Mitchell System-how it is built, how it is installed and what it does.

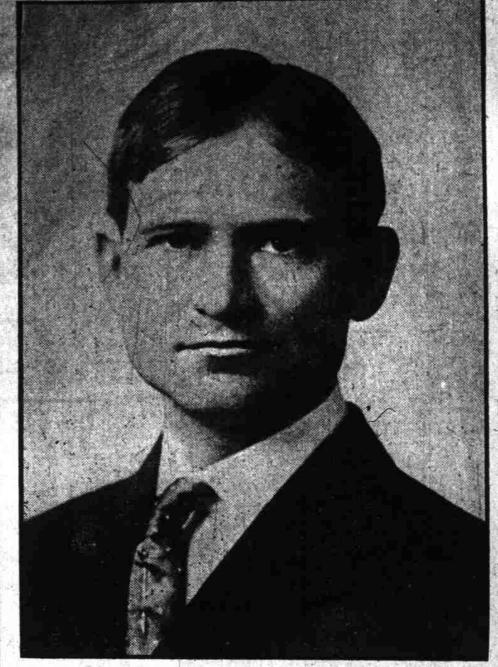

If you are interested in water systems for rural or suburban homes, call for a copy of this booklet or drop us a card and it will be mailed you.

A. W. LAFFERTY

[INCUMBENT]

I hereby declare myself a candidate before all the people, regardless of party affiliations, for reelection to the office in which I am now, and for 31/2 years last past have been, serving all the people, and in which I expect to serve all the people for some years to come.

My name will be printed on the ballot in the regular way. Each voter, on November 3, will be given an opportunity to cast a ballot either approving or disapproving my record in Congress.

Between now and election day I shall make such a campaign as I have never ade before. It is my candid belief that my defeat would postpone for at least en years a realization of National laws giving to the general public the prosperity and share of wealth produced which it deserves. If defeat should be my reward for drafting and fighting for such laws; no Congressman in the future could be expected to take up the same fight.

These are some of the things I am fighting for: The enforcement of the O the majesty of a solemn Act of Congress may be upheld, and that thousands of poor people in Oregon may have homes. I started this litigation September 16 1907 pushed it to a favorable decision before Judge Wolverton in Portland. July 1, 1913, and, while I am writing this announcement, I am in San Francisco fighting the case in the U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals. Ex-Senators Spooner and Gearin and Hon. W. D. Fenton and Mr. Peter F. Dunne are here representing the railroad. Mr. B. D. Townsend, who has represented the Attorney-General since 1907, withdrew six weeks ago, and the Attorney-General is repesented here by Mr. C. J. Smyth, of Omaha, and young Mr. Rabb, of Indiana, lately a special agent of the Land Office at Portland. I am the only man originally in the case against the railroad who is sticking to it, and I shall stick to

2. For Government ownership of railroads, and Government or municipal ownership of all other public monopoles, to the end that the per capita charge for public of all other public monopoles, to the end that the per capita charge for public of all other public monopoles, to the end that the per capita charge for public of all other public of all others are the commercial asset currency provided for in the recent currency law, except that first mortgages on farms, not exceeding 50 per cent of the unlimproversion of the commercial asset currency provided for in the recent currency law, except that first mortgages on farms, not exceeding 50 per cent of the unlimproversional notes, to the end of the prover that first mortgages on farms, not exceeding 50 per cent of the unlimproversional notes, to the end of the following the farmers and the following are now paying to the Money Power, through the farmers, shall go to the Government—to the people—and not to the Rothschilds, Morgans and Rockellers This bill alone would save the American people of an analysis of the farmers alone have borrowed. The Government is better equipped to the farmers have borrowed eight billions of dollars, while there are only $2,50,00,000 in existence in the U. S., or but little more than a third of the amount the farmers alone have borrowed. The Government is better equipped to fact as the conder the Associated Press and the United Press, and their newspapers, are fighting me. The money power controls the news channels of this country. It would be idiotic not to do so, since it has the price.

4. For a law making all press associations common curriers, the press associations to furnish their out-of-town service, and at a remsonable price, just as any citizen may now compel a railroad to carry him as a passenger if the tenders the fare. When I introduced this law, Mr. Bond P. Geddis, agent at Washington for Mr. Ex. When I introduced this law, Mr. Bond P. Geddis, agent at Washington for Mr. Ex. When I introduced this law, Mr. Bond P. "I refuse to be killed off politically by any such blank cartridges. I challenge these newspapers to produce leaden bullets, and show wherein I am unfit. If any person can show where I have ever been immoral, or committed any offense against any law of any country. I will resign from office.

A a cap sheaf to the campaign of newspaper infamy, on the afternoon before the primary large and glaring paid advertisements were inserted in all the afternoon papers, when it was too late for me to expose the fraud in the same papers, headed: "Congressman Lafferty for Prohibition." That piece of trickery alone cost me at least 3000 votes. Every reader of the advertisements supposed I put them in the papers and, of course, those who are against prohibition were incensed that I was using the influence of my political office in that fight. The advertisements were inserted by my political enemies, who well knew the head thereon was false, and who well knew that the printing of such advertisements, supposedly coming from me, would put me in a false light. and cost me thousands of votes. I have taken no personal public stand for or against prohibition, and shall not try to influence the people either way on that subject. I shall vote for the resolution submitting the question to the states, if it comes to a vote before the November election, and if it comes to a vote after that I shall vote as Multnomah County votes on the subject in November. No Congressman has any right to vote otherwise than as desired by a majority of his constituents, when that desire has been clearly expressed with notice in advance that the referendum vote of the people will be followed. That was the very principle of Statement 1.

I want every voter to call to see me at my office, 733 Pittock block, opposite Hazelwood Cream Store. I shall be home in a few days and shall be in my office and engaged in the campaign every day until November 3, except such time as I ma
