

UNITED STATES WILL KEEP HANDS OFF IN AFFAIRS IN FAR EAST

Policy of Non-Interference to Guide Nation; Japan Ready to Strike Blow at Germany GERMAN ANSWER WAITED

Japanese Government Taking Pains to Emphasize Its Friendship Toward the United States.

Washington, Aug. 21.—The United States will keep hands off in the far east situation, it was learned from high administration sources today.

Tokio, Aug. 21.—Japan was fully prepared today to strike hard and swiftly against German power in the orient in the event of a rejection of the mikado's ultimatum requiring the surrender of Kiao Chiao.

The government was taking pains to emphasize its friendship for the United States. Government newspapers were instructed to "play up" the official denial that the mikado contemplated territorial acquisitions in Sumatra.

Despite the denial of any Japanese designs on German Samoa, word was received that the colonial government there had transferred its treasury from Apia to Pago Pago, an American possession. No intimation had been received concerning the nature of Germany's reply to the Japanese ultimatum, but it was thought significant that a brisk packing of luggage was in progress at the German embassy here.

The bulk of Germany's naval strength in oriental waters, it was learned, was in the vicinity of the Marshall Islands, threatening to interrupt the trade route between the United States and the far east.

The important part of European practical chandise into China having practically ceased, Japanese business interests were trying to enlist American cooperation in extending the two countries' trade there.

Receipt of a Chinese note asking America to act as trustee for Kiao Chiao province was officially disclaimed but it was apparent that the administration knows of China's desires and intends to remain aloof unless such action is generally requested.

President Wilson was expected to authorize a flat rejection of China's proposal, but it was generally believed he would set conditions which would not be met. If the president considers the proposition at all it probably will be necessary for Japan, Germany and China to agree in writing to some plan for avoiding hostilities. It was not believed here that Japan would consent to any such proposition, even if Germany were willing.

A resolution stating that America would not view with indifference any interference with the present territorial status quo of China or any change in the present occupation of the Pacific islands was introduced in the senate today by Senator Gault. He asked that the resolution be referred to the committee on resolutions.

Doherty's Bid Wins. Vancouver, Wash., Aug. 21.—D. F. Doherty was the successful bidder for equipping a pumping station for the new city cemetery. A number of bids were received at Monday evening's meeting of the council. Mr. Doherty's bid being for $865.80, considerably lower than any of the other bidders.

The bids were referred to the committee, which was given instructions to consult with the city engineer. The decision was reached yesterday.

Story of Impounded Dog Touches Officials. Girl Tells of Old Remedy for Rheumatism

Struck by the story of 14-year-old Florence Wyck, of 308 Tenth street, of how her dog had been impounded in the city pound and she had been unable to get the money to release it. Commissioners Daly and Bigelow this morning agreed to pay the necessary amount and now the girl will get her animal. In two days it would have been in dog heaven.

The girl told of how she had saved all the money she could and placed it in an iron bank only to find when it was opened that she was still several dollars short of having enough to get her dog out of the pound. She said that a physician had told her that the animal was invaluable, for by holding it close to her body it would help her rheumatic trouble.

The dog had escaped from the house while her mother was washing, said the girl with sobs shaking her slender body. She said it had been taken to the pound and that it would cost $7.25 before it was released. Commissioner Daly said that he would pay the amount and Commissioner Bigelow asked to be allowed to help, so now the girl will get the dog which is supposed to help her rheumatism.

Plans to Attract Tourists Discussed

Seattle, Tacoma and Portland Propose to Work in Harmony for Common Good.

Plans whereby a large part of the travel next year to the San Francisco exposition may be diverted to the cities of the northwestern states were discussed at an executive committee meeting of the Commercial club today.

The speakers were Samuel Collier, chairman of the publicity and industrial committee of the Seattle Chamber of Commerce, and T. H. Martin, secretary of the Tacoma Commercial club and Chamber of Commerce. This morning the visitors conferred with Franklin T. Griffith, chairman of the executive committee, C. C. Chapman, club secretary, and Walter F. Burrell, chairman of the tourist committee of the Oregon Development league.

An effort is being made to secure the cooperation of the commercial organizations of the four large northwestern cities, Spokane, Tacoma, Seattle and Portland, in the plans to attract tourists.

