Day temperatures were unusually high, but the nights were cool. All crops made splendid progress, although in a few locali-ties they wilted some during the hottest part of the day, only to quickly recover at night. The blgh day temperatures were especially favorable to hops, potatoes, corn and hay. The fall wheat harvest is well under way, and the crop promises to be very good, both as to quantify and qualify. In Baker county hay is reported to be light in some places. Peaches from Jackson county are being marketed. The crop is below the average in quantify and the peaches are not so large as usual.
