PACIFIC COAST BOY STARTLES EASTERN FANS

"Seattle Bill" James, who made the most auspicious entry with a world series of any youngster in the history of baseball.

Written for the United Press. Shibe Park, Philadelphia, Oct. 10.—In one of the most remarkable games in the history of world series, the Boston Braves took their second game from the Athletics this afternoon.

Their victory was due to the masterly pitching of Bill James. He held the slugging Mack team to only two hits, disposed of them in order up to the ninth inning, and with four men facing him in the ninth, only 28 men took their places before him at the plate.

Eddie Plank, the Gettysburg veteran, opposing James, pitched almost as brilliantly. Plank was touched for seven hits but he kept them widely scattered. It was Deal, the Braves' substitute third baseman, who delivered the blow which really worked Plank's undoing.

Five times previous to the second game Deal had opportunities to drive in Boston runs but failed ingloriously. No Longer Weakest Spot.

He was regarded as the weakest spot in the Braves' pitching staff. He was out in the ninth, Deal drove a double to deep center. He then stole third and scored on Mann's single. This was another brilliant play by the Braves.

His move was vindicated when Mann delivered the swat that drove in the winning run. The ten to which the Athletic batters have been at the mercy of the Braves' pitchers was shown by the fact that they have made seven hits in two days. Schang doubled in the sixth inning today, but was immediately out attempting to steal third. Collins beat out an infield hit in the seventh.

It appeared for a moment in the ninth that James' pitching was weakening after the masterful way in which he had handled the Athletics. He walked Barry. This was his second base on balls of the game, as he had passed Murphy, the first man up in the initial inning. After Schang fished, Walsh also was walked, but a double play eliminated any chance of the Athletics scoring.

James whiffed eight of the Athletics' sluggers, putting Melnes, Strunk, Oldring and Schang on his list. McClellan and Strunk fanned twice, and Oldring's fanning was his third of the series.

James whiffed every time. James, his opponent in this great pitcher's battle, struck out every time he came to the plate. Plank gave four bases on balls and it appeared for a time in the sixth inning that he was about to blow the game. He hit Schmidt with a slow one. "Butch" was not permitted to take his base and then fied to Murphy in the eighth. Gowdy then walked. Plank apparently having lost control completely. He hit Marsanville and there were two men on bases. Deal again failed to come through, however, and forced Gowdy at third.

One of the most remarkable plays of the game was pulled off by Barry and Melnes in the eighth. Barry and Caters hit a wicked roller straight toward second, which Barry came in for, stabbed it and, by a lightning like throw, shot it to Melnes. It was

ALLIES GAIN NORTH OF THE OISE, CLAIMS OFFICIAL STATEMENT

Full Utilization of Cavalry Is Prohibited by Rough Nature of Ground.

Paris, Oct. 10.—"The Great Battle," as the struggle in northern France is now regularly referred to in all official communications, was progressing satisfactorily, from the allies' standpoint, it was announced in the Bordeaux war office's usual statement, received here at 3 o'clock this afternoon.

Violent German attacks on the Franco-British left had been repulsed, it was said, and north of the Oise gains were claimed for the allies at several points. In the extreme north fighting was reported still raging, though not exactly in the form of a general engagement, owing to the broken character of the country.

The French were said to be advancing above St. Mihiel. The statement's text was as follows: "The great battle continues satisfactorily. We have maintained our positions all along the line in the face of vigorous attacks by the enemy, particularly on our left, in the region of Arras, Cambrai, Cassel and La Bassée. Several advantageous positions. The fullest utilization of our cavalry is impossible because of the rough nature of the ground. Antwerp was taken yesterday, but no details of the city's occupation are available.

"On our right, in the region of St. Mihiel, we have made progress. Severe fighting progresses on the east Prussian frontier in which the Russians have had a measure of success. They hold Lyck. The struggle of tremor continues, the Russians having captured one of the principal forts."

It proposes a straight tax of six cents per gallon on wine and increases the tax on grape brandy and distilled spirits used in fortifying wines from three cents per gallon to 55 cents per gallon. Debate on the war tax measure will begin in the senate this afternoon.

Mexico Tied Up by Carmen's Strike

Cabmen Join in and Ask for 100 Per Cent More Pay, Eight Hour Day and Union Recognition.

Mexico City, Oct. 10.—To the generally confused state of affairs in the Mexican capital there was added the further complication today of a practically complete tie-up of transportation as a result of the cabmen's and street railroad employes' strike.

At such a time, a struggle of this sort was looked on as especially dangerous and the local authorities were watching the situation closely. The strikers want 100 per cent more pay, an eight hour day and union recognition.

ANTWERP IS IN CONTROL OF INVADERS

Belgian City Surrenders to German General von Vedeler Unconditionally After Bombardment for Two Days and Two Nights.