Two New Bridges Out Houlton Way

Houlton, Or., Aug. 21.—Two steel bridges are being built across Milton creek in Houlton, on Main street, where the bridge built 10 years ago has just been torn out. The street will be straightened and generally improved. The other bridge is on the road leading to St. Helens, through Railroad addition. There has been no bridge here for a good many years—merely a ford, which became impassable in very high water.

Several other building projects are going forward in St. Helens. J. E. Griffith has just completed a remarkably fine dwelling for Matt Hazen, and A. M. Williams is putting up a nice place on Oak street. Mr. Hummel is excavating for the basement of his new dwelling on his farm just outside the city limits. E. A. Crouse is pushing the work on the two-room schoolhouse he is building for Columbia Heights district near here, and the work on the Yankton schoolhouse is nearing completion.

Returns With Prisoner. Deputy Sheriff Dick Tennant returned from Marshfield last night with Jay Potter, wanted here on charge of non-support. Potter was placed in the county jail to await a hearing before the district court.

Friends Intercede For Convicted Pair. A petition purporting to be signed by 35 Sellwood women asking that Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Buchanan, who were convicted a week ago of beating their 9-year-old son unmercifully, be shown leniency, was offered to Miss Emma Butler of the juvenile court this morning.

The Buchanans appealed from the sentence of 10 days' imprisonment imposed on each by Municipal Judge Stevenson, but the transcript of the Clerk Coffey's office. The petitioners were advised to wait until Circuit Judge Morrow, who is handling criminal cases, returns from vacation, and besting the leaves in, called upon the local police department for assistance in apprehending the runaway.

After a conference on the dock, however, the son agreed to go back home, and the result the family left for Berkeley today. Young Bailey had been a student at the University of California, but it was only recently that they discovered that he had not been attending classes. His runaway from home followed.

The market remained unsteady and jobbers predict a further reduction in the price of this commodity before the week is over.

GERMANY'S PLACE IN THE SUN

From the Philadelphia Public Ledger. There is a passion for progress in Germany. It is the home of original thinkers. There the application of intellectuality to material problems has amazed the world. German philosophy long dominated the field of pure reason even before Prussian armies welded together the minor states and created a nation in a form worthy of the aspirations of the inhabitants. Science has been given a new meaning by Germans and a new field of operation. The German universities have become beacon lights in human progress. In no department of science have they failed to acquire knowledge and use it for the uplift of the race. Out of Germany, too, have come some of the most powerful arguments and capable and eloquent advocates of democracy and liberal theories of government. It would be fair to say that no nation, unless it be the United States, has contributed so much to the progress of the world in the last half century as Germany.

It is a tragedy that the war drums now summon the energies of so great a people and martial law defies their activities. It is a pity that Germany's great thinking machines are being made targets for bullets. There is a prayer from all the world that, whatever doom the war may sound, it will not dry the wells whence such a flow of useful arts has come. Civilization can survive the loss of a great man; it staggers when a great people, among whom art and industry and culture have flourished, are humiliated, destroyed as a nation, or manacled by political shackles which hamper their influence and atrophy their mental activities.

Germany's place in the sun must not be blotted out; it cannot be. Indeed, a Germany relieved of militarism, freed to advance in the peaceful arts, would push its commercial and intellectual frontiers around the globe. It has done so already in spite of armies. If romance belongs to France, Germany in material achievements has been the United States of Europe. Its thinkers in many ways have dominated modern thought. One of the chief assets of the world is at stake in the titanic contest.

Deutschlands Platz ist in der Sonne und nicht im Schatten; Deutschland darf nicht zerstört werden, es kann nicht sein! In der Tat, ein Deutschland, das besitzend die Welt, ein Deutschland, das die Freiheit der Menschheit kann, würde seine kommerziellen und intellektuellen Grenzen um die ganze Welt ziehen.

Die Romantik hat in Frankreich ihre Heimat, Deutschland aber mit seiner progressiven Entwicklung in Handel, Wissenschaft, sozialer Gesetzgebung, ist die granitische aufblühende Basis für die Vereinigten Staaten von Europa.

