

McMINNVILLE PEOPLE TO HAVE CHANCE IN GREAT PRIZE CONTEST

Smith & Wilson Department Store of That Place Adds Another Source for Votes. CHANCES FOR ALL EQUAL

Allotment is Arranged So One District Will Consist of All Territory Outside of Portland.

McMinnville people should have a share of those splendid contest prizes. I believe in helping them win, so just count the Smith & Wilson department store in The Journal's trade and circulation contest, said F. S. Wilson, a member of the McMinnville firm.

And as a result of his action, McMinnville people who trade at the big merchandising store operated by them will enjoy an added source for votes.

The Smith & Wilson store is the first outside of Portland firm to enter the contest. Mr. Wilson decided to do it because he says he likes to help ambitious people. He is enthusiastic over the contest arrangement whereby people residing in Portland, in Oregon and the northwest at large, are given an equal opportunity to share in the $5000 worth of prizes that will be awarded wideawake people February 24 when the contest closes.

No Favorites to Be Played.

In McMinnville, the Smith & Wilson store will play no favorites. Each candidate will be encouraged in every way possible but the store will not use its influence for one or against another.

"That's the only fair way," said Mr. Wilson. "All we want to see is that McMinnville people draw down their share of those prizes and now that we have provided another means for them to secure votes, we want to see our townsmen get busy."

The contest is so arranged that people residing outside of Portland are absolutely certain of winning at least one-fourth of all prizes offered. Portland is divided into three districts, Nos. 1, 2 and 3, and District 4 comprises all territory outside of Portland.

In addition to the two grand prizes that go to the persons having the first and second highest votes of all districts, there are six prizes set aside for each of the four districts.

Pianos Are First Prizes.

In each district the first prize is a high grade piano, the second prize, a trip for two persons to the Panama Pacific exposition with all expenses paid for a week and $50 spending money, the third prize the same trip for one person, expenses paid and $25 spending money. The fourth prize is a $75 Columbia gramophone, the fifth a $50 gramophone and the sixth prize a $25 gramophone.

The first grand prize is a $1280 touring car—"Reo the Fifth" and the second grand prize, a Maxwell 25, price $550.

The rules and instructions in connection with the contest, along with a nomination blank were published in The Journal's advertising section yesterday and will appear in Sunday's Journal.

CHAMBERLAIN IN ANSWER TO HIS ENEMIES

In fine form and spoke with an earnestness that carried the big crowd with him. He said he deplored the kind of a campaign that was being waged and that no one could say that he had ever assailed a man's character.

"I hope I will not have to enter into that kind of a campaign," he declared, "but if it becomes necessary for me to defend my good name, and that of my wife and six children, who were born, educated, and honorably reared in Oregon, I want you to know there is one man in the state who can and will fight back and teach his enemies that those who live in glass houses ought not to cast stones either personally or by their agents."

Discusses the Tariff.

When discussing the new tariff law, Senator Chamberlain cleverly and forcibly drove home the point as to who was getting the benefit from a tariff revised downward. He pointed out that since wool is now bringing the highest price it has brought, with the exception of two times in the last 25 years, and the prices of nearly all products of the farm and field are good, that the Republican party that want to discredit the Wilson administration are confining their harping to Chinese eggs and butter from New Zealand.

"Will everyone in this audience who eats eggs please stand up," he asked. The crowd listened. "Really mean it," continued the senator. "I want to see how many of you eat eggs."

The entire audience arose to its feet. "Thank you," said the senator. "Now let those who raise and sell eggs please stand."

Three people arose. The crowd saw the point and shouted with laughter.

"Why should a tax be placed upon all of you people for the benefit of three men," he asked. "But even so, the assertions that the lowering of the tariff on eggs has reduced the price of eggs is not true. A Republican wrote a letter to the Oregonian the other day saying he had bought eggs for eight cents a dozen under a Republican tariff, and now you have to pay 35

CAPTURE OF BLIND PIGGER REQUIRED NO LITTLE NERVE

Truth has always been stranger than fiction and the experiences of policemen in the performance of their duty in the underworld are no exception. The archives of the Portland police department contain no more stirring a tale than the story of the capture of "Cigarette Annie," a notorious blind pigger, by Patrolman H. L. Griffith, who, in addition to his police duties, also plays first E in melodrama in the police band, which is to tour the east next spring to induce visitors to the Panama-Pacific exposition to come by way of Portland.

