Locates Team of Horses Long Stolen

Vancouver, Wash., Aug. 13.-J. W. Henry, who recently disposed of his interests in the Hastings livery barn, has located a team of horses which was stolen from him about two years ago, and steps will be taken to re-cover the animals. The team was hired by a man giving his name as James Monroe, who registered at a local hotel as being from Rigbee, Idaho. When the team drove out of the barn it was the last Mr. Henry saw of it until a few days age. James Monroe, who registered at a saw of it until a few days ago, when he recognized one of the animals in Portland. Monroe, it appears, had sold the team to an Albany man, and since that transaction the horses had been sold several times before being sold separately. In addition to taking steps to recover the team, Mr. Henry is also on the lookout for the man who stole it.

> Look to United States Broomhall's international review says wheat business is being done on a greatly reduced scale, but conditions are generevident that there will be plenty of wheat. On the other hand, we have the problem nonexistant demand from Germany and Austria, while on the other hand we are confronted by a probable loss of the feared Russian surplus owing to the official prohibition of exports and on this supposition the total prospective supply is estimated at 532,000,000 bushels. Again looking further ahead we have to consider the probability, owing to the war, of a greatly reduced acreage of winter wheat both at home and continental countries and this will affect supplies next summer. North America will certainly be the relief and it is fortunate that the crop in the United States is large and of

Chicago Trade Is Bearish Today in The Wheat Market

Chicago, Aug. 13.—At times today the sentiment in the local wheat trade was so bearish and the general tone of the trade so pessimistic, that many discouraged holders were inclined to let go holdings. It was this feeling which caused the bottom prices for today at 97 % for December and $1.05 % for May. The September selling was mostly by elevator people against purchases in the country and possibly resales made here by seaboard houses. Feeling was much improved at the close.

In a general way this trade had less news and lighter volume of business than at any time since the war excitement began. The Liverpool market was 1% c lower because of an easier spot market due to the diverting of continental cargoes to United Kingdom ports. Brokers reported an excellent class of buying in December wheat at 98c and under. Inspection for the day was not complete and local receipts were given at 214 cars. Minneapolis reported cash wheat premiums 1c less than yesterday. Stocks there were reduced 700,000 bushels for five days. The Northwestern Miller claims that the big milling interests sold their output and in mnay cases double that amount of flour.

Some discouraging messages were received in regard to cash grain handling conditions in the southwest.

FACTOR IN MAKING OF HOP QUOTATIONS

Market Is Nominally Strong but There Is No Business; England May Be Forced to Purchase Requirements in United States.

The hop market is speculatively stronger, although practically no business has been reported in this section recently. Much depends European conflict. The American crop is always greater than requirements, and if the surplus is taken abroad, the price is expected to be influenced Year ago thereby. Germany is one of the big Two year hop exporting countries and the war will have a direct influence upon both the demand as well as the crop in that England generally takes considerable German hops each season as well as large quantities of the American product. With England and Germany at war it is quite likely that no busi-ness between the two countries will pass for some time. On the other rand the war has created a great shortage of hands for harvesting the crop in Germany as well as in other European sections. For that reason the entire future of the demand and the price rests upon war conditions.

While dealers have sent out "fee ers" among the local growers to ascerain their ideas regarding the price,

The future of the market is uncer-tain because of the troubles abroad. Mail advices from the continent speak of the good condition of the crop, but with Germany plunged in war no one can tell how much of the crop will be harvested. Schools Will Get

Oregon City, Or., Aug. 13.—County School Superintendent J. A. Calavan has received the requirements for a standard school as approved by the Harport. state board of education. A copy will be sent to each school in the county. Each school which can comply with the requirements, which includes conditions of the school house and the grounds, the length of term, school library and average attendance, will receive a certificate from the county superintendent. Mr. Calavan believes that the state requirements are not as strict as the requirements adopted by Clackamas county last year. New Pulmotor Purchased,

OPPORTUNITY FOR NEW LINE Portland-Honolulu Trade Is Again Suggested.

That now is the best time for the inauguration of a Portland-Honolulu steamship service is the belief of Portland market men and it is said that one firm is already investigating the proposition. Direct service to the islands from this port would permit of the importation of sugar in large quantities now and materially lessen the strain of high prices, it is pointed out. Service by way of Puget sound was recently discontinued and there is said to be an excellent market in the islands for lumber and groceries, with the assurance of full cargoes of sugar on the return trip.
