OREGON AND IDAHO REGIMENTS GO TO CAMP AT GEARHART

Both Recruited Up to Almost War Strength and Present Martial Appearance.

BIG GUNS AND HORSES GO

About 2000 Men Will Be at Encampment 1000 of Which Will Represent State of Oregon.

Oregon's minions of war, composed of cavalry, infantry and artillery, together with the troops of Idaho, and two battalions of regulars from Vancouver barracks, are now at Gearhart to begin the annual encampment and summer maneuvers.

The Idaho and Oregon regiments, almost 2000 strong, left Portland this morning, the Idaho troops passing through in special trains. Both regiments were recruited up to almost war strength and the scene at the North Bank station, when the two long specials pulled out, was martial. The soldiers were as completely accoutered as they would be were they going to the front.

Troop A, cavalry, and battery A, field artillery, left with horses and guns, 150 strong, at 8:45 yesterday morning. These detachments went into camp yesterday afternoon.

Regulars Reach Camp.

The two battalions of regulars from Vancouver barracks left, marching overland, July 2, and went into camp at Gearhart Saturday afternoon at the end of a 14 days' hike.

All the troops who left on the 7:45 special assembled at the armory at 6 o'clock, Adjutant Clarence Hotchkiss, of the third, in charge. The entraining call came, following breakfast, at 7:15. The cars were all spotted yesterday and there was no delay. The train left nearly on the minute.

The Idaho specials were several hours late. The Southern Idaho detachments, coming by the O.-W. R. & N. drew in at 6:20 and after breakfast here, left at 7 o'clock. The Northern Idaho troops came in from Spokane by the North Bank getting here at 7:30. The troops had breakfast, the horses fed and watered, and the train left on the last lap of the journey at 10 o'clock.

A small advance Idaho delegation, including General L. D. Patch and other regimental officers from Boise came through yesterday.

To Remain Ten Days.

The second Oregon troop train left nearly on time at 11 o'clock. It bore guardsmen from the upper valley cities. Lieutenant Colonel May of Roseburg had charge. He had company A, McMinnville; company G, Oregon City; company L, Dallas and Woodburn; company M, Salem, and company K, Corvallis. These companies arrived by various specials on the electric trains.

The militiamen, from the time they left the Armory until they return there again, 10 days hence, will be under the strictest military discipline. Company cooks prepared the mid-day meal on the trains en route today and during the encampment there will be no degree of difference between the citizen soldiers and the regulars, excepting in the efficiency that may be shown by the Vancouver troopers.

The troops are paid by the government during their encampment and it is required that each company have two officers and 38 men of infantry and cavalry, two officers and 28 men of the ambulance company and three officers and 67 men of the field artillery.

The mornings and early part of the afternoons will be occupied with drill and instruction, but the men will have considerable time for recreation along the beach. There will be dress parade every day. A brigade review, with the entire body of regulars and guardsmen participating, will be held in the last day.

Approximately 2000 men will be in encampment. The Oregon troops will number a few more than 1000, including officers. The Idaho soldiers will number 550 and the Vancouver soldiers 450.

Oregon City Boys Leave.

(Special to The Journal.)

Oregon City, Or., July 13.—Sixty strong, company G, Third regiment, Oregon National Guard, the Oregon City "soldier boys," left this morning for the annual encampment. This year the periodical bivouac will be held at Gearhart, and the boys will be away for 10 days. The local company only has equipment for 65 privates, and left with the company almost recruited to its full strength. Captain L. O. Blanchard, First Lieutenant W. R. Logue and Second Lieutenant Eden Blanchard are the officers of the company.

MAYOR ALBEE IS NOT READY TO PLEDGE PORTLAND TO PLAN

City's Chief Executive Views With Suspicion Idea of Organization.

WILL INVESTIGATE FULLY

According to Information, Purpose of Municipal Coalition Is to Fight Public Utility Corporations.

Mayor Albee says he is beginning to be rather skeptical about organizations of a municipal character. From two to five invitations to "join" come every day, he says. So while the idea of a plan for organization which comes from the office of Philadelphia's mayor, Rudolph Blankenburg, appeals to him, he is not disposed to pledge Portland to it, so far as his office is concerned, until he has learned more about the method. Press matter from Philadelphia defines the idea thus:

"A coalition of the cities of the country, big and little, has been formed to fight the combination of municipal utility corporations, big and little, that has for a generation operated to thwart municipal progress and growth."

In other words, the cities would organize for protection against municipal utility corporations as the latter have organized in aggression against the cities to sustain the elevation of rates.

It is related that the plan has the pledged support now of Mayor Blankenburg of Philadelphia, Mayor Mitchell of New York, Mayor Harrison of Chicago, Mayor Baker of Cleveland and Mayor Shroyer of Dayton.

In the autumn, announces a letter from the mayor of Philadelphia to the mayor of Portland, a meeting will be held in Philadelphia, the home of the idea, which it is hoped will be a nation-wide conference because the mayors of all principal cities will be represented.