A few years ago Griffith was assigned to the task of running down those who illegally sold liquor in Portland, keepers of blind pigs. Of their number none was harder to catch than "Cigarette Annie," although it was well known that she was engaged in the business.

One day the policeman was given positive orders that the woman had to be caught and so Griffith, after gaining admittance to her rooms in a rookery on a Sunday morning, was able to persuade her that he had a thirst that must be assuaged.

"Cigarette Annie" brought him a glass of whiskey and another for herself. The officer was to pay for both. As he was about to pass her the money he "flashed" his star and told her that she was under arrest.

Annie's reply was typical of the desperate "blind pig" who has been caught. She picked up one of the glasses and dashed the contents in the officer's face. While he was blinded by the fiery liquor she grasped him by the neck and pushed him through the door. Then running away she hid in a back room.

Griffith had come to arrest the woman. It was his duty and so he wiped the stinging liquor from his face and went back into the house. After a long search he found her, took her to the station and the next day secured a conviction and fine of $100.

It was the first time "Cigarette Annie" had ever been convicted, although she had been arrested again and again. And Griffith deserves all the credit.

because they believed them to be in the interests of Democratic tariff, and of still other measures, because they believed them to be in the interests of the American people.

"I am almost afraid to mention La Follette," he said. "I have been accused of being a La Follette Democrat and a La Follette Republican. I want to say I am a La Follette man, ladies and gentlemen, in the sense that 29 times out of 100, he and I have voted together on measures in the interests of the people. In the same way

"I'm just calling your attention to these things to show you the absurdity of the campaign being made to elect a Republican senator and defeat the Democratic administration."

have Senator Poindexter and I voted together."

He reviewed achievements of the Wilson administration and dwelt upon the provision of the amendment to the Sherman anti-trust law which provides that the "labor of a human being is not a commodity or an article of commerce." This provision was written by the finger of mercy and of justice, and it is a provision that long ago should have been imbedded in the laws and court decisions of this country," he said.

The senator said the only men in congress who voted against this measure, and most of the other measures of President Wilson's constructive legislative program, are "the reactionaries who don't think the common people have rights that ought to be respected." "You have asked for bread from the Democratic administration, and it has been given you," he continued. "What do the opponents of the administration offer to you in its stead? Are they going to reverse the policies of Woodrow Wilson?"

Senator Chamberlain came from Baker today. He stopped at Union this morning and spent several hours visiting with old friends, many of whom met him at the train.

He was met later there by Judge Thomas H. Crawford, Turner Oliver, Fred J. Holmes, Charles Dunn and other Union county Democrats, who came from La Grande and other points and who accompanied him in automobiles to La Grande. They came by way of Cove, where the senator spent an hour meeting the citizens.

In La Grande during the afternoon Senator Chamberlain said one of his most pleasant experiences was a visit with George W. Webb, former state treasurer, who is now over 90 years old. Mr. Webb was ill, and Senator Chamberlain visited him at his home.

In Baker the senator also looked up some of his old friends who were ill and unable to attend his meeting. He took time to visit William Hindman, 94 years old.

Mr. Hindman had expressed the hope that he might live long enough to cast one more vote for Senator Chamberlain, and the senator said since returning to the state he had learned of no expression of good will that pleased him more than this one. He also visited George W. Jett, another pioneer of Baker, who was unable to leave his home.

Today Senator Chamberlain is campaigning through Umatilla county, and will wind up with an address in Pendleton tonight. Quite a number of his friends came from Pendleton to meet him at La Grande to accompany him on his trip through Umatilla county.

