

MRS. STUBBS LIKENED UNTO ORMSBY M'HARG BY REPUBLICAN VOTER

"The Interests" Suspected of Being Behind Anti-Chamberlain Suffrage Worker.

PREDICTS HASTY RETREAT

Dislike of Man Who Cannot Be Log-Rolled Believed Back of Move; Tribute Paid Dr. Smith.

Carrollton, Wash., Sept. 28.—To the Editor of The Journal—I notice with much interest the effort being made by Mrs. Stubbs of Illinois to defeat Senator Chamberlain of Oregon at the coming fall election, and, on the ground, as claimed, being in the interest of woman suffrage, when, as a matter of fact, according to all surface indications it appears she must be employed by and working for "the interests."

She most certainly has not a vestige of ground on which to stand, such as an honest, sensible woman would naturally desire in a worthy cause, in an attempt to defeat the senator in the interest of woman suffrage.

Senator Chamberlain's position on the woman suffrage question is well and favorably known in the country, and I believe the woman voters of Oregon will treat Mrs. Stubbs' effort with scorn and in such a manner that, provided she possesses the intelligence usually credited to one employed on a worthy mission, she will soon be as anxious to beat a hasty retreat homeward as was a certain Mr. M'Henry, whom, some years ago, "the interests" sent into Oregon to try to induce some of the Oregon legislators to stultify themselves by repudiating Statement One.

Fremstad Reason Declared Filmy.

I believe your editorials commenting on Mrs. Stubbs' foolish mission into Oregon will make a live question before voters of the state, and induce them to seek her real motive, being forced to the conclusion it would show the height of folly for her to attempt to make us believe she has been sent here in the interest of woman suffrage in 1914, when equal suffrage has been enjoyed by Oregon voters since 1912, donors of the $15,000 supplied to Mrs. Stubbs are too shrewd to throw their money away on such filmy pretexts.

There is some other object to be gained, but what is it? To my mind, the reason is obvious. Her employers, "the interests," want Senator Chamberlain's political scalp, also the scalp of every other conscientious Democrat who has taken an interest, with President Wilson, in securing honest legislation in places all on an equal footing before the law, something entirely at variance with desire of "the interests," who in the past have enjoyed special privileges.

Moat's Warning Recalled.

The unjustifiable hoarding of money by numerous banks and trust companies in various sections of the country, as reported by Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo, whether with the intent that quite recently numerous mill factories and other employers have either suspended operations or reduced wages, is, in my opinion, convincing argument that there is a concerted movement on foot to bring about such distressing conditions as will justify them ("the interests") in howling "The Empty Diner" and in attempting to coerce many voters into supporting "Republicanism and Prosperity" so called, for the favored few, "the interests."

The letter signed by "Traveler," under heading of "Anti-Democratic Campaign," and published in The Journal of September 24, clearly exposes "the interests'" invidious method of securing results to bring about a period of hard times, thus enabling them to once more hoodwink the people as of yore.

Writer Disgusted With "Machine."

As for myself, I have been a voter and resident of Oregon since 1879, and usually supported the Republican ticket until the disreputable methods employed by the "machine" or "assembly" element of that party disgusted me and induced me to quit them until fair open methods could prevail. This course I have been pleased to notice, has been very liberally followed for several years, judging from results attained.

Being temporarily out of Oregon, yet having taken some interest in her political welfare heretofore, I ask the privilege, through the medium of The Journal, of expressing my private preference publicly with reference to the reelection of governor and senator, November 3.

During our residence of 34 years in Umatilla and Douglas counties of Oregon, we were very well acquainted with Dr. Smith, who has been our family physician while living in the dieton. In the doctor's present race for governor against Dr. Withycombe, whom I have never met, and who, in many ways, is a more suitable aspirant as Dr. Smith, he seems unfortunate in not having the necessary gift or consent of his political managers' to discuss popular topics altogether satisfactorily. But I am proud

SIMPLE WAY TO END DANDRUFF

Stop Falling Hair and Itching Scalp.

There is one sure way that has never failed to remove dandruff at once, and that is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, just get about four ounces of plain, common liquid arvon from any drug store (this is all you will need), apply it at night when retiring, use enoug to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning most, if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve, and entirely destroy, every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find all itching and digging of the scalp will stop instantly, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

If you value your hair, you should get rid of dandruff at once, for nothing destroys the hair so quickly. It not only starves the hair and makes it fall out, but it makes it stringy, straggly, dull dry, brittle and lifeless, and everybody notices it.—Adv.

CAMAS GIRLS HIKE TO PORTLAND FROM HOME

Pathfinders in every sense of the word, two Camas, Wash., belles, hiked from the Washington city to Portland Sunday, the first Camas girls to walk from their homes to the Rose City. They were Miss Amelia Lorenz and Miss Julia Chibberg, well known members of Camas' younger set. The of Dr. Smith, with his advanced and suggested reforms, all seeming in line for the betterment and retrenchment of government, and, being unhampered the talks and writes frankly and freely of what he believes and favors, hence I should certainly support him for governor.

Chamberlain Has Made Good.

As to the senatorial aspirants, I had the privilege and pleasure of campaigning with Senator Chamberlain during his first race for governor through Douglas county, and during that time he gained my highest esteem, which his every official act and performance since then has strengthened. During my four years' work as assessor of Douglas county, I became quite well acquainted with Mr. Booth, now an opponent of Senator Chamberlain. My time covered the period from 1899 to 1903 inclusive, and during the time part of the timber locating business became so popular.

