

WRIST WATCHES PART OF LOOT FOUND UPON CONFESSION ROBBERS

Vouchers and Drafts Not Redeemable Were Also Taken From the Express Car.

STONER SLIGHTLY DEAF

Captured Men Say "No Shooting" Was Part of Understanding.

(Special to the Journal.) Pendleton, Or., July 6.—An inventory of the goods found on Stoner and Meadors showed the value of the whole would not exceed $300. They had on their person $251.10 and claimed about $50 of that belonged to them. From the express company they got four bracelet watches with chains valued at $45 each. Five other watches, four were rings of various designs, were consigned to Feldenhelm of Portland and $165.59 in vouchers and drafts which were not redeemable. The express was turned over to the local agent and will be sent on to the owners.

"Meadors and I only agreed to accompany Manning in conditions we would not do any shooting," said Stoner this morning. "We left all details to him. He had talked to me about this thing for a long time, but I had always put him off. Meadors joined our outfit last April, and he was taken in on the deal. Prospects of easy money had appealed to us. We had no plans of escape, and intended letting circumstances shape it. We did not know that Manning had been killed until we picked up a paper along the tracks Saturday.

"We had decided that we would not offer resistance if officers came up on us, and for that reason had no guns. We were going into La Grande, and intended working east from there."

Stoner, who was guarding passengers, is slightly deaf, and says he did not hear shots. He says Meadors was very excited when he called him from the car.

Added to the list of stolen articles are four rings, making a total value of about $1500 for the loot.

PHILIPPINE BILL WILL NOT PASS SENATE AT THIS SESSION, BELIEF

President Wilson Expects the House to Pass It, However; Williams Incident.

By John Edwin Nevin. Washington, July 6.—President Wilson admitted today that he had notified European governments that Minister Williams has no right to speak for America in discussing Alaska. The president, however, would not discuss his request that Williams resign as minister to Greece.

OFFICIALS ARE DILATORY

Election officials of precincts 13, 128 and 155 are dilatory about bringing in their duplicate tally sheets, according to County Clerk Coffey, and efforts will be made to bring them to time. Circuit Judge McGinn or the Benson-McNary contest over the Republican nomination for the supreme court may be settled. Over a week has passed since the order was made.

Small Blaze Extinguished.

A fire starting from spontaneous combustion among oil rags at the top of the elevator shaft in the Edman, Wolfe & Co. building at Fifth and Washington streets, called the department out shortly after noon today. The blaze was extinguished with hand extinguishers without any material damage having been done.

Bankruptcy Petitions Filed.

Petitions in bankruptcy were filed with the federal court today by attorneys for Barnet Ball, ladies' tailor, 411 Morrison street, debts $4023.16 and assets $5778.35; E. Allen Bawerft, residence 1550 Alameda street, debts $1120.70 and assets $750; and Ed Madison, a Portland railway switchman, debts $401.75, assets $220.

Good Beer

is a good tonic, especially during the hot Summer months.

Egel Head

has found favor in Portland homes on account of its purity and pleasing individual flavor. You can't do better than order a case.

Portland Brewing Co.

Feathers and Bugs Are Found in Flour

Health Inspectors Make Descent on Chinese Restaurant Proprietor to Make Place Sanitary. Feathers and bugs were found by health inspectors in the flour used in the Nam Kin Low restaurant at Fourth and Flinders streets Saturday, when they inspected the place. The proprietor of the restaurant was before the municipal court this morning, where he was fined $5 for conducting an unsanitary kitchen. Mrs. Grace Braunford and E. L. Melton, health officers, made the inspection and arrest. They say they found chicken feathers and small bugs in the flour that was in the receptacles for flour being used. They also found no outlet for drainage. The proprietor agreed to hire a white man who is able to suggest remedies.

W. W. HEARINGS AT TARRYTOWN TO AWAIT A QUIETER OCCASION

Bomb Explosion Causes the Leaders to Ask and Receive Continuance From Court.

(United Press Leased Wire.) Tarrytown, N. Y., July 6.—The 11 men and women accused here of disturbing the peace by demonstrating against the Rockefeller were granted a continuance today until July 20. Headed by Alexander Berkman, the party arrived from New York at 11:45 a. m. Six policemen awaited them at the railroad station and escorted them to Justice Moorehouse's court room. The crowd was enormous but it gave no signs either of sympathy with or hostility toward the visitors. Attorney Sheffield, their lawyer, asked the postponement, explaining that the death of Arthur Caron and Charles Berg, who were involved in the case, the bomb explosion in New York Saturday, together with the illness of other material witnesses, made it difficult for them to present their evidence today.

