Mrs. Della Marsh Found Not Guilty

"Not guilty." The two words which formed the important part of the verdict by the jury which tried Mrs. Della Marsh on a charge of second degree murder were read at 1:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon, 22 hours after the jury retired from Circuit Judge Morrow's courtroom to deliberate on their verdict. Mrs. Marsh was tried on the charge of second degree murder for the shooting of Bernard C. Linstrom, manager of the Oregon Artificial Limb company, following a quarrel at the Palace hotel August 7. Mrs. Marsh had lived with Linstrom despite the fact that Linstrom was married and had a wife, a son and a daughter living in Kings Bridge, N. Y. Mrs. Marsh, in her testimony, bared the secrets of her life with Linstrom and said that the quarrel resulted from his refusal to divorce his wife and marry her and his subsequent treatment of her. Mrs. J. Compton, mother of Mrs. Marsh, and J. E. Marsh, an Idaho veterinary and former husband of Mrs. Marsh, assisted her to the jail and took her away about 2:30 o'clock a free woman. Mrs. Marsh had been in jail since the day of the shooting. Mrs. Marsh testified that she stood ready to take her back. During the trial she also admitted his willingness before they were divorced that she should secure a divorce, telling of a conference with Linstrom at which the matter was arranged amicably. He also displayed a diamond ring during the trial which he said Linstrom had given him at the time for "expenses." Mrs. Marsh did not indicate whether or not she would return to Marsh, saying she had made no definite plans as yet, but that she intended to leave Portland at once. Her parents reside in western Oregon.
