NEW POTATOES IN WEAKER POSITION; VALUES ARE LOWERED

California Shipments in This Di rection Are Heavier and Price Is Down; Local Quality Is Showing Some Improvement.

The market for new potatoes is showing weakness and prices are being cut along the street. Sales of new stock were reported in sacks down to $1.75 per cental by the trade today, but the general price was around $2, with a sprinkling of business as high dozen. with a sprinkling of business as high Receipts from California are again heavier, and, as there has been quite fair increase in the marketing of he home product recently, the wants of the general trade are now quite well Present indications in the trade are for a further lowering of prices in the immediate future. Local new slock, while showing rather mixed quality, s nevertheless improving, and within short time it is expected that a surficient supply will be available to ful the entire wants of the home trade, Even at this time only a very small per cent of the arrivals from Cali-fornia are better than nome offerings, therefore it is to be presumed that with the maturing of the local offerngs the southern stuff will disappear rom the trade for the season.

BERRY MARKET IS STEADY

With more limited offerings, the entire berry market is showing a steadier tone along the street, Rasp berries were rather scarce and the price was well maintained this proces. was well maintained this morning at $1.10 per crate for pints. 15c.

The same company as well as other California concerns were very active at the start of the season in contracting Royal Anne cherries in the Pacific northwest and it is safe to say that more than double the amount of cherries will be shipped this season than during any previous year. The fact that California had a very smail crop this season caused intense competition among the buyers from the south and this brought forth the record prices. The crop in this section is somewhat heavier than former reports indicated.

Rogue Peach Crop Half of Normal

The following summary of the weather and its results for the week ended June 22 on the condition of the principal crops in Oregon is based up-on investigations made by a number of correspondents reporting to the local office of the weather bureau: The week was generally fair; the first part unusually warm and the last part cooler, with moderate rain in northwestern counties Sydney Round Trip Second Class $200. Various tours including Java, China, Japan and Round the World. Send for folder, DCEANIC S. S. CO., 673 Market St., SAN FRANCISCO in northwestern counties.

All crops made satisfactory growth. All crops made satisfactory growth. Cherriles in Rogue river valley are nearly harvested; peaches in that section are doing well and will harvest about 50 per cent of a normal crop, while apples and pears will give nearly a normal crop. In the lower Willamette valley the hot weather the fore part of the week injured some loganberries and strawberries, and the cold and damp weather the last of the week prevented the gathering of the hay crop. A heavy fall of hail occurred Saturday afternoon in this valley, but no serious damage has been reported. Harvesting has begun in the Deschutes valley, hay is nearly all in shock. Barlay is being cut, and the binding of wheat will begin this week under normal weather conditions. It is expected that there will be a good yield, generally, of grains and grasses. Rain is needed for spring sown grains in the lower Deschutes valley. Pasturage continues in good condition. In most sections there is plenty of moisture in the soil for present needs. 9 A. DECISION MOST MOST SIGNIFICANT RATE HEARINGS

face will hesitate before reducing rates Consequences Difficult to Comprehend. "If the commission has the power, which from the opinion rendered seems to be the case, to say when a railroad meeting water competition is exercising undue discrimination they can fix the percentage at any point, which in their judgment may seem best, and can if they desire, eliminate the effect of water competition so far as railroad rates are concerned altogether. "This decision probably means that rates based on market competition are at an end. If I am correct as to this it is difficult to comprehend the consequences that will naturally follow. So far as the particular rates in question are concerned there will not necessarily be many changes as rates have been established for some time very closely in accord with the opinion of the commission.

Country Divided Into Zones. "Portland has nothing to fear from the effect of the decision. It will necessarily have the effect of developing water transportation. In other words, cities and communities that have heretofore relied upon potential water competition for rates will more and more have to use the water to secure the benefit of rates based on There was no supply of cattle reported in the North Portland yards overnight. The trend of the trade contherefore the rate must be lower than to some intermediate point.