N. Y. POLICE HUNTING FOR ASSOCIATE OF DEAD BOMB MAKER

New York, July 6.—The police are hunting for Michael Murphy, the closest associate of Arthur Caron, in whose room Saturday's explosion occurred. The explosion's victims proved yesterday to have been four in number—Caron, his secretary, Charles Berg, whose room adjoined his; Charles Hanson and Charles Berg, a friend of Caron. An earlier report was that a fifth person, the police believe, had perished, but this proved to be an error.

War of Yesteryear Is Revived Again

Did McKinley Expect to Fight Germany? Queries Writer, Who Asserts That Conflict Was Imminent. Berlin, July 6.—Did President McKinley expect to fight Germany during the war with Spain? Did he expect to fight Germany during the war with Germany? A writer, who uses the pseudonym of Carlos Adolphus and who is understood to be a former prominent diplomat, declares that this dispatch was sent following closely on the Dewey-Diaziro dispute at Manila. The statement is made in a book entitled: "Julien in the Land of Liberty," which consists of a series of letters describing a trip to America.

DISAPPEARANCE MYSTERY

San Francisco, July 6.—The police admit today that after a 24 hour search they had been unable to find any trace of Mrs. Helen Frances Osborne, who disappeared Saturday morning at 10:30 a. m. from her home at 1200 Oakley St. Osborne, the woman's husband, could give no reason for his wife's disappearance. He said that he married her had been happy and that his wife was not a stranger from any malady that might cause her to disappear.

Sister States Will Aid Products Show

Utah and Idaho to Send Exhibits, Says William McMurray, to Big Event to Be Held Here. Utah and Idaho are going to join Oregon in making the Land Product and Manufactures show the premier event of the northwest's history, according to reports brought home today by William McMurray, general manager agent of the O.-W. R. & N. Co. Mr. McMurray called upon Governor Spry of Utah and Governor Haines of Idaho, president of the joint committee just what is being attempted.

Gets $6111 Verdict.

A verdict for $6111 was returned this morning in Circuit Judge Gates' court in the case of Taylor Perkins against J. W. Benson. Perkins received a broken leg in a collision between his motorcycle and Benson's automobile, which occurred April 18, 1913, on a hill at the time Judge Gates was coming down the hill at the time, according to Perkins. Perkins asked for $20,000 damages.

HUERTA ELECTED IN MEXICO YESTERDAY AS PRESIDENT AGAIN

Farcical Election Does Not Alter Mexican Situation Materially; Few Voted. AMERICANS ARE CHEERED

Surprising Demonstration in Favor of "Fence" and "Americans" Made in Vera Cruz Today.

(United Press Leased Wire.) Vera Cruz, July 6.—Sunday's farcical "general election" was not considered here today as having changed the situation at Mexico City. That President Huerta would get an overwhelming majority of the votes, as he had been elected all along a foregone conclusion. It was deemed certain also that the election would be declared invalid on account of the small number of voters. Huerta's name would again be designated "provisional president."

There was so little pretense as to observing the usual election day formalities that many persons here wondered why it was thought worth while even to pretend that a contest of the kind was being held. Few votes were cast outside the district under Huerta's direct control. At one of the principal polling places in Mexico City only 40 ballots were deposited and there were no regular tickets in the field.

The few votes which were not cast for Huerta were for Pedro Lascurain, who was the late President Madero's minister of foreign affairs; Rufino Velasco, who unsuccessfully defended Torreón against General Villa, and General Garcia Pena, another federal commander. Refugees who arrived today from the capital said three railroad coach loads of Huerta's relatives and family connections, with their immediate entourages, were on their way to Puerto Mexico, presumably to take ship at once or to where they could get away by water at a moment's notice.

The party was said to include Huerta's daughter and two sons, his mother-in-law, a woman of 90, General Juarez and Marco Maas, and other foreign minister. That Huerta himself would soon make an attempt to escape from Mexico City was generally predicted. There was a mysterious though pleasing demonstration of pro-Americanism here today, quantities of yellow flags making their appearance, which the people waved enthusiastically throughout the whole of yesterday. "Viva la paz! Viva los Americanos!" ("Hurrah for peace! Hurrah for the Americans!")

Expect Huerta to Decamp.