Mrs. Neagle Sues For an Accounting

Pendleton, Or., Oct. 16.—Charging that her brother-in-law, Frank Neagle, defrauded her by misrepresenting the value of the estate left by her husband, James Neagle, and induced her to sell the real property at less than half its value, Mrs. Neagle, formerly of this city and now of Santa Rosa, Cal., has commenced suit in the district court for a cancellation of the deed, and to require her brother-in-law to make an accounting of the funds he has handled for her. Her complaint cites in detail the alleged misrepresentations he made before she sold her share in real property to him for $3000. She also alleges that he has not turned over to her all of the interest accruing from the $10,000 trust fund he has been handling, and has not given her any part of the rental secured from farm lands.

ELY'S CREAM BALM OPENS CLOGGED NOSTRILS AND HEAD-CATARRH GOES

Instantly Clears Air Passages; You Breathe Freely, Nasty Discharge Stops, Head Colds and Dull Headache Vanish.

Get a small bottle anyway, just to try it—Apply a little in the nostrils and instantly your nose and stopped-up air passages of the head will open; you will breathe freely; dullness and headache disappear. By morning, cold, inflamed head or catarrhal sore throat will be gone. End such misery now! Get the small bottle of "Ely's Cream Balm" at any drug store. This sweet, fragrant balm dissolves by the heat of the nostrils; penetrates and heats the inflamed, swollen membrane which lines the nose, head and throat; clears the air passages; stops nasty discharges and a feeling of cleansing, soothing relief comes immediately.

Don't lay awake tonight struggling for breath, with head stuffed; nostrils closed, hawking and blowing. Catarrh or a cold, with its running nose, foul mucous dropping into the throat and raw dryness is distressing but truly needless.

Put your faith—just once—in "Ely's Cream Balm" and your cold or catarrh will surely disappear. (Adv.)

THIN FOR YEARS---"GAINS 22 POUNDS IN 23 DAYS"

Remarkable Experience of F. Gagnon. Builds Up Weight Wonderfully.

"I was all run down to the very bottom," writes F. Gagnon. "I had to quit work, I was so weak. Now, thanks to Sargol, I look like a new man. I gained 22 pounds in 23 days."

"Sargol has put pounds on me in 14 days," writes W. D. Roberts. "It has made me sleep well, enjoy what I ate and enabled me to work with interest and pleasure."

"I weighed 132 pounds when I commenced taking Sargol. After taking 23 days I weighed 154 pounds. Sargol is the most wonderful preparation for flesh building I have ever seen," declares D. Martin, and J. Meier adds: "For the past twenty years I have taken medicine every day for indigestion and got thinner every year. I took Sargol for forty days and feel better than I have felt in twenty years. My weight has increased from 150 to 170 pounds."

When hundreds of men and women—there are hundreds, with more coming every day—living in every nook and corner of this broad land, voluntarily testify to weight increases ranging all the way from 10 to 35 pounds, given them by Sargol, you must admit, Mr. and Mrs. and Miss Thin Reader, that there must be something in this Sargol method of flesh building after all.

Hadn't you better look into it, just as thousands of others have done? Many thin folks say: "I'd give most anything to put on a little extra weight," but when someone suggests a way they exclaim, "Not a chance. Nothing will make me plump. I'm built that way." Until you have tried Sargol, you do not and cannot know that this is true.

Sargol has put pounds of healthy "fats" there—fats on hundreds who doubted and in spite of their doubts. You don't have to believe in Sargol to grow plump from its use. You just take it and watch weight pile up, hold on and your figure round out to pleasing and normal proportions. You weigh yourself when you begin and again when you finish and you let the scales tell the story.

Sargol is just a tiny concentrated tablet. You take one with every meal. It mixes with the food you eat for the purpose of separating all of its flesh-producing ingredients. It prepares these fat-making elements in an assimilable form, which the blood can readily absorb and carry all over your body. Plump, well-developed persons don't need Sargol to produce this result. Their assimilative machinery performs its functions without aid. But this folks' assimilative organs do not. This fatty portion of their food now goes to waste through their bodies like unburned coal through an open grate. A few days' test of Sargol in your case will surely prove whether or not this is true of you. Isn't it worth trying?

50c BOX FREE

To enable any thin reader ten pounds or more underweight, to easily make this test we will give a 50c box of Sargol absolutely free.