The objective of a national association of municipalities is given in these words:

"That rates and service for public utilities shall hereafter be based on the actual cost of providing and furnishing such services and on the actual value used and useful for such purposes, and not on the power of a monopoly to extort what rates it will, and not on a capitalization that represents merely the selling power of utility promoters."

MARINER-POLITICIAN REQUESTED TO LEAVE BULL MOOSE PARTY

Progressive Attacks Captain Macgenn for Saying He Will Work for Republican.

The publicly announced intention of Captain T. J. Macgenn of the steamer Breakwater, chairman of the Coos county Progressive committee, to vote and work for Robert A. Booth, the Republican candidate for United States senator, and further to seek the amalgamation of the Republican and Progressive parties, has aroused a wave of protest among Progressives all over the state.

Colonel Emmett Callahan, Portland attorney, who stands high in Progressive party councils, has even gone so far as to request that the seaman politician be made to resign from the Bull Moose party.

He states that the captain, in view of his statements, is a Republican and not a Progressive, and calls on him immediately to align himself with the G. O. P. In a letter addressed to Captain Macgenn he says:

Resignation Is Asked.

My attention has been called to an interview by you in the morning Oregonian in re to the candidates for the United States senate in Oregon.

You declare that you are going to vote for the Republican candidate for the United States senate; your right to do so should not be questioned by any man.

However, as the duly elected national representative of the Progressive party for Oregon, I challenge your right to represent yourself as a member of the Progressive party, and I have by this mail requested the Hon. Thomas B. Neuhausen, the state chairman of the Progressive party, to ask you to hand in your resignation as an officer of the Progressive party for Coos county, Oregon, and that he appoint some man in your place who is known to be a Progressive, and who believes in the principles of the Progressive national platform.

Fails to Grasp Philosophy.

Your election to be counted in the party of Barnes, Penrose, Crane and Gallinger is a personal right; but in so doing you admit that you have not even remotely grasped the philosophy upon which the Progressive party is founded.

The Republican party was born in 1856; it was founded purely and solely upon a social and economic principle; human slavery simply gave it its moving impulse; then, as now, there were men like you, who were wedded to party success—not ideas, or progress.

The Republican party was beaten in its first presidential campaign; the Whigs tried to get the new party back, but they then, like the Progressive party now, never did go back.

Remember the prediction that ultimately there will be but two dominant political parties in this country. One will represent the liberal progressive element, the other will represent and stand for the party of special privilege and conservatives. The Progressive party is a party that believes in government by men, not by conventions, assemblies or caucus.

What hope is there for a Progressive in joining the Republican party? In all the states the Republican party today is in the hands of the ultra conservative standpatters.

Colonel Roosevelt has but recently declared that it is unthinkable to believe that the amalgamation of the Progressive party and the Republican party can ever take place.

Roosevelt Not Republican.

It is unbelievable to even think that Roosevelt will be a candidate for president in 1916 on a Republican platform. Surely we must think better of him than to believe that he would leave such an unspeakable legacy to posterity.

I repeat then, that without delay or further hesitation you ally yourself with the Republican party, and accept its national platform as your political creed. No man should question your right so to do. Yours respectfully, EMMETT CALLAHAN.

Osteopaths Will Attend Convention

Large Delegation Expected to Go to Philadelphia for Eighteenth Annual Meeting.

Keenly contesting the issue of which city is to have the 1915 convention of the American Osteopathic association, a large delegation will go from Portland and San Francisco by special train the last of this month to Philadelphia to attend the 18th annual meeting of this organization.

Dr. K. S. Myers of Portland, will be a leading speaker at the Philadelphia meeting. Her paper will be upon "Complications of Indigestion." An interesting figure from the northwest will be Dr. J. A. Van Brakle of Oregon City, because of his unique position in being appointed county health officer in the face of opposition of the entire medical profession of his district.

Three thousand Osteopathic physicians and surgeons are expected to attend. Sessions are to be held in the Hotel Bellevue-Stratford and "Health Sunday" will be observed throughout Philadelphia the day before the session opens, when the pulpits of the churches will be occupied by distinguished Osteopaths from other cities.

The Care of Golf Clubs By an Expert

Dampness is the greatest cause of trouble with golf clubs. Not only does it affect the glue which is used on wooden clubs at the joint with the shaft, but no matter how well seasoned the hickory and persimmon may be, the wood will absorb dampness, causing swelling and warping. This is true of all woods generally, but especially true of hickory. Therefore, clubs should be wiped after using in the rain or dew. If the finish shows signs of wearing, clubs should be rubbed with linseed oil and given a coat of shellac, which serves to keep out the dampness. The pitched twine which covers the glue joint in wooden clubs should also be kept well shellaced. Further: Clubs should not be thrown in a haphazard manner where they will be subject to dry heat or they will warp into the shape into which their weight draws them. When clubs are not in use rub well with linseed oil, and lay them out flat.