"It will also have a tendency to make rates more on a mileage basis. In other words the powers of the commission have been immeasureably increased while that of the traffic manager has been correspondingly reduced. Unquestionably the issue placed directly before the court the necessity of answering the question as to whether or not the traffic managers of the railroads in the exercise of their discretion could name rates based on water or market competition, or whether that power should be taken from tionists. He said his organization was them and rates hereafter be more subsion and based substantially and very largely upon distance.

Our Position Is Stronger. "As I have stated it is impossible in a few words to give any adequate idea call for a mass meeting tonight, at of what this case means. However, which he will submit a plan for a comso far as we are concerned on the coast, if we use the water our position will be even stronger than it was heretofore. The same situation will apply to the use of the inland waters. "If the railroads are not to be permitted to participate in coast business on a competitive basis except at the cost of a reduction of all of their intermediate rates necessarily they will naturally take such coast business as pays them, letting the rest go by water. "It will therefore be quite largely to their interests to build up intermediate territory out of the range of water competition, whereas communities which have water competition will on the other hand, to get the use of their natural advantages, have to use their natural instrumentalities. they do, such communities will not be seriously affected by this decision. On the other hand, communities which have enjoyed rates purely as a result of market competition will unquestionably feel its effect."

BRANDEIS PREDICTS BUSINESS BENEFITS FROM RATE CHANGE

Washington, D. C., June 23 .- Relying on the United States supreme court's decision in the "intermountain rate case," the Interstate Commerce Commission prepared today to put into effect sweeping reductions in transcontinental freight rates. The complete power of the commis-sion over interstate rates and consequent early drastic reduction on "long haul" freight to Spokane, Salt Lake City, Butte, Billings, Reno and other points between the Rocky mountains and the Pacific coast were considered the main outstanding points in the supreme court's decision. All railroads will be required to file with the commission new tariffs reducing rates on transcontinental shipments to "intermountain cities." In many cases the reductions will amount to 20 per cent. The commission's power was sweepingly increased through the validation of the long and short haul amendment. More Power Granted.

The most far reaching effect of the decision is the declaration by the supreme court that all power to initiate or prescribe changes in rates has, "if the commission desires to exercise it." been transferred by congress from the railroads to the commission. Louis Brandels of Boston predicted today that the decision would eventually be of great benefit to the rail- Long Day and an roads.

"It will help business so much," he said, "that before long its effect will not be noticed in the revenues of the railroads, unless it be to increase them. Chicago, June 23.—Wheat options closed with a net loss of 14 @1%c a bushel after an opening that was unchanged for July and September and The supreme court's decision also

The supreme court's decision also opens the way for shippers to recover approximately $10,000,000 from the railroads, it was said.

This sum represents payments of rates made on the old basis while the demand for a reduction was pending in the courts. It was explained, however, that the reparation proposition will have to be handled by the rail. road commission, which will also fix the amounts to be repaid by the transportation companies.

Views of Traffic Men. Expert traffic men further pointed out that the ruling insures interior towns an advantage from the opening of the Panama canal in proportion to the benefits coast cities will derive. It was recognized from the first that in competition with the canal, the transcontinental lines would have to make reductions in charges between the coasts. Many believed, however that interior points would gain nothing, since the competition element would not enter into their cases. The supreme court having held, however, that the companies may not charge more for a short haul than for long haul, it was pointed out that whatever reductions are made to meet the canal's competition will have to be made, in proportion, to both coast and interior cities. Speaker Vows He'll Score Rockefeller

British Airman Getting Beady for Tests of Craft for Voyage Across the Atlantic Ocean.

Hammondsport, N. Aviators from cities throughout the entire east were gathered to see the test. All were favorably impressed by the craft's appearance. From the superstitious, however, there was just one note of pessimism-when the hyerine Masson, the 16 year old girl who was to have christened it with champagne, was unable to break the bottle. and Porte had to do it himself. "Was this an omen of bad luck?" the croakers were asking.

Porte did not seem worried. He spent the forenoon superintending the shipping of the propellers and going minutely over all the ship's parts to see that everything was in order. The trial flight was to be down the Lake Keuka valley 20 miles to Pennyan and
