

ALLIED SCANDINAVIA LIKELY TO BE REALITY SAYS SWEDISH WRITER

Suspicion of Russian Invasion Have Startled People to Need of Preparation.

DEFENSE FACTION STRONG

Sprinkling of Liberals and Socialists Lending Support to Moderates in War Measures.

Sentiment is gaining in favor of a defensive alliance between the Scandinavian countries, particularly between Norway and Sweden, according to A. O. Assar, a prominent newspaper man and lecturer of Stockholm, who arrived here yesterday on a lecture tour. Mr. Assar will speak in his native language this evening at the Central Library, Tenth and Yamhill streets, and his lecture will be illustrated with moving pictures.

"Suspicion of Russian invasion has grown of late, and, apparently, not without foundation," said Mr. Assar, "and this has aroused the people to the full realization of the necessity of being amply prepared for any such emergency. We do not know Russia's plans, nor ambitions, but it may be well to anticipate."

Defensive Measure Popular. "The political situation today in Sweden is governed largely by the agricultural population, recent developments having caused the landowners to take greater interest than was the case a few years ago, when the industrial interests of the country controlled the situation. The Riksdag is divided into three parties, the Moderates, Liberals and Socialists, with the Moderates predominating, supported by some of the Liberals and Socialists in matters pertaining to the defense of the country."

"Emigration from Sweden has decreased very materially in the past few years, as a result of the development of natural resources. Agriculturally and industrially, the country is undergoing a very rapid transformation, and it is, consequently, prosperous to the degree that there is little occasion for the people to emigrate. Keen interest is taken, however, in the Pacific coast, and particularly in the exposition to be held at San Francisco in 1915, and next year a great many tourists may be looked for out here from Sweden. In spite of the great distance they will have to travel."

Films Show Progress. "The visits of these travelers, should, with the opening of the Panama canal to commercial traffic, mean the upbuilding of an extensive commerce between this coast and Sweden, toward which a substantial start has already been made by the inauguration of direct steamship service between Gothenburg and the Pacific coast ports, including Portland."

"The lecture tonight will begin at 8 o'clock. It was originally to have been given at the new hall of the Portland Association."

PRIEST WILL TOUR EUROPEAN COUNTRIES

Father Gregory.

Father Gregory, O. S. B., of Sacred Heart parish, left last night for a four months' tour of Europe. He plans to spend a week or 10 days in New York, sailing on a Hamburg-American liner about July 8.

"I have been closely engaged with my work here for a long time," said Father Gregory, just before taking his train last night, "and I need a rest. My people have been good enough to give me a vacation, and I believe I can get the rest I need by spending the time abroad."

"I shall visit London and the large continental cities, make a trip up the Rhine, climb the Swiss mountains, tour France and Spain, and wind up with a month's visit in Rome. I shall make my headquarters with the Benedictine order, of which I am a member."

Father Gregory intends to be back in Oregon early in November.

Turn Verel, but the plans had to be changed. The films will show the demonstrations of the farmers and students during the recent political crisis, and scenic wonders from the northern part of the country in the strange light of the midnight sun.

Last year was the first year of the fair as a county fair, and the buildings were not near large enough. AINSWORTH SCHOOL REGARDED AS ONE OF THE MOST MODERN

New Structure at Twentieth and Elm Streets, Dedicated Last Night.

LARGE CROWD PRESENT

R. L. Sabin, ex-Chairman of School Board, and Judge Worthup Make Addresses.

In the presence of large crowds from the district, the new Ainsworth school, Twentieth and Elm streets, was formally dedicated last night. The dedication address was made by R. L. Sabin, superintendent of schools. Dan Maloney was chairman.

The new Ainsworth school is considered the most modern and one of the best equipped public schools in the United States. The building is of solid concrete, and is fireproof. The health and comfort of the students was especially taken into consideration when the building was designed, and heating and ventilating equipment is of the newest.