Washington, D. C., July 6.—News that President Huerta had turned over his position to Pedro Lascurain was expected here today at any time. An acceptance was also looked for from General Carranza to the invading forces. The constitutional representatives to discuss Mexico's affairs unofficially with the Mexico City envoys now in this country. Argentine minister Nacion was keeping in close touch with the rebel junta. The expectation was that the federal and rebel delegations would hold their sessions in New York city.

Departs for Chicago To Attend Meeting

Assistant General Manager Campbell of Southern Pacific Company Left for Chicago. Assistant General Manager D. W. Campbell of the Southern Pacific company started back to Chicago this morning to attend the adjourned session of the wage conference between the O.-W. R. & N. Co. and the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, and W. S. Carter, president of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, who is general manager of the Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis and Omaha, is chairman of the conference committee of managers, which is composed of 12 operating officials.

Huerta's Family to Sail, Well Heeled

Dictator's Family and Their Associates Will Reach Vera Cruz July 11 En Route to Leave With $40,000. Vera Cruz, July 6.—President Huerta's two sons, daughter and mother-in-law, Generals Juarez and Marco Maas and other family members, including the Mexico City cabinet will arrive here July 11, it was stated today, on the steamship Espagna, bound from Puerto Mexico, to Mexico. The family is said to have with them $40,000 in drafts, bought from Mexico City banks.

Robber Locks Man In Closet, Escapes

Aberdeen, Wash., July 6.—Gus Saugstad, proprietor of the Brook saloon, here today told the police that he was just as he was closing his place, by a robber who robbed the cash register, the safe and the till of about $200. Saugstad said the robber locked him in a closet, while the robber escaped.

Three Automobiles Stolen.

Three automobiles stolen in the past few days are being sought by Sheriff Word. Lee Martin's automobile was stolen from his garage at 768 Schuyler street on the night of July 3. R. E. Urfer lost his machine Sunday.

Prohibition Speaker To Make Address

Saloon Will Be Attacked in Discussion on "Portland After Dark" by Haskie Albert Howell.

"Portland After Dark" is the subject of a lecture to be given at 8 o'clock tomorrow night at the Curtis Park tent pavilion, Foster road, corner of Fifty-ninth street, by Haskie Albert Howell, superintendent of the Portland "out-to-wild" campaign, and manager of the Oregon Prohibition news service.

Mr. Howell promises that his talk will be "startling, sensational, thrilling and entertaining." He will have as his thesis that Portland is more dangerous and wicked after dark with saloons than it would be without. Mr. Howell will submit figures to the effect that the city uses 50 per cent more police at night than it does for daytime, although it is as bright as many are on the streets after dark. He further claims that one-half of the police are used on the west side where the bulk of the saloons are, although 80 per cent of the population of Portland lives on the east side. Mr. Howell also attempts to show that liquor is the cause of crime by stating that the city uses 50 per cent more police at night than it does for daytime, although it is as bright as many are on the streets after dark.

GERLINGER VS. FRANK ALIENATION SUIT IS SETTLED, SAYS TRIAL

Defendant Pays $2500 to Save, It Is Stated, Innocent People Publicity. The suit of E. E. Gerlinger against Lloyd Frank for alienating the affections of Mrs. Gerlinger, which was to have begun before Circuit Judge McGinn this morning, is not to be tried. Instead it was settled out of court this morning at a conference of the attorneys on both sides for a consideration of $2500, which was paid in cash to Mr. Gerlinger. The original amount asked was $200,000.

CITY WILL MAKE TESTS

Cast Iron Material Must Meet Local Requirements. Hereafter all castron used for city work, such as manhole covers, water grates and pipes, are to be tested by the city to see if the material is up to standard. Notice is being given today to all contractors engaged in such work that a test must first be made before the castron material is turned over to the city. The test is to be made by the city before the castron material is turned over to the city.

Airmen Surprised When Told of Trail

The balloon "Springfield," which took part in the Rose Festival balloon race, landed on the south side of Bull Run lake instead of Blue lake, as thought by Roy Donaldson and Wilber Knapp, who made the trip, according to L. S. Kaiser, superintendent of the city water works, who has returned from a four-day journey through the city reserves. The airmen, who were on their way to the Bull Run river, the men say, Roy Kaiser, must have crossed a trail four feet in width which is plainly visible. Mr. Kaiser expressed surprise because the balloonists did not follow this trail instead of going to the river and following its course.

