

PIONEERS OF OREGON ARE GUESTS TODAY AT LAND PRODUCTS SHOW

Program Includes Selection by Veterans' Quartet, Chino Song and Speeches.

ART PROGRAM TONIGHT

Congress of Mothers in Charge Tomorrow; Home Industry to Be Feature; McElroy's Band to Play.

LAND SHOW PROGRAM
Tonight.
Mutual Art association, 8:00.
McElroy's Concert band.
Shaw's Royal Hawaiian Troubadours.
Attractions in free theatre every hour.
Tomorrow Afternoon.
Congress of Mothers (from charity booth) 2:00.
McElroy's Concert band.
Shaw's Royal Hawaiian Troubadours.

The pioneer men and women who laid the foundations upon which rest industrial and agricultural Oregon this afternoon are gathered at the Manufacturers and Land Products Show celebrating Oregon Historical society day. The program for the afternoon includes songs by the Veterans' quartet, a Chino song under the direction of Mrs. L. B. Bartlett, and address by ex-governor Geer, who will preside, and talks by ex-presidents of the association and others.

The Oregon Congress of Mothers is also meeting at the exposition. Tonight the Mutual Art association will have charge of the special program and tomorrow afternoon special programs will be given under the auspices of the Congress of Mothers and Oregon Industry League, Builders' Exchange and the Federation of States. In this connection Governor West has proclaimed November 3 as "Oregon Industry Day" at the show and Mayor Albee has appealed to Portlanders to make its observance a success by "patronizing home industry."

Good Roads Lecture Feature.
One of the big features of tomorrow night's program will be Sam Hill's illustrated lecture on good roads and the Columbia Highway. The lecture will begin promptly at 8:30 o'clock and will last an hour.

McElroy's band began a five day engagement with the exposition yesterday afternoon, when it gave a sacred concert.

This afternoon the Hawaiian Troubadours begin a special three day engagement.

The Mutual Art association, which, with the Society of Oregon Artists, has staged the splendid art exhibit, will hold its special program in the ball room of the Armory where the pictures are hung. There members of the organization will view the displays and a musical program by Dr. Clement Shaw, Joseph A. Finley and Mrs. E. D. M. Fowle will follow.

Lists of Officers.
The officers of the Mutual Art association are: President, W. L. Everett Knowles; first vice president, H. F. Higby; second vice president, George H. Fowler; secretary, Clement E. Shaw; treasurer, Joseph A. Finley.
Executive board: W. L. Everett Knowles, chairman; H. F. Higby, Dana Bartlett, Mrs. Alice Weister, Mrs. Robert Berger, W. F. Foster, E. D. M. Fowle, Clyde L. Keller and P. Auritz.
Officers of the Society of Oregon Artists are: C. C. McKim, president; Ellen Ravenscroft, vice president; W. H. Blevens, secretary.

Venerable Minister Joins Protestants

Father Flinn, Who Delivered First Sermon as Methodist Minister in Taylor Street Church Speaks.

Father John Flinn, who more than 20 years ago delivered his first sermon as a Methodist minister in Oregon in the old Taylor Street church, spoke on the spot most famous in Oregon Methodism again yesterday, but it was to the "insurgents" of the First Methodist church in the street in front of the padlocked doors of the now abandoned edifice.

Persons who heard Father Flinn preach his first sermon at the old Taylor street, with the children and grandchildren of others who had first met the venerable minister, gathered in the weekly prayer meeting yesterday, under clouds that presaged rain every minute.

Barred from services in the church that they entered as children, and in which they ministered in many instances to middle age, by the decision of the officials of the First Methodist church to transfer their services to Twelfth and Taylor streets, meetings are now being held in the street in front of the old building in the hope that the "regulars" will relent, and throw open the doors of the old building again.

"We still must remember to forgive and love our fellowmen, no matter what happens," counseled Father Flinn, "and remember that God will help us."

After Father Flinn had finished, Rev. W. H. Bell, formerly of the Dalles, spoke.

Yesterday's services were the fourth that have been held in the street.

Chinese Pheasants Have Another Year

No more will the freshly killed Chinese pheasant deck the dinner table this year, for the season closed Saturday, and now only birds held in cold storage are to be had, and they only by those who had foresight enough to lay aside a bird or two.

