

SMITH OF KLAMATH TO DEFEND UNIFORM ACCOUNTING STATUTE

Representative Says Measures Are Largely Responsible for Economy Demand

WOULD BROADEN WORK

Urges Business Methods for Transaction of All County Business.

(Special to The Journal.)
Salem, Or., Jan. 11.—Representative Wesley Smith of Klamath county, author of the uniform accounting law and the law providing for a county budget, enacted by the 1913 legislature, is preparing to make a valiant defense of these laws.
A number of lawmakers are here with a hammer out for the uniform accounting law, in particular, as it is proved unpopular with various county courts and other officials, who claim the law is too expensive. The law provides for the supervision of the state insurance commission, who has the administration of the law.
As provided by this law, in the last two years the accounting department has installed uniform accounting systems in the state and county offices, and has audited the books of all the counties, except Multnomah.
Representative Smith declares that the operation of this law, and the county budget law, affording the public information about county affairs, that it never had before, is largely responsible for the insistent demand for economy that is now heard from one end of the state to the other.
To complete the job of putting county affairs in order, as he expresses it, Representative Smith has a bill to introduce providing that the county clerk shall audit all bills against the county, the same as the secretary of state now audits all bills against the state, and defining more definitely the duties of the county clerk.
"If these methods adopted in county affairs will save 50 per cent of the cost of running many of the counties," said Mr. Smith.
"To get a law enacted along the line I have suggested is the only reason I run for reelection."

Bishop Is Destructive.

Salem, Or., Jan. 11.—"I suppose you would call the laws in which I am interested just now destructive, instead of constructive," said Senator C. P. Bishop of Marion. "I am going to introduce bills to repeal the uniform accounting law and the law relating to certified accountants.
"The idea of requiring public accountants to take examinations and pay a fee of $20, just like the doctors' trust, is foolish. You might as well require merchants or farmers to pass examinations before being allowed to engage in business. I think my bills will pass all right."

Anxious About the Apples.

Salem, Or., Jan. 11.—Soon after arrival in the capital last night, hold-over senators inquired of State Treasurer T. B. Kay whether there will be the usual box of apples on tap in his office this session.
"The state treasurer is a favorite because of the supply of apples he keeps on hand during the session. It appears that apples will be especially appreciated this time, since Salem has gone dry."
West Urges Block Paving.
Salem, Or., Jan. 11.—Governor West last night sent a message to the legislature recommending that he be unable to be present at the session today, and asking that in calling for bids for the new bridge the specifications provide for wooden block paving, so that the Oregon product would be used.

Schuebel Has Bills Says "Not Foolish"

Abolition of Immigration Commission; Municipal Ownership of Water Plants; Tax on Telephone Earnings.
Salem, Or., Jan. 11.—Representative C. Schuebel of Oregon City arrived early at the state house with 12 man's size bills ready to introduce.
"Not one is foolish," he said, which he considered remarkable.
One measure provides for the abolition of the immigration commission; another imposes a license on fishing appliances and upon canneries; one allows cities and towns to own and operate their own water plants; another puts a license of 2 per cent on gross earnings of express, telephone and telegraph companies. One bill makes it punishable by fine of $100 and 30 days imprisonment for employment agencies to charge fees.
Private car lines and oil companies are aimed at by Schuebel in a bill which levies additional taxes on revenues.

District Attorney Hearing Is Set

Action Filed to Determine Whether or Not Appointment by Governor West Can Be Made Good.

Salem, Or., Jan. 11.—The supreme court has set January 28 as the date of hearing on an action brought by F. S. Ivanhoe to determine the legality of the appointment of John S. Hodgkin as district attorney of Union county.
The appointment of Hodgkin by Governor West was based on an act of the legislature which provided that district attorneys should be appointed by the governor for a term ending in 1917.
The constitution provides that a district attorney shall hold until his successor is elected and qualified.
Ivanhoe was a hold-over attorney, his term expiring January 1915. His contention is that he should hold for another two years.
The case comes before the court on a writ of mandamus requiring Hodgkin to show cause why he is entitled to the office.

