How Old Man Coyote Got Out of His House.

Old Man Coyote proved one day he had a will and found a way. And as he found it, so will you. When you've a task that you must do. That old saying that where there is a will there is a way is very hard to believe sometimes. But it is true. Go ask Ol' Mistah Buzzard. He will tell you it is true, and to prove it he'll tell you all about how he saw Old Man Coyote get out of his house when it didn't seem possible that he could without being caught in one of the many traps Farmer Brown's boy had set for him. Ol' Mistah Buzzard didn't actually see him get out, but he saw him just after he was out, and he actually had hard work to believe his eyes. But he had to believe them, for there was no mistaking Old Man Coyote. And there he was trotting off across the Green Meadows just as if there was no such thing in the world as a trap. It was too much for Ol' Mistah Buzzard, and he flew away to his special dead tree in the Green Forest to think it over and wonder how Old Man Coyote ever succeeded in getting out.

Then carefully he flipped it upside down, which caused the wicked-looking jaws to snap together.

Now, if it had been any one but Old Man Coyote he would certainly have been caught. Even Granny Fox, smart as she is, probably would have stepped into one of those traps had she been in his place. But Old Man Coyote is one of the smartest and craftiest of all the little people who wear fur. He knows all about traps and just how they are set. When he heard Farmer Brown's boy at work outside his house he guessed right away what he was doing. He heard him first at one of the three doorways, then at another, and finally at the third. Old Man Coyote grinned.

Inch by inch he crept forward, his keen nose sniffing every bit of the ground. "Ah, I thought so!" exclaimed Old Man Coyote at last and stopped. Then very carefully he began to dig down. Little by little he dug forward from this first little hole, and all the time taking the very greatest care. By and by just what he expected happened. Something hard and cold dropped down. It was a trap! Old Man Coyote grinned again. "Just as I thought," said he, digging the sand out from around the trap. Then carefully he flipped it upside down, which caused the wicked looking jaws to snap together, and then it was quite harmless.

AMERICAN FASHIONS

A chick black hat that shows a draped crown.

By Lillian E. Young. At least there is more variety in hats this season than there has been for some time past, for now that large brimmed models have returned once more and the small shapes have not by any means been ousted, there are plenty of shapes and a wide enough choice for all to be satisfied. All of the broad brimmed shapes are worn at a very pronounced angle and trimmings are kept very flat to the brim, while the small hats give the effect of being tilted by sloping and upstanding trimmings. Some of the small models show draped crowns and these are very modish in velvets or beaver velours. The latter material in black is used in the illustrated example of this idea and will make the smartest sort of a street hat with trimmings of black leather fantasies, a draped crown, and an upturned rippled brim. Since aigrettes are barred the best of the long feathered mounts are of heron, numidi, paradise, and burnt ostrich plumage. Since it insists upon moderation without curtailing variety we are all delighted with the millinery situation.

To Gather Veterans of U. S. S. Oregon

Adam Gill, President of Famous Battleship Veterans, Arrives in Portland From San Francisco. Adam Gill of San Francisco, president of the Veterans of the Battleship Oregon's Crew of 1898, has come to Oregon in the course of a national effort to reassemble the veterans of the famous battleship that they may again march in procession on the occasion of the canal's formal opening. Mr. Gill has already the names and addresses of 180 of the veterans and believes there are 230 of the men still living who manned the Oregon on her famous cruise in 1898. He has letters of introduction to prominent men of Portland who are expected by the exposition management of San Francisco to take an interest in the plan. The first of December it is expected that a bill will be submitted to congress permitting the re-enlistment of the veterans for a period of about 90 days. The bill has the approval of Josephus Daniels, secretary of the navy. Mr. Gill is personally financing his effort, but the association of veterans expects him to be reimbursed partly through the sale of pictures of the Oregon, her commander, Rear Admiral Clarke, and partly by contributions from those who want to help. He is not at this time accepting contributions and will not until the bill is passed by congress.

HE Pianola and Steinway ALLIANCE

When the demand for a Steinway Player Piano became apparent, Steinway & Sons began an investigation which embraced both the European and American fields, and extended over a period of several years. As a result of this investigation, it was demonstrated that the supremacy of the PIANOLA had been gained solely through superlative excellence and recognized superiority, and that the artistic qualification of The Pianola alone, among all instruments of its type, were of a standard commensurate with those of the Steinway Piano.

When such a House virtually stakes its reputation upon the superiority of The PIANOLA, no individual need hesitate to accept the verdict as authoritative and final.

HEAVY MEAT EATERS HAVE SLOW KIDNEYS

Eat less meat if you feel Backache or have bladder trouble—Take glass of Saita.

No man or woman who eats meat regularly can make a mistake by flushing the kidneys occasionally, says a well known authority. Meat forms uric acid, which excites the kidneys, they become overworked from the strain, get sluggish and fail to filter the waste and poisons from the blood, then we get sick. Nearly all rheumatism, headaches, backache, nervousness, dizziness, sleeplessness and urinary disorders come from sluggish kidneys.

The moment you feel a dull ache in the kidneys or your back hurts, or if the urine is cloudy, offensive, full of sediment, irregular of passage or attended with a sensation of itching, stop eating meat and get about four ounces of Jad Saita from any pharmacy; take a teaspoonful in a glass of water before breakfast and in a few days your kidneys will act fine. This famous Saita is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with other natural ingredients, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate the kidneys, also to neutralize the acids in urine so that no longer causes irritation, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Saita is inexpensive and cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent drink; breaks up kidney stones; one should take now and then to keep the kidneys clean and active and the blood pure, then by avoiding serious kidney complications. (Adv.)