Regular school work of the students was on exhibition in the class rooms. These exhibits included specimens of domestic art, science and manual training. The school was named for Captain J. C. Ainsworth. R. L. Sabin, ex-chairman of the board of education, and Judge H. H. Northrup made short addresses. Miss Margaret Slauson read a paper on the history of Ainsworth school. Mr. Sabin suggested that the paper be filed with the school board. Mrs. Pauline Miller-Chapman and John Claire Montelth gave vocal selections, and Miss Elizabeth Woodbury gave a reading from "The Bluebird." Instrumental music was furnished by the school orchestra.

The exercises were under the auspices of the Parent-Teacher association, and among those in the receiving line were: President-elect Mrs. J. E. Davidson, Past President Mrs. A. H. Slauson and Mrs. D. A. Patullo, Mrs. L. D. Thomas, principal, and Mesdames W. J. Hawkins, Robert Shepherd and George Loewenson.

McGinnis and Whitten Swetford, of Eugene, Or., have been admitted to practice before the interior department.

First Straw Vote Now Being Taken

Returns on Wet-Dry Question Will Begin to Reach Portland Chamber of Commerce During Day.

First returns from the wet-or-dry straw vote being taken by the Portland Chamber of Commerce among its members are expected today, according to Secretary E. C. Giltner, who put all the ballots into the mail last night.

After the trustees of the chamber had decided to take the vote, merely to ascertain the attitude of the members, the Hop Growers, Liquor Dealers' association and Oregon Hotel Men's association sent circulars to all the members several days before they had been apprised officially that the vote had been called. These circulars contained arguments against the proposed prohibitory amendment, and quoted the result of a similar vote in the San Francisco chamber, which was overwhelmingly against prohibition.

Eastern Colleges Grow Less Popular

For First Time in Many Years No Portland Students Are to Graduate From Institutions in East.

For the first time in many years, the graduating classes of eastern colleges are without Portland representatives, according to information reaching the principals of the local high schools. Most of the graduates of the Portland schools have sought their higher training in the schools along the Pacific coast.

Two Portland young men, however, will enter Harvard next fall, if they succeed in passing the examinations under the new plan in force at the institution. They are Henry Fowler of Washington High school, editor of the school paper, the Lens, and William McIndoe of Lincoln High, son of Major J. F. McIndoe.

New Morning Paper Being Talked About

Persons Mentioned in Connection With Rumored Plan Include Congressman Lafferty.

Of the many rumors floating about Portland in regard to the establishment of a new morning paper in this city, one is certainly true, and that is that the proposition is being talked about.

According to Attorney L. M. Lepper, whose name has been connected with the enterprise, there will be no immediate start, but the invasion of the morning field so far as he is concerned, financially responsible parties both in Portland and outside, he says, have been looking over the ground, but have not as yet come to any decision as to just what course they will pursue.

Among the rumors current respecting the proposed morning daily is one to the effect that Congressman A. Walter Lafferty is to be one of the principal backers and that it will be independent in character.

Public Market at Alberta Is Active

Wagons Full of Produce Quickly Disposed of When Housewives Appear For Day's Supplies.

The public market at East Twenty-third street North and Alberta street, conducted by the Alberta Women's improvement club, had another busy day this morning. Eleven wagons and a wheelbarrow full of produce were sold out shortly after 10 a. m. Most of the produce was sold before 12 o'clock, and the busiest hour was between 7 and 8 o'clock. Cooking products brought by two women and produce brought in baskets was sold out quickly.

Next Saturday there will again be a special children's section, with the children handling their own produce and proceeds. Temporary booths will be erected for next Saturday's market, if the city council does not provide booths before that day. Efforts will be made to secure meat, poultry and more eggs for Saturday. Bidding with next week, the market will also be open on Thursdays.

Impressive Service Tomorrow Morning

Bishop of Olympia Will Ordain as Priest the Rev. J. D. Cummins of Albany at Pro-Cathedral.

An ordination service will be held at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning at the Pro-Cathedral of St. Stephen the Martyr, Thirteenth and Clay streets, at which the Right Rev. Frederick W. Keator, bishop of Olympia, will ordain as priest the Rev. J. D. Cummins of Albany.

Mr. Cummins was to have been ordained by the late Bishop Scadding the second Sunday in June but the prelate's death made the carrying out of the original plan impossible. The service, which is to be particularly impressive, is one seldom held in Portland.
