All the needy, the hungry, the cold, the cheerless, the sick in Portland must be heard in the plea. "Do not forget that Tuesday is Bundle Day!"

Not that all the contributions for winter relief of destitute families be expected on that one day, but that through the mayor's proclamation a store of groceries, fuel orders, money, toys, clothing may be gathered quickly, which will more nearly commensurate the need. Bring bundles to the organization that you prefer to handle them. Winter Relief Bureau, 184 Broadway, Journal building, will gladly receive and distribute where need

London, Dec. 12 .- The vast engagement in Poland in which Field Marshal von Hindenberg and Grand Duke Nicholas are engaged, is now believed to be entering a critical stage.

It has been conceded that the result of this second thrust of the Germans toward Warsaw will have a far reaching effect upon the entire war. The Russian claims of victory made in the official statement today are contradicted by reports from Berlin.

South of the Vistula, the German statement asserts, the operations are assuming great importance. Here the Russians clairs to have repulsed numerous German attacks in the region of Lowick. Unofficial Berlin advices express the greatest satisfaction with developments in the operations north of the Vistula about Milawa and Przinyansz, while Petrograd reports a severe repulse for the Germans in this section, on the success of General Francois, commanding the Germans Russians followed up heir advantage north of the Vistula. paign before. The German official statement claims that Russian attacks against the Austro-German position in southern Poland have been repulsed. Petrograd claims the advantage in this section. It is also reported that the withdrawal of German troops to aid the Austrians in Hungary is becoming more and more imperative.

On the western front the allies are fighting yard by yard over and under the German trenches and by long-range artillery duels for new ground. It is generally indicated that the French artillery is proving superior to the German, but the official statement from the opposing war offices today are contradictory.

The success of the maneuver gives the Russians an important strategic advantage, though it probably will