Cross Continent To Be Married

Dubuque Couple Carry Out Desire to Be Joined in Matrimony by Their Old Pastor. Berkeley, Calif., July 6.—In order that they might be married by the Rev. J. J. McKelvey, pastor of the Episcopal church, Frederick and Katherine Anna Papp, both of Dubuque, Iowa, journeyed all the way here and Rev. Harvey M. Leech, pastor of the Episcopal church, who married them yesterday. They are traveling north by easy stages on their honeymoon and will make their home in Portland. The couple were sweethearts in Dubuque, where they spent their childhood.

SUPERINTENDENT OF BRIDGES AND FERRIES LOSES OFFICIAL HEAD

(Continued From Page One.) ords of the county also show Harlow having been employed at other jobs with various compensations. Pumphrey drew less as a carpenter and is now employed in the road department. Repeating the accusations against Murnane, Commissioner Holman said that he had suggested the employment of men to take inventories of county property in the past year ago. He said that when he assumed office a year ago he found four county records in chaotic condition and no inventories.

HEADLESS BODY IN LAKE

Cleveland, July 6.—The headless body of a woman, especially dead, was found two miles out in Lake Erie today. The police think it a case of suicide, asserting that the head may have been torn from the body by the coming entangled in the propeller of some lake vessel.

JUST TRY MANNING'S COFFEE

William T. Gardner, late superintendent of the Boys' and Girls' Aid society, of Cleveland, died yesterday morning at the age of 70. He was a native of Ohio and had been in Cleveland for many years. He was a member of the First Methodist church and was a prominent citizen of the city. He was survived by his wife, Mrs. Marion L. Gardner, and a daughter, Mrs. Lillian G. Kennedy, of Cleveland.

WINDY REPAIR WORK ON FIREBOAT

Damage Had Resulted From Fire Which Destroyed the Oceanic Dock Yesterday. NEW BOILERS PLANNED

New Pieces Will Also Be Placed in Hull Steel Deckhouse Will Be Installed.

As the result of the fire which destroyed the Oceanic dock yesterday morning, repairs to the fireboat George H. Williams are to be rushed and it is expected that the boat will be ready for service by August. This pioneer fire fighter has been out of service for more than a year, it being tied up until repairs were started about six weeks ago. The craft is being equipped with new boilers, new pieces are being placed in her hull and a steel deckhouse is to replace the old one. The new boiler leaves the municipal drydock today after having been there since last Sunday.

The boat was taken out of commission by the David Campbell was put into service. On April 15 the council awarded the contract for repairs but it was not until some time later that repairs were started. Now that there is only one boat in service and danger from serious configuration on the river front, repairs on the boat are being pushed rapidly. Repairs are completed, just where the boat is to be placed is not known. Attempts to have a landing built in connection with the municipal dock, and unless arrangements can be made with private concerns the boat will be without a home.

LET LAW BE ENFORCED AS OFFICERS FIND IT, SAYS DR. C. J. SMITH

Public Opinion Will Then Decide What Is Good for People's Government. Oregon City, July 6.—Dr. C. J. Smith, Democratic candidate for governor, spoke at the First Methodist church here last night on the subject "An Era of Enforcement in Oregon." His address was one of a series in which all of the candidates for governor have been invited to speak.

