

U. S. REGULARS START ON HIKE TO SEA COAST

Four Hundred and Fifty Men
Are on Way From Vancouver
Barracks to Gearhart for Annual Encampment.

Preceded by 11 big mule-drawn wagons loaded down with tents and rations, 453 men and officers of the Twenty-first infantry, United States regulars, left Vancouver Barracks this morning for the first lap of their march to Gearhart, where they and the Oregon National Guardsmen will hold a 19 day joint encampment beginning July 12.

The regulars will march the entire distance, approximately 125 miles, and will arrive at Gearhart on Sunday, July 12. The distance will be covered leisurely, and an average of about 12 1/2 miles a day will be maintained.

This evening camp will be made at Linder's farm, five and seven-tenths miles from St. Johns on the west side of the Willamette river.

Captain Bugbee, quartermaster of the Twenty-first, was in charge of the wagons. They left the Vancouver ferry on the Oregon shore, at 6:40 a. m., and immediately started for St. Johns over the Columbia boulevard. By 9 o'clock the first five wagons, each drawn by four army mules, were toiling up the Germantown hill road for Linder's farm.

Get Best on Ferry.

Shortly before 11 o'clock the first battalion of four companies, under the command of Major Wilson Chase, swung down the roadway into St. Johns and boarded the ferry. A few minutes later the second battalion, comprising three companies, under the command of Major Ralph H. Van-Deman, appeared and the perspiring troops got a short rest while the ferry bore them across the Willamette. Lieutenant Colonel Morrison and his staff traveled with the second battalion. Each division was followed by an ambulance and two surgeons were in attendance.

Lieutenant Colonel John F. Morrison, who will direct the maneuvers and instruction at Gearhart, is in command of the regulars on the march. Colonel Young, commander of the Twenty-first regiment, his staff, the band, with the headquarters detachment and machine gun platoon, numbering in all about 400 men and officers, remain at the barracks.

The troops were early on the move, but to avoid congestion at the Vancouver ferry across the Columbia and the ferry which transported the troops over the Willamette at St. Johns, they were divided into two provisional battalions and moved at half hour intervals. The troops were preceded by the wagon train which was likewise moved in two divisions.

Soldiers Joke Civilians.

The men marched in easy formation, two abreast, and were attired in the regulation khaki uniform. They traveled light, but they had rifles, knapsacks, canteens and cartridge belts.

As they marched they whiffed away the time "joking" passively talking among themselves and apparently enjoying themselves hugely, despite the heat and dust which the tramp of many feet kicked up in the roadway.

Linder's farm is almost six miles from the west side landing of the St. Johns ferry. Here the troops will rest for the night and tomorrow will march 16 7-10 miles to Banks.

On the fourth only seven miles will be covered and camp will be pitched at Buxton. The fifth will find them at Mist, 11 miles farther on and the sixth will put them at Powell's farm, 15 miles to the westward. On the seventh they will cover 16 miles to Peterson's farm, and on the eighth will traverse only seven miles. They will reach Astoria on the 11th, and on the evening of the 12th will be at Gearhart, their destination. The distance covered in the march will apply to the annual march which all troopers must make each year.

Guard to Leave Monday.

The National Guardsmen will concentrate in Portland and leave by special train for Gearhart Monday forenoon at 11 o'clock, excepting Battery A, Field Artillery, which will leave Portland on Sunday the 12th. In addition to the 12 companies of infantry composing the Third infantry, O. N. G., approximately 500 militiamen of the First Idaho National Guard will be aboard Monday's special.

They will join in the encampment by special request. The encampment this year will be probably the largest ever held in Oregon, and it is anticipated that fully 2000 men and officers will participate. Last year the guardsmen were given the fair. Menet's program this year has been so arranged that maneuvers will be held in the forenoon only, and the men will be at liberty to do what they please in the afternoon.

French Angry at Customs Inquisition

Chamber May Decide to Exhibit at San Francisco After All, But Nation
Feels It Has Cause for Complaint.

Paris, July 2.—Because a parliamentary committee had declared in favor of participation in the Panama-Pacific exposition, Minister of Commerce Thomson today asked David Menet, president of the chamber of commerce to use his influence to have the chamber revoke its recent decision to not participate in the fair. Menet refused. He said members of the chamber of commerce were angry at "American customs inquisition."

It was expected, however, that the chamber of deputies would pass a resolution providing for government participation before July 14.

Further on July 2.—Secretary of State Bryan was officially notified today that the Portuguese senate yesterday had appropriated $100,000 for a government exhibit at the Panama Pacific exposition.