I was not aware, however, until certain cases developed in the courts, that Mr. Booth was accused of being implicated in the land fraud business. That blemish on his otherwise excellent reputation, recently brought to the attention of the voters by his own way, and the Morning Oregonian claims, editorially, that he succeeded.

Chamberlain Faithful to Public.

Aside from that, however, Mr. Booth's record in the Oregon legislature, insofar as the best interests of the common people are concerned, is such that I believe all fair-minded unprejudiced voters who bend their ears in fair play will shun him on election day. As to Senator Chamberlain, he is at his post of duty, where he has always been since becoming a public servant, and he has, officially or otherwise, an act or deed for which it became necessary to offer an apology to his constituents.

In conclusion, I might say, I have quite a large number of staunch friends in Oregon, who, I feel sure, will take more kindly to proffered advice from me as to who to vote for than they would from Mrs. Jessie Hardy Stubbs with a "long sack" from Illinois. Hence, in the interests of fair play for all, I hope to see Dr. Smith and Senator Chamberlain win in November.

Kay Heard on the Columbia Recall

Member of Highway Commission Says Plain Statement Was Made of Just What Work Would Be Done.

Salem, Or., Oct. 7.—State Treasurer Kay today took issue with the statements of H. C. Wood of The Dalles, who, discussing the Columbia county court recall situation, said:

"The greatest mistake the court made was in hitching up with the state highway commission, for the commission made promises, through its speakers, sent into the county prior to the vote on the road bonds, which it has no authority to fulfill."

"There is no foundation for such a statement," declared Kay, who is a member of the highway commission, with Governor West and Secretary of State Olcott. "The commission sent no speakers into the counties and the attitude of the commission was not misrepresented. I made no public statement at St. Helens, in the presence of Governor West and Secretary of State Olcott, the other members of the commission, who concurred, that we would only have a road of five miles of road in each of the counties of Columbia, Clatsop and Jackson, and that we had promised nothing more."

We had heard that a report had been circulated that the commission would hard surface a much larger area and I took pains to make it clear that nothing of the kind was contemplated. My statements were made in the St. Helens courthouse, before an audience of those interested, and I cannot understand how there could be any misunderstanding."

STATE CAPITAL NEWS

Salem, Or., Oct. 7.—Governor West has expressed pleasure over the appointment of Claude Gatch as one of the directors of the western federal reserve bank. Gatch was cashier of Ladd & Bush's bank when the governor was paying teltel and the governor lent his aid to secure the appointment for him.

State Treasurer Kay yesterday afternoon said that figures compiled in his office showed that the collection of inheritance taxes had increased $28,483.31 in the biennial period from October 1, 1912, to September 30, 1914, over the previous biennial period ending October 1, 1912. The collections from October 1, 1910, to September 30, 1912, totaled $135,010.45, while the collections from October 1, 1912, to September 30, 1914, totaled $163,493.66.

The inheritance tax on the Asabel Bush estate, of Marion county, contributed heavily to the fund of the bi-

ORDER OF THE GARTER WILL EXPEL KAISER BECAUSE OF LOUVAIN

Oldest Order of Chivalry in Europe Will Also Get Rid of German Princes.

British Naval Officer Tells How He Rested on Bottom for Hours to Avoid the German's Guns.

London, Sept. 28.—(By mail to New York)—Indications increased today that the Kaiser would lose his garter—not his ordinary hose supporter, but his badge of membership in "The most noble and honorable order" of that name.

He got it from Queen Victoria and was proud of it at the time, as constituting him a knight of the oldest and most exclusive order of chivalry in the world. Possibly how he will not much feel its loss—if at all.

The only embarrassing thing is to decide on a cause for his Germanic majesty's expulsion. There is no precedent for expelling a foreign monarch from the order and the Knights of the Garter set great store by precedent.

Treason Hard to Prove.

High treason would justify expulsion but the authorities agree that one ruler can hardly be accused of treason to another, even though they may be at war.

Practicalities seem to be that grounds for expulsion will be found in the Germans' destruction of Louvain, which experts at heraldry contend constituted treason to the lofty ideals of chivalry to which the order is dedicated.

Prince Henry of Prussia and the duke of Saxe-Coburg-Gotha undoubtedly ly will lose their garters, too.

Of the duke's case, the garter king of arms takes a very grave view, for the duke is not only a reigning German prince, but a "prince of Great Britain and Ireland," as well, which may make the treason charge stick against him without a resort to any heraldic quibbling or technicalities, as in the Kaiser's case and that of Prince Henry.

Nobility All Belong.

Including King George, the czar and the Kaiser, the Order of the Garter numbers, among its members 12 emperors and kings, 14 princes, 11 British dukes, six marquises, nine earls and one baronet—Foreign Minister Sir Edward Grey.

The last garter knight to be expelled was John, Duke of Ormand, a Jacobite nobleman who would have lost, not his garter alone, but his head, too, if he had not fled the country.

About the same time that the Kaiser, Prince Henry and the duke of Saxe-Coburg-Gotha lose their garters, King Albert of Belgium probably will have one presented to him.

Relating how his vessel rested on the ocean's bottom for hours after being sighted and fired on by German warships, the officer in charge of one of the British submarines said the men did not have a particularly tiresome time, as they played auction bridge while they waited until their craft could ascend to the surface and escape under cover of darkness.