Took a Chance—Lost.

Tacoma, Wash., Jan. 11.—Holding a dynamite cap in his hand while he lit his pipe, Christ Johnson, 21, lost two fingers and the thumb of his right hand his eyesight was almost destroyed.

Big Corporations Refuse to Pay Tax

Reluctantly They Have Forfeited Right to Do Business in the State of Oregon; Governor Hesitates.
Salem, Or., Jan. 11.—Governor West today extended the time of issuing a proclamation striking from the list of foreign corporations entitled to do business in the state, the Oliver Type-writer company, Great Northern Express company, Great Northern Railway company, Northern Pacific Express company and Northern Pacific Railway company.
The corporation commissioner is required to make a list at the end of the year of the corporations that have been delinquent for two years. Recently Watson filed such a list. The companies named have not paid the 1913 fee due June 30, and according to the corporation law, are subject to have their right to do business in the state revoked.
Governor West postponed action to January 18 in order to get an opinion from the attorney general.
The companies resist payment of the fees on the ground that the act is unconstitutional.

Candidate Is Bereaved.

Salem, Or., Jan. 11.—Ben Huntington of Drain, Or., candidate for reading clerk of the house in opposition to Dudley Clark, received a telegram last night announcing the sudden death of his mother at Yoncalla. Mrs. Huntington was the mother of 13 children, of whom Huntington is the eldest. Mr. Huntington conducts a drug store at Drain.

SPEAKER CONTEST IS TOPIC OF INTEREST DURING THE MORNING

Plan of Temporary Organization Announced After Selling Supporters Meet.

SITUATION IS CANVASSED

Visitors at the Start Show Chief Attention to Accredited Representatives.

(Special to The Journal.)
Salem, Or., Jan. 11.—Chief interest centered in the house from the first this morning was through the hall, mingling with the accredited representatives and soon after 8 o'clock things began to hum.
The speakership contest appeared to be the chief topic, the two candidates, Ben Selling of Multnomah and Allen Eaton of Lane, being on the ground early to look after their alignments. That those men were still doubtful, pending the outcome of Eaton's effort to secure two more than were ascribed to him last night, was still the point that kept both sides guessing. Eaton insisted today, before the convening of the house, that he had a fighting chance, emphasizing the word "fighting."
Selling still claimed 37 votes, and declared all his supporters would be with him at the voting.
At informal conferences last night at the Marion hotel, the speakership situation was canvassed.
Everybody denied that any caucuses were held, because the representatives were not bound by the results. However, 25 known supporters of Selling gathered in a side room and went over the situation.
When this was over Representative Conrad P. Olson of Multnomah announced that S. B. Huston had been agreed upon for temporary speaker, and that his nomination probably would be made by William I. Yawter of Jackson county. It was agreed that W. F. Draeger should be chosen temporary chief clerk. As chief clerk of the 1913 session it was decided that he also should call the unorganized house to order.
Mr. Olson said it had been agreed that after the selection of these temporary officers, a committee on permanent organization and procedure, and a committee on credentials, would be appointed. This done, a recess will be taken while the committees prepare their reports.
Mr. Olson declared this should be taken care of within a short time. He forecasted the selection of the speaker by 11 o'clock.

Von der Hellen Has Idea.

Salem, Or., Jan. 11.—"If the legislature would do the necessary things and then go home the state would be better off," said Senator H. Von der Hellen of Jackson county, who is a sign weighted with weariness at thoughts of the 40 days and 40 nights just ahead. "If we knew who to appoint, then we ought to be an advisory committee to hold the legislature down to consideration of necessities. But I suppose such a thought is a waste of energy."

Salem Boy Loses Leg Under Train

Salem, Or., Jan. 11.—Harold White, aged 17 years, is in the Salem hospital today recovering from the amputation of one of his legs above the knee. White's leg was terribly crushed when he sought to board a freight train to return from Woodburn. In company with Frank Bailey, he "beat it" over on a freight and on the return Bailey balked and said he would pay for his ride. The injured boy's mother is a widow and resides on North Twenty-first street, Salem.