BELGIAN ARMY GETS AWAY IN SAFETY

Nearly All the Inhabitants Also Left Before the Germans Took Possession; City Is Badly Wrecked by Shells During Siege.

The Hague, Oct. 8.—(Delayed by the censor)—Antwerp surrendered to the Germans at 9 a. m. today.

A white flag was hoisted on the cathedral spire and the bombardment ceased.

Then Burgomaster de Vos and Alderman Louis Frank went to the Berchem gate and met General von Vedeler, to whom they unconditionally yielded up the city.

Great Damage to City. London, Oct. 10.—Antwerp has surrendered.

The Germans have entered it. It is burning in many places. Two-thirds of the city has been wrecked by the bombardment.

The Belgians hold only a few isolated forts of the inner ring. They were firing in a desultory manner at latest accounts.

The Belgian legion here had not, indeed, received official notification of the surrender up to noon today and officials there said they doubted it. The information, however, was from too many reliable sources and is too much detail to be seriously questioned. Before the city's fall two thirds of its population and practically the whole of its garrison had evacuated it. The burgomaster and military commander had decided further sacrifices were useless. Surrender having been

Postoffice Safe Is Robbed by Yeggs

Daring Burglary Committed in Thickly Settled Residence District of Los Angeles.

Los Angeles, Oct. 10.—Yeggmen dynamited the safe of a postoffice substitution in a thickly settled residential district of Los Angeles, early today, and escaped with stamps and negotiable money orders worth $15,000, and $175 in coin.

A police automobile patrol wagon on its way to the sub-station after the robbery, collided with a telephone pole and overturned. Several officers were bruised.

The burglars entered the station by means of a key fashioned with the aid of a wax impression of the lock. Finger prints were left on the safe, which were photographed.

He's Not Very Big, But Hand Is Vise

Victim of Galloway's Handshake, Says He Lost a Finger and Stes for Heavy Damages.

Los Angeles, Oct. 10.—C. B. Galloway, 50, who is five feet and six inches tall and weighs 130 pounds, is defendant today in a suit for $273,550, brought by G. W. Markham, who alleges that a crushing handshake by Galloway almost ended his life.

"My hand was so badly crushed," Markham said, "that blood poisoning developed and I lost a finger." "Jack" Jeffries, brother of Jim Jeffries, and once a pugilist himself, testifying for Markham, said he once shook hands with Galloway, and that he would rather take a chance with a vise than try it again.

Marse Henry Will Call on President

Little Unpleasantness Was Forgotten, and Veteran Editor Resumes Relations of Friendliness.

Washington, Oct. 10.—President Wilson and Colonel Henry Watterson, editor of the Louisville Courier-Journal, have exchanged letters, and Watterson will call at the White House soon, it was learned here today. Recently Colonel Watterson wrote the president, regretting the latter's indisposition, and saying "disability" of the president would be a "national calamity." Another note of condolence was written by Colonel Watterson at the time of the city's surrender had capitulated.

WHITE FLAG WAS HOISTED ON THIS SPIRE

Cathedral at Antwerp, from which the signal of surrender to the Germans was flown. This notable structure was damaged by the artillery fire of the invaders. When the city was threatened by Zeppelins, guns were mounted in the spire to protect the city from the flying terrors.

INNES AND HIS WIFE INDICTED ON CHARGE MURDER BY JURORS

Charge of Conspiracy to Kill Is Also Laid Against Former Portland Man.

San Antonio, Texas, Oct. 10.—Victor E. Innes and Mrs. Innes, his wife, were indicted jointly today by the grand jury on a charge of having murdered Mrs. Eloise Nelms Dennis and Beatrice Nelms and on an additional charge of conspiracy to murder the two girls. In all, four indictments were returned, despite the fact that the state admittedly is no nearer to proving the corpus delicti of the missing girls than it was a month ago.

The habeas corpus hearing for Innes and his wife is set for next Thursday morning in the criminal court, at which time the state is expected to adduce whatever proof it has to substantiate the charges.

The murder indictment recites that Innes and Mrs. Innes "on or about" (Concluded on Page Two, Column Six)

Speaker Brings Wilson Message

Clay Tallman, Commissioner General Lead Office, Chief Speaker at Democratic Meeting Tonight at Library.

Clay Tallman, commissioner of the general land office at Washington, D. C., will be the principal speaker at the Democratic meeting to be held tonight in Library hall, in the Central library, at Tenth and Yamhill streets.

Another speaker will be Walter M. Pierce of La Grande, prominent Democrat of eastern Oregon, and A. E. Flegel, Democratic candidate for congressman from the third district, will discuss the issues of the campaign. Richard W. Montague will preside.