Expenses of the Law

"Without exception I found the tendency of the times is to do as one would be done by; to be absolutely honest with patrons as well as with other firms. There are ideals in all professions and while the ideal in business may have been neglected in the past, it is not now. American business men are idealists in all they conduct on a basis that is nearer the ideal than ever before. "Public sentiment is the factor that has accomplished this. The public that has stood for dishonest methods a few years ago exists no longer. In its place is a public that demands and sees that it gets square treatment. The public has called for the golden rule. It is now impossible for the dishonest merchant to stand the gaff. "No better evidence of this spirit of striving toward the ideal, could have been obtained for distant convention, when lines of conduct were laid down by the 200 delegates from all parts of the world for 10 different times. The public has called for the golden rule. It is now impossible for the dishonest merchant to stand the gaff. "No better evidence of this spirit of striving toward the ideal, could have been obtained for distant convention, when lines of conduct were laid down by the 200 delegates from all parts of the world for 10 different times. The public has called for the golden rule. It is now impossible for the dishonest merchant to stand the gaff. "No better evidence of this spirit of striving toward the ideal, could have been obtained for distant convention, when lines of conduct were laid down by the 200 delegates from all parts of the world for 10 different times. The public has called for the golden rule. It is now impossible for the dishonest merchant to stand the gaff. "No better evidence of this spirit of striving toward the ideal, could have been obtained for distant convention, when lines of conduct were laid down by the 200 delegates from all parts of the world for 10 different times. The public has called for the golden rule. It is now impossible for the dishonest merchant to stand the gaff. "No better evidence of this spirit of striving toward the ideal, could have been obtained for distant convention, when lines of conduct were laid down by the 200 delegates from all parts of the world for 10 different times. The public has called for the golden rule. It is now impossible for the dishonest merchant to stand the gaff. "No better evidence of this spirit of striving toward the ideal, could have been obtained for distant convention, when lines of conduct were laid down by the 200 delegates from all parts of the world for 10 different times. The public has called for the golden rule. It is now impossible for the dishonest merchant to stand the gaff. "No better evidence of this spirit of striving toward the ideal, could have been obtained for distant convention, when lines of conduct were laid down by the 200 delegates from all parts of the world for 10 different times. The public has called for the golden rule. It is now impossible for the dishonest merchant to stand the gaff. "No better evidence of this spirit of striving toward the ideal, could have been obtained for distant convention, when lines of conduct were laid down by the 200 delegates from all parts of the world for 10 different times. The public has called for the golden rule. It is now impossible for the dishonest merchant to stand the gaff. "No better evidence of this spirit of striving toward the ideal, could have been obtained for distant convention, when lines of conduct were laid down by the 200 delegates from all parts of the world for 10 different times. The public has called for the golden rule. It is now impossible for the dishonest merchant to stand the gaff. "No better evidence of this spirit of striving toward the ideal, could have been obtained for distant convention, when lines of conduct were laid down by the 200 delegates from all parts of the world for 10 different times. The public has called for the golden rule. It is now impossible for the dishonest merchant to stand the gaff. "No better evidence of this spirit of striving toward the ideal, could have been obtained for distant convention, when lines of conduct were laid down by the 200 delegates from all parts of the world for 10 different times. The public has called for the golden rule. It is now impossible for the dishonest merchant to stand the gaff. "No better evidence of this spirit of striving toward the ideal, could have been obtained for distant convention, when lines of conduct were laid down by the 200 delegates from all parts of the world for 10 different times. The public has called for the golden rule. It is now impossible for the dishonest merchant to stand the gaff. "No better evidence of this spirit of striving toward the ideal, could have been obtained for distant convention, when lines of conduct were laid down by the 200 delegates from all parts of the world for 10 different times. The public has called for the golden rule. It is now impossible for the dishonest merchant to stand the gaff. "No better evidence of this spirit of striving toward the ideal, could have been obtained for distant convention, when lines of conduct were laid down by the 200 delegates from all parts of the world for 10 different times. The public has called for the golden rule. It is now impossible for the dishonest merchant to stand the gaff. "No better evidence of this spirit of striving toward the ideal, could have been obtained for distant convention, when lines of conduct were laid down by the 200 delegates from all parts of the world for 10 different times. The public has called for the golden rule. It is now impossible for the dishonest merchant to stand the gaff. "No better evidence of this spirit of striving toward the ideal, could have been obtained for distant convention, when lines of conduct were laid down by the 200 delegates from all parts of the world for 10 different times. The public has called for the golden rule. It is now impossible for the dishonest merchant to stand the gaff. "No better evidence of this spirit of striving toward the ideal, could have been obtained for distant convention, when lines of conduct were laid down by the 200 delegates from all parts of the world for 10 different times. The public has called for the golden rule. It is now impossible for the dishonest merchant to stand the