Deutschlands Denker stehen in der ersten Reihe der Modernen. Wie schade, dass diese so weit vorgeschrittenen Land nun in Gefahr steht in diesem titanischen Kampfe seine so berechnete Existenz zu verlieren.

Runaway Youth Is Met by Parents

Berkeley, Cal., Student, Comes Here by Steamer While Father and Mother Take Train; Family Reunited. When Lawrence True Bailey, a youth of Berkeley, Cal., walked down the gangplank of the steamer Beaver at Alsworth dock yesterday afternoon, having run away from the parental roof, he walked right into his parents, who were waiting for him with outstretched arms, and City Detective Hawley.

They had come from California by train. While Lawrence was enjoying the soft breezes of the Oregon coast, and besting the leaves in, called upon the local police department for assistance in apprehending the runaway.

After a conference on the dock, however, the son agreed to go back home, and the result the family left for Berkeley today. Young Bailey had been a student at the University of California, but it was only recently that they discovered that he had not been attending classes. His runaway from home followed.

UNFAIRNESS CHARGED AGAINST COUNCIL IN SELECTION OF PAVING

I. N. Day Asserts in Five Cases When He Was Low Bidder, Bids Were Rejected COMMISSIONERS. ANGERED

Brewster and Dick Declare They Resent Charge of Underhandedness—Alleged Methods of Companies.

Charging that the city council had been unfair to his company in not awarding contracts for street work when his bids had been the lowest, I. N. Day of the Oregon Independent Paving company appeared before the city commissioners this morning and gave some information as to alleged methods of paving companies to induce property-owners to petition for their particular type of pavement. His charges of unfairness and of strange coincidences caused several tilts between him and Commissioners Brewster and Dick.

Mr. Day stated that a large majority of the petitions specifying some certain type of pavement were circulated by David and Company, interested and not by property-owners. He said that signatures were secured through promises of rebate and other representations. His plea was that the council should be the judge of a class of pavement to be laid, and not the paving companies.

Explanations Not Satisfactory. Day pointed out that on five streets where his company had submitted the lowest bid the bids were rejected. He said that in some instances his prices were remarkably low. Partial explanations of the council's action were made, but were not satisfactory to Day.

Other charges were made, and Commissioner Brewster stated that he resented any charge or insinuation that the council had been "underhanded" in its actions. Commissioner Dick also retorted that he resented the charges, and it was only when Mayor Albee interposed that harmony was restored.

Mr. Day said the treatment of contractors such as his company had received is not that which would warrant fair and open treatment in return. He asked whether it was still necessary to get petitions signed by property-owners before a contract for work could be secured as was the practice in former years.

At this, Mayor Albee asked him if he did not believe that petitions should be granted when they were signed by the majority of property-owners on a street, and if property-owners should not be allowed to have what they wanted to pay for.

Mr. Day replied that it was the business of the council to decide on the lowest bid, and not the paving companies which circulated the petitions.

PRICE MAKES NO DIFFERENCE City to Pay Thrice Assessed Value for Land for Detention Home.

Although it is held at about three times its assessed valuation the city council proposes to purchase the H. C. Campbell tract of 31 acres near Troutdale for the establishment of a municipal detention and industrial home for women. The matter was discussed by the council yesterday afternoon and it was the consensus of opinion that the Campbell tract should be purchased for $8000.

Last year the tract was assessed for $2800, including the value of the land with buildings. Several months ago some of the buildings were burned, and according to Deputy County Assessor Funk the property is now only assessed at $2750. Yet the city proposes to pay $8000 for the acreage.

According to Mayor Albee the plan to use a portion of the county poor farm land is unfeasible as it is necessary for the city to buy property of its own. He says that land in the vicinity is being held at about $400 an acre and the city has a chance to secure the tract at about $258 an acre.

SYRIANS' LICENSES REVOKED Misrepresentations by Peddlers Is Assigned as Reason.

Because of alleged misrepresentations being made to the city license department the city council this morning revoked the licenses of H. Abad, Ahmed Hasan, Ally Ahmed, Esaw Ahmed and K. Ahmed, Syrians, to sell fancy work from house to house. Commissioner Bigelow charged that the men had been ordered to first make representation of their goods to the license department but the order had never been complied with. If caught peddling now the men are to be arrested.
