Still, One Senator Raves at President

Townsend of Michigan Says Wilson Has Had No Business Experience and Is Driving Doodle Congressmen.

Washington, July 10.—Bitter denunciation of President Woodrow Wilson was voiced from the floor of the senate yesterday by Senator Townsend. He referred to the president as a "theorist, who, without constructive business experience of his own, files in the face of all experience and insists on driving the docile congressional adherents on dangerous and untenable ground."

Townsend said it was the duty of congress to adjourn and then attack the administration's trust program.

"Much of the legislation already enacted," he said, "or now in the process of enactment is an impeachment of the doctrine of independence of congress, and would not have been enacted if congress had followed the dictates of its own judgment as to what was best and necessary for the people. I do not believe there is any legislator in congress primarily actuated by desire to throttle and impede legitimate industries. I do believe, however, that in their desire to carry what they believe to be popular favor some are willing to do and say things appealing to passion and prejudice rather than to reason."

Washington, July 10.—Reporting to the senate regarding the distribution of free transportation by the Louisville & Nashville railroad and its associates in the interstate commerce commission arraigned the company's lavish distribution of passes. "These carriers," the report said, "are dispensing gratuitously the main of public and private life through the instrumentality of the free pass. Nearly every walk in life from members of the federal bench down were represented in the procession of recipients. The financial consideration involved compares as nothing to the impairment of public and private morals."

In 1913, the report declared, the Louisville & Nashville issued 11,805 passes, involving 4,570,000 miles of travel and worth $130,000. Legislators and public officials, including a United States senator, two congressmen and 139 federal officials, received 573 passes.

PORTLAND CARPENTER CORRECTS BAD COMPLICATION WITH AKOZ

G. W. Mellinger Cures Rheumatism, Constipation, Prostatic Trouble and Ulcer With New Mineral.

G. W. Mellinger, a retired carpenter residing at 428 Arlington Place, Portland, has just recovered from a siege of rheumatism lasting 14 years, and corrected constipation, prostatic trouble and a rectal ulcer by using Akoz two months. He writes of his case as follows:

"In the spring of 1900 I contracted rheumatism by working in a cold rain with a crew of civil engineers. This exposure resulted in a severe chill, followed by an intense fever lasting several hours, and immediately after this rheumatism in a severe form set in. For nearly six months I was unable to leave the house. "My lodge of Knights of Pythias then sent me to Lakelse Lake, where I got some relief, seemingly, but for a short time only; but since that time, besides using physicians' prescriptions, I have tried numerous advertised remedies, many of them guaranteed, but got no permanent relief until on February 27, 1914, when I was induced to try Akoz. "I told him very plainly that I had not the least confidence in his remedies, but he seemed so sincere, so earnest and so confident of success that I finally yielded and took a month's treatment. At the end of the month I went back and reported failure. He, however, insisted that one month's treatment was not a fair trial in case like mine. So I continued and am now taking the third trial's treatment, and am so much improved that I expect permanent relief by the end of the fourth month. "I have had chronic constipation for more than 40 years and am getting more relief from the Akoz liver pills than I ever expected to get from any other treatment. I also have prostatic trouble in an advanced stage and am obtaining relief from the use of Akoz ointment, which is also healing a rectal ulcer of long standing. I cannot recommend too highly all the Akoz remedies in all cases for which they are recommended by the company." Akoz is sold at all leading drug stores, where further information may be had regarding this advertisement.