gaff. "No better evidence of this spirit of striving toward the ideal, could have been obtained for distant convention, when lines of conduct were laid down by the 200 delegates from all parts of the world for 10 different times. The public has called for the golden rule. It is now impossible for the dishonest merchant to stand the gaff. "No better evidence of this spirit of striving toward the ideal, could have been obtained for distant convention, when lines of conduct were laid down by the 200 delegates from all parts of the world for 10 different times. The public has called for the golden rule. It is now impossible for the dishonest merchant to stand the gaff. "No better evidence of this spirit of striving toward the ideal, could have been obtained for distant convention, when lines of conduct were laid down by the 200 delegates from all parts of the world for 10 different times. The public has called for the golden rule. It is now impossible for the dishonest merchant to stand the gaff. "No better evidence of this spirit of striving toward the ideal, could have been obtained for distant convention, when lines of conduct were laid down by the 200 delegates from all parts of the world for 10 different times. The public has called for the golden rule. It is now impossible for the dishonest merchant to stand the gaff. "No better evidence of this spirit of striving toward the ideal, could have been obtained for distant convention, when lines of conduct were laid down by the 200 delegates from all parts of the world for 10 different times. The public has called for the golden rule. It is now impossible for the dishonest merchant to stand the gaff. "No better evidence of this spirit of striving toward the ideal, could have been obtained for distant convention, when lines of conduct were laid down by the 200 delegates from all parts of the world for 10 different times. The public has called for the golden rule. It is now impossible for the dishonest merchant to stand the gaff. "No better evidence of this spirit of striving toward the ideal, could have been obtained for distant convention, when lines of conduct were laid down by the 200 delegates from all parts of the world for 10 different times. The public has called for the golden rule. It is now impossible for the dishonest merchant to stand the gaff. "No better evidence of this spirit of striving toward the ideal, could have been obtained for distant convention, when lines of conduct were laid down by the 200 delegates from all parts of the world for 10 different times. The public has called for the golden rule. It is now impossible for the dishonest merchant to stand the gaff. "No better evidence of this spirit of striving toward the ideal, could have been obtained for distant convention, when lines of conduct were laid down by the 200 delegates from all parts of the world for 10 different times. The public has called for the golden rule. It is now impossible for the dishonest merchant to stand the gaff. "No better evidence of this spirit of striving toward the ideal, could have been obtained for distant convention, when lines of conduct were laid down by the 200 delegates from all parts of the world for 10 different times. The public has called for the golden rule. It is now impossible for the dishonest merchant to stand the gaff. "No better evidence of this spirit of striving toward the ideal, could have been obtained for distant convention, when lines of conduct were laid down by the 200 delegates from all parts of the world for 10 different times. The public has called for the golden rule. It is now impossible for the dishonest merchant to stand the gaff. "No better evidence of this spirit of striving toward the ideal, could have been obtained for distant convention, when lines of conduct were laid down by the 200 delegates from all parts of the world for 10 different times. The public has called for the golden rule. It is now impossible for the dishonest merchant to stand the gaff. "No better evidence of this spirit of striving toward the ideal, could have been obtained for distant convention, when lines of conduct were laid down by the 200 delegates from all parts of the world for 10 different times. The public has called for the golden rule. It is now impossible for the dishonest merchant to stand the gaff. "No better evidence of this spirit of striving toward the ideal, could have been obtained for distant convention, when lines of conduct were laid down by the 200 delegates from all parts of the world for 10 different times. The public has called for the golden rule. It is now impossible for the dishonest merchant to stand the gaff. "No better evidence of this spirit of striving toward the ideal, could have been obtained for distant convention, when lines of conduct were laid down by the 200 delegates from all parts of the world for 10 different times. The public has called for the golden rule. It is now impossible for the dishonest merchant to stand the gaff. "No better evidence of this spirit of striving toward the ideal, could have been obtained for distant convention, when lines of conduct were laid down by the 200 delegates from all parts of the world for 10 different times. The public has called for the golden rule. It is now impossible for the dishonest merchant to stand the gaff. "No better evidence of this spirit of striving toward the ideal, could have been obtained for distant convention, when lines of conduct were laid down by the 200 delegates from all parts of the world for 10 different times. The public has called for the golden rule. It is now impossible for the dishonest merchant to stand the gaff. "No better evidence of this spirit of striving toward the ideal, could have been obtained for distant convention, when lines of conduct were laid down by the 200 delegates from all parts of the world for 10 different times. The public has called for the golden rule. It is now impossible for the dishonest merchant to stand the gaff. "No better evidence of this spirit of striving toward the ideal, could have been obtained for distant convention, when lines of conduct were laid down by the 200 delegates from all parts of the world for 10 different times. The public has called for the golden rule. It is now impossible for the dishonest merchant to stand the gaff. "No better evidence of this spirit of striving toward the