Mew Senior Class Taken Into Old-Timers' Association; Weather Is Decidedly Wet.

Oregon Agricultural College, Corvallis, Or., June 9 .- The O. A. C. Alumni association held its annual reunion at the Oregon Agricultural college yesterday. The rainy weather cut down the attendance. About 500 took part in the festivities.

A program occupied the attention of the "grads" from early in the morning to late at night. The big feature of the day was the alumni banquet and business meeting. The guests were served by the girls of the junior class. The present senior class was welcomed into the association, 168 stronk. After a number of speeches, the business meeting was held, at which officers of the organization were elected and the new constitution was adopted.

.B. F. Irvine of Portland presided at the banquet. He was introduced by President C. S., McKnight of the association. President Kerr delivered an address, after which W. Y. Masters of Portland, who is president of the Portland O. A. C. Alumni association, Professor John Fulton, President Weatherford, of the Board of Regents, and Rev. J. A. Emery of Corvallis, also responded to toasts.

The new board of directors, which was selected in the afternoon, includes Mrs. Ida Callahan, Corvallis, '81; W. C. Abrams, Salem, '10; W. Y Masters, Portland, '82; P. A. Cupper, Salem, '04, and Charles Stebbinger, Portland, '07. The officers of the association will be chosen from these di-

the royal party shouted.
"No, we love them," was the answer, and everybody was satisfied. One Continuous Surprise.

Mayor G. A. Bading, who succeeded Mayor Seidel as chief executive of the Wisconsin metropolis, doesn't look like a mayor at all. He is slight of build. but has a rugged face and a deep, musical voice. When he said this morning that the whole western trip had been a continuous round of surprises, with enthusiastic welcomes as he never expected, his eyes glowed with real enthusiasm. "We found every city we passed through fairly thrilling with hope and

"Nothing short of murder will constitute grounds for arrest," he said. "and so long as I can give you anything, ask me-anything beyond my power the Rosarians will give you." Mr. Albee then grabbed Mayor Bading of Milwaukee and yanked him out in front so all the assembled welcomers could see him.

Mr. Bading didn't say anything, however. He just made a low bow and smiled in a way that made the Rosarians yelp many shrill cheers.

Old Acquaintances Benewed. Mounting the automobiles, the party hen made its way to the Commer cial Club, where all were made at home chatting and renewing old times. The Milwaukeeans lent themselves joyfully to the spirit of the day.

After a period of rest at the club, the visitors formed again in an automobile line and joined the Royal Rosarians and Queen Thelma's party on the Bailey Gatzert in their triumphal entry up the river. This took up most of the morning and the whole party returned to the club for luncheon. The official invitation to this func-tion was tendered by R. W. Raymond, manager of the Manufacturers' association, and Colonel David M. Dunne, president of the association, and was accepted for the visitors by Fred W.
