

THIS TIME IT'S SUSIE THAT GOES WRONG

"Now, Susie," said her mother, "please
Give heed to what I say:
You must not go into the sea;
Stay on the sand and play."

Now Susie looked with longing eyes
At the bathers in the sea.
"I don't see why I can't go in;
'Twould be such fun," said she.

Soon Snicks and Snooks came on the scene.
In bathing suits so trim.
"We got ahead of you," they laughed.
"We're going for a swim."

Then naughty Susie sneaked away
And got her suit on, too:
Which, after what her mother said,
Was really bad to do.

The boys splashed water in her face,
And ducked her under, too.
"I'm going right back home," she cried,
"And tell mamma on you!"

Kaez Fribik.

Alas! as she was going out
A big crab bit her toe.
Then mother met her with a stick
And turned her joy to woe.