ideal, could have been obtained for distant convention, when lines of conduct were laid down by the 200 delegates from all parts of the world for 10 different times. The public has called for the golden rule. It is now impossible for the dishonest merchant to stand the gaff. "No better evidence of this spirit of striving toward the ideal, could have been obtained for distant convention, when lines of conduct were laid down by the 200 delegates from all parts of the world for 10 different times. The public has called for the golden rule. It is now impossible for the dishonest merchant to stand the gaff. "No better evidence of this spirit of striving toward the ideal, could have been obtained for distant convention, when lines of conduct were laid down by the 200 delegates from all parts of the world for 10 different times. The public has called for the golden rule. It is now impossible for the dishonest merchant to stand the gaff. "No better evidence of this spirit of striving toward the ideal, could have been obtained for distant convention, when lines of conduct were laid down by the 200 delegates from all parts of the world for 10 different times. The public has called for the golden rule. It is now impossible for the dishonest merchant to stand the gaff. "No better evidence of this spirit of striving toward the ideal, could have been obtained for distant convention, when lines of conduct were laid down by the 200 delegates from all parts of the world for 10 different times. The public has called for the golden rule. It is now impossible for the dishonest merchant to stand the gaff. "No better evidence of this spirit of striving toward the ideal, could have been obtained for distant convention, when lines of conduct were laid down by the 200 delegates from all parts of the world for 10 different times. The public has called for the golden rule. It is now impossible for the dishonest merchant to stand the gaff. "No better evidence of this spirit of striving toward the ideal, could have been obtained for distant convention, when lines of conduct were laid down by the 200 delegates from all parts of the world for 10 different times. The public has called for the golden rule. It is now impossible for the dishonest merchant to stand the gaff. "No better evidence of this spirit of striving toward the ideal, could have been obtained for distant convention, when lines of conduct were laid down by the 200 delegates from all parts of the world for 10 different times. The public has called for the golden rule. It is now impossible for the dishonest merchant to stand the gaff. "No better evidence of this spirit of striving toward the ideal, could have been obtained for distant convention, when lines of conduct were laid down by the 200 delegates from all parts of the world for 10 different times. The public has called for the golden rule. It is now impossible for the dishonest merchant to stand the gaff. "No better evidence of this spirit of striving toward the ideal, could have been obtained for distant convention, when lines of conduct were laid down by the 200 delegates from all parts of the world for 10 different times. The public has called for the golden rule. It is now impossible for the dishonest merchant to stand the gaff. "No better evidence of this spirit of striving toward the ideal, could have been obtained for distant convention, when lines of conduct were laid down by the 200 delegates from all parts of the world for 10 different times. The public has called for the golden rule. It is now impossible for the dishonest merchant to stand the gaff. "No better evidence of this spirit of striving toward the ideal, could have been obtained for distant convention, when lines of conduct were laid down by the 200 delegates from all parts of the world for 10 different times. The public has called for the golden rule. It is now impossible for the dishonest merchant to stand the gaff. "No better evidence of this spirit of striving toward the ideal, could have been obtained for distant convention, when lines of conduct were laid down by the 200 delegates from all parts of the world for 10 different times. The public has called for the golden rule. It is now impossible for the dishonest merchant to stand the gaff. "No better evidence of this spirit of striving toward the ideal, could have been obtained for distant convention, when lines of conduct were laid down by the 200 delegates from all parts of the world for 10 different times. The public has called for the golden rule. It is now impossible for the dishonest merchant to stand the gaff. "No better evidence of this spirit of striving toward the ideal, could have been obtained for distant convention, when lines of conduct were laid down by the 200 delegates from all parts of the world for 10 different times. The public has called for the golden rule. It is now impossible for the dishonest merchant to stand the gaff. "No better evidence of this spirit of striving toward the ideal, could have been obtained for distant convention, when lines of conduct were laid down by the 200 delegates from all parts of the world for 10 different times. The public has called for the golden rule. It is now impossible for the dishonest merchant to stand the gaff. "No better evidence of this spirit of striving toward the ideal, could have been obtained for distant convention, when lines of conduct were laid down by the 200 delegates from all parts of the world for 10 different times. The public has called for the golden rule. It is now impossible for the dishonest merchant to stand the gaff. "No better evidence of this spirit of striving toward the ideal, could have been obtained for distant convention, when lines of conduct were laid down by the 200 delegates from all parts of the world for 10 different times. The public has called for the golden rule. It is now impossible for the dishonest merchant to stand the gaff. "No better evidence of this spirit of striving toward the ideal, could have been obtained for distant convention, when lines of conduct were laid down by the 200 delegates from all parts of the world for 10 different times. The public has called for the golden rule. It is now impossible for the dishonest merchant to stand the gaff. "No better evidence of this spirit of striving toward the ideal, could have been obtained for distant convention, when