Reports show that there are yet many birds, despite the fact that many hunters tried their luck during the open season. Few violations of the same laws were reported.

C. F. Reid, president of the Northwestern Trust company, with L. J. Barber, of the same concern, went into the country beyond Tigard before day-break Saturday and returned about 10:30 in the morning with the limit of five birds. Barber secured four birds. They reported sighting many pheasants, especially hens.

Baker Dogs Must Wear Mouth Mask

City Commissioners Pass Emergency Ordinance When It Is Determined Canine Had Rabies Bodies in Brain.
Baker, Or., Nov. 2. — To guard against another siege of hydrophobia an emergency ordinance was passed by the city commissioners ordering the muzzling of all dogs allowed to run loose upon the streets.

A dog belonging to H. S. Jackson one night about a week ago had an encounter with a coyote suffering from rabies. Jackson noticed the next day that the animal acted strangely, but thought nothing of it and let the dog accompany him on a trip to Union. On the way back the dog bit several other dogs along the way, and after returning to Baker it bit Elmer Kissel, son of John Kissel of South Baker. Dr. Patterson, who is treating the boy, reports that so far there has been no symptoms of hydrophobia.

The dog died next morning, and Dr. F. T. Nots had the head sent to Portland for examination. A report by the state board of health declared that negli (hydrophobia) bodies were found in the dog's brain, and the muzzling ordinance was immediately passed.

VIGOROUS CAMPAIGN FOR THE LEGISLATURE CONDUCTED BY HURST

Candidate Would Have New Laws to Curb Loan Shark Evil in Oregon.

Roscoe P. Hurst.

Roscoe P. Hurst, candidate for joint representative from Multnomah and Clackamas counties, has made a vigorous campaign for election, and as his opponent, C. M. Hurlburt, has been repudiated in both counties by the Republican party, which nominated him, Mr. Hurst's election seems assured.

A little more than eight years ago Mr. Hurst came to Portland and began the practice of law. He has become one of the successful lawyers of the city. He is attorney for the Oregon Prisoners Aid society and the Pacific Coast Rescue and Protective society. His connection with these societies has shown him the need of remedial legislation.

Mr. Hurst was one of the first to raise a voice against the loan sharks in this city and the clutch they had upon many working men and women. He says the law regulating the loaning of money of this nature needs amendments to make it really effective, and he purposes to introduce bills for that purpose.

His opponent, C. M. Hurlburt, was repudiated by the Republican party because of his unsavory record. He was shown to have been arrested on the charge of obtaining property by false pretenses; that he has gone under various assumed names; that he has used another man's name and recommendations in order to seek railway employment; that he has borrowed money under false names; that he has a number of unsatisfied judgments against him.

One of the most serious things in his confession that he has entered into an agreement with a friend to introduce a bill in the legislature, if he is elected, to appropriate $2000 as a relief measure for his friend on condition that he (Hurlburt) is to get part of it.

In a suit for divorce filed last week by his wife, Hurlburt is charged with unfaithfulness, neglect, refusal to pay grocery bills and cruelty.

The Republican county committee of Clackamas county not only repudiated Hurlburt but it has strongly indorsed Mr. Hurst, who has a clean record, and is a man of ability.

Christian Science Church Is Opened

Members of Faith From All Sections of City Attend Services in New Structure on Holladay Avenue.

Christian Scientists of Portland turned out general yesterday morning to attend the formal opening of the new Second Church of Christ, Scientist, at Holladay avenue and East Sixth street. Three services were held during the day, others being conducted at 2 p. m. and at 8 p. m.

Many persons were obliged to stand during the morning service, all the pews being occupied. Mrs. Gertrude Houk was first reader and Frank W. Waters second reader.

Great care was taken by the builders to insure a nearly perfect acoustic properties as possible and the congregation was pleased yesterday to note that they were successful. The main auditorium is elevated from the street, with the Sunday school rooms on the street level. The auditorium will seat 1000 people and the Sunday school room will accommodate 350 children.

A modern system of exits proved advantageous yesterday, the building being emptied within a few minutes after the close of the service. The church site was purchased about one year ago and building operations were begun last February.
