Francisco, July 18 .- It will be more than six months before the expomition is open to the world, but to San Francisco it is open now, and the people of this city-and of the whole state, for that matter-are enjoying it to the utmost every day. The present daily paid admissions average over 1000, which is a pretty good patronage for an uncompleted project; and every week there is some big affair to draw large crowds and encourage public in-terest in the building process. There have been two monster affairs this week. One was a brilliant automobile parade, participated in by many cities eoutside San Francisco, given for the purpose of taking over the space assigned to automobile exhibits at the exposition. Stockton, Sacramento, Fresno, Santa Rosa, Vallejo, Modesto and innumerthle other towns and cities sent their best machines and made their bravest show, so that the "50 mile" parade was not a myth but a buzzing, purring reality, and went down in history as the longest line of motors ever driven in file. Even the cycle cars, motorcycles and the dependable commercial trucks participated, all helping to swell the number until the 25,000 mark was reached. Mayor Rolph and the city supervisors headed this monster cavalcade; the exposition officials were conspicuous by their presence, and all foreign consuls, representing so many nations that it takes reference to an atlas to remember them, came along with the motor enthusiasts, eccupying cific Highway opens a good route to a whole division.

Interest. The whole state is agog with interest over Joe Knowles, the modern Adam, who will take up the life of primitive man in the wilderness of the Siskiyou range near the Oregon line and show both civilized and uncivilized how easy it is to live without the trappings of modern day. Mr. Knowles has been at Grants Pass all week, with Professor T. T. Waterman of the University of California and several newspaper men in close attendance, and his experiment is attracting attention from Mount Lassen which has been holding the stage for a number of weeks, and which has just completed its seventeenth eruption.
