

HOLLAND BELIEVED TO BE CHICKEN MARKET

CHICKEN MARKET IS A ERRATIC; WEAK AND STRONG SPOTS SEEN

Some Claim Values Are Higher but Others Are Willing to Clean up at the Former Figures; Pekin Ducks Are a Scarce Article.

The chicken market was weak and strong in spots today. While there was talk in some quarters of a 1 1/2% market for hens and springs and even 15c was talked of in limited ways, other dealers were reporting that they would be quite willing to accept 14c to clean up. This fact would indicate that the entire market was by no means strong.

Receipts of chickens in the front street trade showed a rather liberal increase during the first days of the week. Buyers are much less keen to take hold at this time than they were last week or even on Monday. A few small lots were sold at fractionally higher prices, but the big buyers were holding back, claiming that they had ample needs for immediate requirements and expected to buy for less within a day or so.

There is a rather good demand for large sized chickens, but few of these are arriving. The market is showing quite fair stocks of Indian Runners and other fancy breeds, and dealers are asking 13c, but buyers are not offering above 12 1/2 a point.

VEAL MARKET IS DRAGGING

Market for veals is showing signs of weakness and lower prices. During the last 24 hours there were quite liberal receipts along the street, and stock is being dragged in tendency. Hogs unchanged.

CATTLE RATHER WEAK

With a further liberal increase in offerings, the market for caullion along the street is generally weak and while a few dealers are still asking as high as $1.25 for extra large heads, others are offering down to $1 for similar offerings.

EGG TRADE IS STILL MIXED

Market for eggs continues mixed along the street. Some boosting in trade wanted to know where they could obtain eggs at 21c on front street, and being given the information, did not buy. There is more bluff than strength in the trade at this time.

GRAPEFRUIT SALES ARE GOOD

Quite liberal business is shown in the market for grapefruit along Front street. Florida and late of Pines of oranges are good and the demand is excellent at $4.50 a crate according to size.

BUTTER MARKET IS WEAKER

Weaker tone is showing in the market for butter generally. Shaded prices are generally shown for the eastern known brands, and while city creamery report unchanged prices, the trade is less brisk.

CRAB SUPPLIES ONLY FAIR

Only fair supplies of crabs are shown in the local market and demand is good with prices generally maintained at $1.15 a dozen, according to size. Better supplies are expected within a few days.

PORTLAND LIVESTOCK RUN. Wednesday. Hogs, Cattle, Calves, Sheep. Tuesday 250 27 711 Monday 250 27 711 Sunday 250 27 711

There was a further sharp advance in the price of wheat cargoes in London today, with an excellent tone ruling in the market generally. While it is true that practically no business is reported here, owing to the congested condition of the trade, due to the late arrival of vessels from foreign loading, the feeling in the trade is rather steady at home, and in the country the situation continues firm.

What is believed to be orders for the situation generally, is shown in the trade generally throughout the country. Some of the biggest mills in the United States are loading, and quote prices on all available supplies for shipment to Holland immediately, and this business is expected to increase. While so far as known none of this has reached the Pacific northwest trade, it is the opinion of the experts that whatever foreign business is done among other millers of the country will have an indirect effect upon the market here.

Small Fortune is Represented in List of Prizes Offered. Five Thousand Dollars Value of Inducements in Journal's Trade Contest.

Five thousand dollars is a small-sized fortune and it takes most people a good many years to save the sum. And that is the value of the prizes which The Journal is offering to wide-awake people who join in the Circulation and Trade Contest that is now under way.

Opportunity to take a short cut to the possession of an automobile, a piano or gramophone, does not offer itself often, and no one has yet reported anyone who has won a prize to the Panama Pacific Exposition with expenses paid. But such things are included in The Journal's prize list, and you might win the prize and win a prize as anyone else.

The way it is done will be explained fully tomorrow in The Journal's advertisement. Keep an eye open, clip out the nominating blank, fill in your name and forward it to The Journal.

Merchants Are Aiding. It is a worth while proposition—something that opens wide the doors of opportunity and offers to energetic people the chance to gain prizes of value far in excess of the amount of work the contest imposes.

Watch for tomorrow's Journal, read the rules, ascertain the names of the firms where your business will gain you votes, then plunge in. If you don't wish to try, help a friend who does.
