OF C. J. SMITH SHOW THEIR GREAT ESTEEM

Pendleton Residents Join in Candidate Testimonial.

STOOD TIME'S ACID TEST

Prominent People of Pendleton After Years of Acquaintance Tell of Sterling Qualities.

who have known him for many yearsgovernor, is effectively told in a Smith for-governor edition of the East Ore gonian, published under the auspices of the Smith-for-Governor club in Pendieton, where Dr. Smith lived for many

The women of Pendleton, the business men of Pendleton, and the farmers of Umatilia county join in a re markable testimontal of the high re gard in which they hold their former fellow townsman. They express great confidence in his ability to do big things for the state as chief execu tive, and point to the fact that his constructive leadership has been of Pendleton and as a member of the Pendleton school board for 20 years.

Commended to Voters.

As friends and neighbors who know Dr. C. J. Smith intimately, they commend him to the voters of Oregon and give their reasons for so doing. They are doing this without regard to party lines. It is simply an effort on their part to tell to others some of the things they know personally about Dr. Smith which eminently fit him for the office of chief executive.

The people of Pendleton are pro gressive-and they have seen Dr. Smith work in the legislature and through the initiative for progressive measures put forward in the interest of the people; they have seen him as mayor of Pendleton clean up the town for the first time. They know him and want him for governor.

Republican Woman Pays Tribute. "I have always been a strong Republican and I am yet, but it is the man and not the party that I will vote for at the coming election," states Mrs. C. F. Colesworthy. "I have known Dr. C. J. Smith, the Democratic candidate, for more than a quarter of a century and I have such a high appreciation of his qualities that I would not be true to my convictions did I not vote for him. I met him first when I was a teacher in the public schools and he a member of the school board, and the confidence I had in him then I kept. As a family physician, as mayor of Pendleton, as senator from Umatilia county and in various other capacities while a resident here his acts were always such as to inspire me with the fullest confidence and I really believe he would make Oregon a wonderfully efficient governor. All that I know of Dr. Smith is good and if the people of Oregon all knew him as I do, his election would be unanimous."

Rev. J. F. Weaver, pastor of the Christian church at Pendleton, has this to say:

"Having known Dr. C. J. Smith when he lived here in Pendleton, I wish to express myself strongly in his behalf for governor. He is a staunch supporter of good government, decency and morality. A man well equipped as an executive, and will look after the interests of the people mentally, physically and morally. I have no hesitancy in declaring that I am convinced that all friends of morality will find in him the determination and ability to meet their needs, and they should therefore support him.

Big, Broad, Pair Man, G. M. Rice, cashier of the First National bank of Pendleton, commends Dr. Smith to the voters for his unusually sound business judgment. He

"I have had close business relations with Dr. C. J. Smith for over 10 years; have counselled with him on private and public matters, and have always found him big, broad, fair and of unusual sound judgment. I believe the independent thinking people of the state will elect him governor. If he is elected, the state will have an uplifting and the greatest business administration it has ever had in its history."

Now Is Oregon's Opportunity. Oregon's opportunity to secure one of its most capable men for chief executive is pointed out by Leon Cohen, one of the leading merchants of Pendleton. He says: "Dr. C. J. Smith, the citizen, who is the Democratic candidate for the state's executive, is a man amongst

"He proved himself during a residence in our town of Pendleton, where the writer knew him intimately and constantly for over 20 years. In the years that he was with us there never was a time, no matter how busy he was, and he did an immense amount of work, but he could always be relied on to help any worthy community effort with his money and time. Not in the passive way that so many help, as though 'twere simply doling out charity, but vigorously, helpfully. He is a distinct gain to any community that is fortunate enough to have him as a resident. He would bring to the governorship all the strength, good judgment and industry that he possesses in a notable degree.

"It is not often that Oregon has an opportunity to place at the head of her affairs so capable a man; and if she is alive to her interests, he surely will be the next governor of Oregon."

Broad Judgment and Vision. C. P. Strain, assessor of Umatilla county, emphasizes the need of a governor who will stand firmly between the people's interests and the legislature. He describes the value of the single item veto. "A single item veto law would be of value beyond measure in the hands of an executive with vision enough to distinguish between measures purely local and those of sufficient scope to merit state support," he says. "Bu such a law would be worthless in the hands of a governor who advocates harmony and cooperation with a legislature which by reason of its organigation is bound to subordinate the ters of local and personal importance. "Having had opportunity to study Dr. C. J. Smith at close range, I do not hesitate to state that beneath his congeniality and suavity there abides a letermination which assures steadfast adherence to his policies. His extraordinary common sense, enhanced by