lines of conduct were laid down by the 200 delegates from all parts of the world for 10 different times. The public has called for the golden rule. It is now impossible for the dishonest merchant to stand the gaff. "No better evidence of this spirit of striving toward the ideal, could have been obtained for distant convention, when lines of conduct were laid down by the 200 delegates from all parts of the world for 10 different times. The public has called for the golden rule. It is now impossible for the dishonest merchant to stand the gaff. "No better evidence of this spirit of striving toward the ideal, could have been obtained for distant convention, when lines of conduct were laid down by the 200 delegates from all parts of the world for 10 different times. The public has called for the golden rule. It is now impossible for the dishonest merchant to stand the gaff. "No better evidence of this spirit of striving toward the ideal, could have been obtained for distant convention, when lines of conduct were laid down by the 200 delegates from all parts of the world for 10 different times. The public has called for the golden rule. It is now impossible for the dishonest merchant to stand the gaff. "No better evidence of this spirit of striving toward the ideal, could have been obtained for distant convention, when lines of conduct were laid down by the 200 delegates from all parts of the world for 10 different times. The public has called for the golden rule. It is now impossible for the dishonest merchant to stand the gaff. "No better evidence of this spirit of striving toward the ideal, could have been obtained for distant convention, when lines of conduct were laid down by the 200 delegates from all parts of the world for 10 different times. The public has called for the golden rule. It is now impossible for the dishonest merchant to stand the gaff. "No better evidence of this spirit of striving toward the ideal, could have been obtained for distant convention, when lines of conduct were laid down by the 200 delegates from all parts of the world for 10 different times. The public has called for the golden rule. It is now impossible for the dishonest merchant to stand the gaff. "No better evidence of this spirit of striving toward the ideal, could have been obtained for distant convention, when lines of conduct were laid down by the 200 delegates from all parts of the world for 10 different times. The public has called for the golden rule. It is now impossible for the dishonest merchant to stand the gaff. "No better evidence of this spirit of striving toward the ideal, could have been obtained for distant convention, when lines of conduct were laid down by the 200 delegates from all parts of the world for 10 different times. The public has called for the golden rule. It is now impossible for the dishonest merchant to stand the gaff. "No better evidence of this spirit of striving toward the ideal, could have been obtained for distant convention, when lines of conduct were laid down by the 200 delegates from all parts of the world for 10 different times. The public has called for the golden rule. It is now impossible for the dishonest merchant to stand the gaff. "No better evidence of this spirit of striving toward the ideal, could have been obtained for distant convention, when lines of conduct were laid down by the 200 delegates from all parts of the world for 10 different times. The public has called for the golden rule. It is now impossible for the dishonest merchant to stand the gaff. "No better evidence of this spirit of striving toward the ideal, could have been obtained for distant convention, when lines of conduct were laid down by the 200 delegates from all parts of the world for 10 different times. The public has called for the golden rule. It is now impossible for the dishonest merchant to stand the gaff. "No better evidence of this spirit of striving toward the ideal, could have been obtained for distant convention, when lines of conduct were laid down by the 200 delegates from all parts of the world for 10 different times. The public has called for the golden rule. It is now impossible for the dishonest merchant to stand the gaff. "No better evidence of this spirit of striving toward the ideal, could have been obtained for distant convention, when lines of conduct were laid down by the 200 delegates from all parts of the world for 10 different times. The public has called for the golden rule. It is now impossible for the dishonest merchant to stand the gaff. "No better evidence of this spirit of striving toward the ideal, could have been obtained for distant convention, when lines of conduct were laid down by the 200 delegates from all parts of the world for 10 different times. The public has called for the golden rule. It is now impossible for the dishonest merchant to stand the gaff. "No better evidence of this spirit of striving toward the ideal, could have been obtained for distant convention, when lines of conduct were laid down by the 200 delegates from all parts of the world for 10 different times. The public has called for the golden rule. It is now impossible for the dishonest merchant to stand the gaff. "No better evidence of this spirit of striving toward the ideal, could have been obtained for distant convention, when lines of conduct were laid down by the 200 delegates from all parts of the world for 10 different times. The public has called for the golden rule. It is now impossible for the dishonest merchant to stand the gaff. "No better evidence of this spirit of striving toward the ideal, could have been obtained for distant convention, when lines of conduct were laid down by the 200 delegates from all parts of the world for 10 different times. The public has called for the golden rule. It is now impossible for the dishonest merchant to stand the gaff. "No better evidence of this spirit of striving toward the ideal, could have been obtained for distant convention, when lines of conduct were laid down by the 200 delegates from all parts of the world for 10 different times. The public has called for the golden rule. It is now impossible for the dishonest merchant to stand the gaff. "No better evidence of this spirit of striving toward the ideal, could have been obtained for distant convention, when lines of conduct were laid down by the 200 delegates from all