

FIND BODY OF LAD WHO WENT HUNTING WITH A COMPANION

Matthew Harris, 11 Years Old, Victim of Bullet Which Penetrated His Heart.

CCRPE WAS IN CREEK

Victim's Father Follows Tracks of Something Dragged; Makes the Discovery.

(Special to The Journal.) Vancouver, Wash., Oct. 13.—Mystery surrounds the death of Matthew Harris, the 11-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Harris, of Sara, who disappeared from his home last Saturday afternoon and whose body was found late yesterday afternoon in Whipple creek with a bullet wound in his heart, and Alvah Tower, with whom he was last seen alive, is being held in the county jail pending the result of the coroner's inquest which will be held this afternoon.

At a point some distance above where the body was found marks were discovered on a steep bank which appeared as if something had been dragged down the bank. This was discovered by the dead boy's father, who investigated further and found his son's body under a pile of brush and ties in the creek.

Will Hold Inquest.

Young Matthew was last seen alive Saturday afternoon, when he left in company with Alvah Tower, who also resides at Sara and attends school in Vancouver. When he did not return home Saturday evening search was instituted which led to the discovery of his body in Whipple creek yesterday. Bloodhounds owned by Sheriff Word of Multnomah county, were used in the search, which was participated in by fully 150 men and boys under the direction of Sheriff Cresap and Deputy Sheriff Johnson.

Coroner Limber was notified immediately upon the finding of the body and decided to hold an inquest today. He will be accompanied by Dr. J. I. Guerin who will probe for the bullet, which is supposed to be a .22 caliber. The rifle which young Harris carried when he left has not been found yet and a search will be made for this also.

Tower Denies Knowledge.

Alvah Tower denies any knowledge of the shooting and claims that they had gone to L. R. Thurman's place, later getting dinner at their own homes. He had his own gun and another belonging to M. V. Bond, which was given to Harris. They then, according to his story, started down the railroad track to a popcorn field, where Harris began picking popcorn. This he claims, was the last he saw of Harris, as he went on hunting for pheasants, leaving Harris to pick corn. Harris was born in Virginia and was about a year old when he came west with his parents, who located at Gresham for a time, later coming to this county. He is survived by his parents and two sisters, Mrs. Walter Geborn, of Sauvie island; Mrs. James B. Falkner, living in Missouri; Fannie, Tessie and Katie, residing at home.

Funeral services will probably be held at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning at the Christian church at Sara. Interment will be in the family plot in the Sara cemetery.

S. Benson Makes Hood River Refund

Sends Check to County Judge Stanton Due as Per Promise for the Survey by the Highway Commission.

Hood River, Or., Oct. 13.—County Judge E. R. Stanton was the recipient today of a check from S. Benson in the sum of $4010.29, this being the balance due Hood River county as a refund for the survey made through the county by the state highway commission and for which the county advanced the money. Mr. Benson said that the amount should be refunded, and made good his word today. He also enclosed a check for $21,541.54, being the balance due on the first $25,000 bond issue. H. G. Newport, president of the Newport Construction company, which has the contract for the building of the Columbia river highway through Hood River county, where Harris began picking popcorn, has a full crew of men at work on the highway, and that work is being rushed as fast as men and machinery can accomplish it. It is expected that if open weather continues for a month or so longer most of the dirt road will have been finished.

The speaker prophesied that the time will come when war will be no more, and that America will be the force that brings about this era of humanity. D. L. Callier was chairman of the evening, and music was furnished by Miss Grace Dawson, Hugh Kennedy, Miss Anna Clancy, Mrs. Rose Friedlander, Miss Marie Chapman and the Treble Triad of St. Mary's. Father E. V. O'Hara was general chairman of the day's celebration.

"I BOUGHT ALL THESE DARLING CLOTHES AND DIDN'T BOTHER ABOUT THE MONEY"

"Oh, I'll have plenty of money in a few weeks! But do you think I like to blossom out in gorgeous new attire a month after everyone else and just when the seasons are about to change again? This fall I bought my clothes at CHERRY'S. Yes, I USED MY CREDIT and I'm provoked to think I never did it before!

"Why, money is just about six times as valuable to a woman at the start of the season as it is at the end. If you have to wait while you save, you lose all the fun of 'sporting' new styles while they're new.

"But CHERRY'S know how to iron out the worry wrinkles for the women who love clothes! Go to their store any time you see what a lovely, refined sort of shop it is. The Autumn things are exquisite—such clever suits and charming dresses and smart, jaunty coats.

"A little of the price is all they ask at first. You WEAR your purchase all the time you're paying for it. You'll love CHERRY'S line of Basque and Redingote dresses. They're unusually graceful. The address? 339-331 Washington St., in the Pittock block. (Adv.)"

SILVERTON EDITOR IN PRISON OBJECTS TO SHERIFF CENSORSHIP

Hosmer's Plan to Carry on Publication From Cell Upset by Action of Official.

(Salem Bureau of The Journal.) Salem, Or., Oct. 13.—Editor J. H. Hosmer, of the Silverton Journal, who is serving a sentence of 100 days in the county jail for libeling the Sisters of Mt. Angel convent, says he believes he should be permitted to publish articles in his paper without censorship of Sheriff Esch.

"I prepared an article for publication in the next week's issue of the Silverton Journal soon after my arrival here and turned it over to Sheriff Esch. He read it over and told me that I could not have anything of that nature transmitted from the county jail. I question the right of the sheriff to censor my articles. It is my belief that I have a right to send any articles suitable for publication in my paper."

Editor Hosmer had planned on editing his paper from the county jail and says he sheriff upset his calculations. In order to follow the record of the past, it would be necessary to write vigorous articles.

"It seems like 70,000 years since I came to this jail," said Hosmer today, through the bars. He had heard, however, that his friends were actively at work preparing petitions for his pardon and forwarding them to Governor West.

At Governor West's office it was stated that several petitions asking for the release of Hosmer had been received during the past few days, but no action had been taken.

Hosmer has been in jail 50 days. He refused to pay a fine of $200, electing to serve sentence in jail.

Sheriff Esch states that the articles which he had refused to allow Hosmer to send to the Silverton Journal were full of vilification and abuse and he could not permit such matter to be sent out by a man serving sentence and fulfill the duties of his office.

He says that he told Hosmer that he could write articles temperate in tone and he would forward them.

"Hosmer is treated the same as any other prisoner serving sentence here," says Sheriff Esch. "There are rules and regulations and they are followed."
