

WARM WELCOME IS GIVEN CHAMBERLAIN BY ALBANY CITIZENS

Senator Receives Ovation at Greatest Political Gathering in Linn County.

is to them the same old George. Last night's enthusiastic reception proved this beyond all shadow of a doubt.

Simply Told Message.
And he had a message for the people of Albany as well as for the citizens of the other places he has visited. This message was a description of the policies of President Woodrow Wilson. Clearly and simply he explained the great measures enacted for the good of all the people during the session of congress just ended—the tariff, the income tax, the trades commission, the anti-trust, the railroad securities, the currency and other legislation.

His hearers listened intently and interestedly as he outlined the chief features of each of these measures, using simple illustrations to make clear his explanations. But he reached his climax as he told of the president's peace policy—the policy which has kept this country from a disastrous war such as is now devastating Europe.

Triumph of Wilson Diplomacy.
"For months," said Senator Chamberlain, "President Wilson was reviled and criticized by the partisan press for his policy of 'watchful waiting.' He was caricatured and lampooned. Even senators scolded his diplomacy, and that of his great secretary of state, as spineless. No man since Lincoln's time was so bitterly abused by his contemporaries. But now you don't hear these criticisms. Why? Because a match was set to a magazine over in Europe that caused an explosion which has stirred the whole world."

"The best blood of Europe is now engaged in remorseless conflict. Millions of the flower of the youth of Russia, Germany, Great Britain, France, Belgium, Austria and Serbia are on the battle line. Thousands of thousands are falling into the valley of the shadow of death. It is war in all its horror."

"And to think that this might have happened to us but for the president's policy of peace. Our young men, our sons and husbands and fathers, might have been sent to Mexico to perish. And for what? Not because our honor was at stake, not because our citizens were in danger, not because the people wanted war, but because a few corporations having large concessions in Mexico wanted a stable government so as to protect their property and assure dividends on their investments. The howl for war came from the selfish interests."

Criticism Has Ceased.
"My friends, you don't hear any more criticism of Woodrow Wilson for his policy of peace. He has ended it in the hearts of the American people to such a degree that no man dare abuse him. I have it from reliable sources that the national organization of the Republican party has sent out word that candidates must forbear criticism and abuse of President Wilson, the leaders know that no man who abused the president in his campaign would stand a show of election."

"My opponents say that I should be defeated so as to reverse the policies of the president. This is one of his greatest policies. Would you reverse it?"

Senator Chamberlain was introduced last night by David Mason, one of his oldest Albany friends, who praised him highly, saying: "George P. Chamberlain is a big man. He has risen above party lines and whatever may be said of him there can be no criticism of his honesty, fidelity or devotion to duty."

Cheers for Chamberlain.
When Senator Chamberlain had finished speaking Mr. Mason called upon the great audience to vote for him on Tuesday next. "We're all going to, aren't we?" he said. "We are," shouted the crowd. Mr. Mason then shouted the audience in a cheer for the senator.

Senator Chamberlain was visibly affected by the warmth of the welcome given him by the great audience. His speech his voice was husky with emotion. Those who were near enough could perceive that moisture dimmed his eyes. His thanks were simple and sincerely expressed.

In the course of his speech he again nailed on the head the canard which has been circulated by his opponents, that he does not deserve credit for the Alaska railway bill. "It is true," he said, "I did not do it entirely alone, for it was a great piece of legislation and to perfect the measure I called upon Senator Jones of Washington, Delegate Wickersham of Alaska and many civilians and engineers who are held for the people with Alaska. Working on it night and day, I succeeded in getting it through the senate, and it is the first recognition by the government of government ownership and operation of railways. It is to be a government road to tap the immense resources of Alaska, which are held for the people."

Good Work of Congress.
In summing up his routine of the administration program Senator Chamberlain said, "Except for the first congress of the United States, no congress has ever done so much in the way of constructive legislation as the one which has closed."

Preceding the meeting at the armory an informal reception was given for Senator Chamberlain in the lobby of the Hotel Albany. Several hundred persons attended and the high school band playing under the marquee at the main entrance furnished the music. During the course of the evening the senator was presented with a veteran jewel of the Knights of Pythias, an order to which he had belonged for the past 25 years.

How often have you complained that your eyes were tired? It is a common complaint, and yet how often do you do anything for them? You buy the best powder or paste for your teeth you can find—and at the same time neglect your eyes! Perhaps a million people use Dr. Isaac Thompson's Eye

Gilbert made the speech of presentation. The senator was also shown the new $10,000 Knights of Pythias building recently erected in this city.

Yesterday afternoon he spoke in Lebanon to an audience of nearly 400. In the Lebanon opera house, W. R. Billeu of Albany introduced him. The senator was enthusiastically received.

Day of Personal Triumphs.

Yesterday in sum was a day of personal triumphs for the senator and eclipsed in enthusiasm any previous day of his campaign for reelection. Linn county welcomed him with open arms, many of its citizens making personal sacrifices of time and effort to hear him. At Halsey in the forenoon farmers drove in from every direction; at Lebanon in the afternoon there were many in the audience who had come from Brownsville and neighboring towns, while in the evening there were many present from the communities surrounding Albany.

Senator Chamberlain is to speak in Philomath this afternoon and Corvallis tonight.

STATE CAPITAL NEWS

Salem, Or., Oct. 27.—According to notice received by Governor West, the Pennsylvania railroad is carrying Christmas gifts for Belgian orphans and refugees free to New York. Two agencies are receiving the gifts in New York for shipment, Pierre Mail, Belgian consul, 25 Madison avenue, and the Red Cross society. It is urged that gifts be marked "For Belgian Sufferers."

Because two of the several bids for wood for the feeble minded institution received by the state board of control read $3.35 and the other $2.85 and it was believed there was collusion among the bidders, all were rejected, on recommendation of the superintendent of the institution, yesterday afternoon and new bids will be called for. The bids were 20 to 30 cents higher than those received for furnishing wood to other state institutions for which no contracts were let yesterday afternoon. The Imperial

The decision of the supreme court Saturday has left the state superintendent of banks with practically no authority over trust companies of the state, although much good has been accomplished through the act, according to Superintendent Sargent. Five companies of Oregon have qualified under the act, while about 50 of the companies, which had been using the name of "trust" in connection with their business and did no trust business, filed supplementary articles eliminating the word "trust" from their names.