Arriving in Portland this morning, Mr. Tallman brings a message from the Wilson administration to the people of Oregon. His office is next in importance to members of the president's cabinet, and is of immense importance to the people of the west because all public land matters come within the jurisdiction of his department.

Mr. Tallman is a western man, familiar with the needs of the west. He was appointed from Nevada, where he was a prominent mining lawyer. The meeting tonight will be held at 8 o'clock and everyone is invited to hear an able discussion of questions of interest to every voter.

Speeder Sentenced To the Rockpile

Penalty Imposed on Man Who Drove Car Which Was Wrecked Causing Death of Three Men.

Ross Cummings, driver of the auto which was wrecked, the accident resulting in the death of three men on September 28, was given 90 days on the rock pile this morning in the municipal court for reckless driving.

The original charge against Cummings was manslaughter, growing out of the coroner's inquest, but the grand jury failed to look favorably upon this charge and recommended the conviction of the municipal court under the violation of the traffic laws. The fourth man injured in the Good Samaritan hospital with good chances of recovery.

Cummings pleaded guilty. Active in the prosecution of the case was the "Safety First" movement, represented specially by H. P. Coffin. Cummings' parents live at Hood River. The mother was present in court this morning. After the sentence she was given permission to talk with the son.

Gallant Russians Rescue Baby From Bullet Swept Road

Petrograd, Sept. 22.—(By mail to New York)—The rescue of an 18 months old baby girl, crawling in a village street which was being swept by shrapnel fire, has won for three Russian artillerymen the cross of St. George, conferred on them by the czar.

A Russian battery was retreating near Lemberg when one of the gunners saw the baby crawling from the doorway of one of the houses right in front of the guns. Without hesitating a moment he dismounted and rushed to pick up the child, which was crawling with delight at the sight of the galloping horses.

Just as the gunner reached the infant a shell burst overhead. The Russian threw himself on the ground and shielded the little one with his own body. A fragment of the shell struck him in the spine and prevented him arising. Two of his comrades sprang to his assistance and carried him, with his little protégé, to the battery amidst a storm of Austrian bullets.

ON RUSH OF CZAR'S HOST BLOCKED BY FIERCE FIRE

Graphic Description of Battle of Wirballen, on North-east Border of East Prussia as Witnessed by United Press Correspondent.

TERRIBLE SLAUGHTER OF ATTACKING ARMY

Russians Charge Up to German Lines Only to Be Mowed Down by the Murderous Fire of Kaiser's Machine Guns.

(The following account of the battle of Wirballen, by Karl H. von Wiegand, manager of the United Press Berlin bureau, and the first foreign correspondent permitted on the Russo-German fighting line, is the initial eye witness story from an American in the eastern war zone.)

By Karl H. von Wiegand. The Firing Line Near Wirballen, via The Hague and London, Oct. 8.—At sunset tonight, after four days of constant fighting, the German army holds its strategic, strongly entrenched position east of Wirballen.

As I write this in the glare of a screened automobile headlight, several yards from the German trenches, I can catch the occasional high notes of a soldier's chorus. For four days the singers have lain in cramped attitudes in muddy trenches unable to move or stretch themselves except under cover of darkness. And still they sing.

I believe they are on the eve of a great victory. I reached the battlefield of Wirballen before daylight, armed with a paper issued by the general staff, and accompanied by three officers, who were assigned to "chaperon" me and furnished me with technical information.

We traveled three days by automobile, and then our machine broke down within three miles of the right wing of the German position. We continued on foot.

Blood Against Steel. Today I saw a wave of Russian steel and blood dash against a wall of German steel. The wall stood, inviolate. We traveled slowly back from it. I don't know why correspondents are not wanted on the battle lines. Descriptions and details of battles fought in the year of our Lord 1914 do not make interesting reading.

We watched the firing line at a point near the extreme right of the German position shortly before daylight, and breakfasted with the officers commanding the field battery. Supplies of ammunition brought up during the night were being stored in the case of an artilleryman with a shovel went about throwing loose soil over certain dark, slippery spots by one of the guns. I saw shovels similarly employed by other soldiers.

Dusk revealed guns on the reverse side of the hill, their muzzles apparently pointing directly up the ascending slope. Suddenly there was a weird, tooth-

FLEGEL NOW FORGING AHEAD STEADILY IN CONGRESSIONAL RACE

Democratic Gains Render Administration Candidate's Election Certainty.

Indications point strongly to the election of A. E. Flegel as congressman from the third district, which comprises Multnomah county alone. Various causes are contributing to the success of his campaign. The strong disposition among the voters to uphold the administration of President Wilson is a large factor. Mr. Flegel's clean record in both public and private life, is another. The weakness of his opponents is still another.

The fight is four-cornered. Flegel is the democratic nominee, C. N. Mc-
