Five Cars From South Reported Similar Decline Today at Tillamook on Local Tracks Today: Oregon Growers Generally Offering Only Their Poorer Quality of Stock.

California is dumping onions on the Cheese market is showing a further Portland and other northwest markets while Oregon growers still re-fuse to sell. Five cars of No. 1 stock which cost 75c a cental to land here mook. This action was forecast in were reported on the local tracks this these reports several days ago:
The extreme weakness of the cheese

While local growers are offering to sell, they are only willing to let go of No. 2 and No. 3 stock. Very little of No. 1 stock is available from the home section and this forces the trade to purchase the bulk of its requirements from the south.

Onions of good quality are being offered by wholesalers down to 85c a cental out of their stores. No. 2 stock is being offered freely at 75c but in that just after war was declared in cental out of their stores. ARTICHOKES ARE PLENTIFUL

Plenty of French artichokes for every want of the trade is shown along Front street. There is a vast differ-ence in quality of offerings and sales are reported from 60 to 95c a dozen. JERSEY CRANBERRIES ARE IN Another carload of Jersey cramber-ries has reached the local market and was quoted at $8 by the receivers. An other car is due later in the week. Quality of later shipments said to be better than ever.

CHICKEN MARKET IS QUIET With the exception of extra heavy hens, which are being eagerly sought even at a premium by the Jewish trade, there is very little call for chickens on the street at this time. Cleanups are reported at 12@12½c in a limited way.

Further liquidation was shown in the hog market at North Portland to day, resuting in an additional loss of 10 to 15c generally. There was a very liberal showing of swine arrivals overnight in the local yards, and killers were rather slow about taking hold.

There continues a rather good feeling in the cattle trade and values in general are being sustained. There was only a small run in the yards for the day; in fact, this was practically the only supply shown since Monday's liberal showing.
At Chicago there was a slow but steady tone in the cattle trade for the day. Kansas City cattle market was weak at former prices.

Omaha cattle were slow and weak, but top steers there remain at $10.50. General cattle market range:

Eastern markets continue to likely to be considered a mere showing of baby firecrackers in comparison with the trade now developing. It developed today that a cargo of flour had been purchased from a local mill for shipment to England and that there were orders available at this time, which have not yet been accepted, that will keep northwest mills operating day and night for many months. Pessimistic talk has never been of advantage to anyone. Frequently it has been the means of ruining what would otherwise have been a very good business. If there ever was a time when optimism should rule, it is the present. Bankers and business interests especially the manufacturing interests, report an upward trend in business conditions. sert, almost without dispute among their number, that money affairs are in better shape than for several months past. Business men who have occasion to need accommodations at the banks confirm this. A recent visitor to Portland and a Californian at that, made the assertion that there terests here are wary about offering until they have the actual wheat on hand: Country prices are better than tidewater at this time, simply because buyers fear that if they purchase for Portland or other coast point delivery they will simply add to the already heavy congestion. As matters stand they prefer to pay an advance over tidewater prices for delivery at country points and store there. Higher prices are being offered for wheat all along the line; in fact, one sale of bluestem was reported here at 5c a bushel above regular quotations. Oats market promises to be fully as Onts market promises to be fully as exciting as wheat. Germany is known to be a bidder for supplies through agents, while England and France have likewise appeared in the trade. Barley market continues quiet. Millstuffs have shown considerable weakness of late, with country and city millers piling up supplies and no special demand in sight.

Truck Driver Not Blamed for Death

No blame was placed by the coroner's jury yesterday upon the driver of an auto truck that ran down and caused the death of Harry Gaither, 17 years old, several days ago at Seventeenth and Taylor streets. Evidence submitted before the jury showed that the boy was riding a motorcycle on the wrong side of the street, when the heavy truck came King's Thanks around the corner and started in the same direction the cycle was going. around the corner and started in the This afternoon the inquest will be held in the case of Earl McNaughton, who died Monday from injuries received Sept. 3, when an auto driven by F. H. Adams collided with Naughton's motorcycle. The accident happened on East Belmont street. Mc-Naughton had been in the Good Samaritan hospital since the collision.

SO THE PEOPLE MAY KNOW

The Committee of One Hundred, following its usual methods of coercion, threats or pressure, if endeavoring to discredit many of the names printed by the Oregon Brewers Association as signers of a "Declaration of Principles," opposed to statewide prohibition.

It is possible, even probable, that one member of a firm, speaking for a firm or a corporation, may attempt to discredit the signature of another member of such firm or corporation, or the signature of some competent managerial head.

It is equally possible and even probable, that an occasional signer of such "Declaration of Principles," feeling the pressure brought to bear on him, may go so far as to say that he "did not know what he was signing."

This organization, therefore, desires to make this public offer:

For the name of every man or concern whom the Committee of One Hundred succeeds in coercing or for cing to discredit his signature to the said "Declaration of Principles" against statzwide prohibition this org'anization promises to print the names of five other men or concerns, taken from its list of SIXTY THOUSAND signers of said "Declaration of Principles."

Attacking the signatures of a few men or concerns, however, does not relieve the Committee of One Hundred from the duty of making good its original challenge by publishing the names of those several hundred men or concerns who stand by their signatures to the anti-prohibition "Declaration of Principles."
