HOTEL MEN VOTE TO ASK MODIFICATION OF THE PROHIBITION LAW

Following an all day session yesterday, Oregon hotel men meeting at the Multnomah hotel voted manimously to petition the legislature now in session to submit to the people of the state at an election in November an emendment to the constitution that would modify the statewide prohibition amendment adopted upon at the

The proposed amendment, a rough draft of which has already been made, vice president; W. F. Osborn of Euwas considered at all angles by the bonifaces and will be further changed and modified before submission to the

Briefly it provides that it shall be R. O. Gates of the Multnomah hotel lawful for hotel proprietors to serve of the executive committee, H. C. Hotel men feel that inasmuch as the recently enacted prohibition amendment does not restrict the use of beverages by individuals in their homes those persons who make hetels their homes should have the same

Rights of Family Safeguarded.

They further point out that the Committee of One Hundred in its campaign "promised specifically that right of the individual in his home should not be abridged and point to a recently published draft of a supplementary law to the prohibition amendment in which it is permitted that each family in the state may have for its own use five gallens of spirit uous or vinous beverages and 20 gallons of malt beverages.

In view of this fact they ask why should the individual who wishes to buy for his family table be forced to send to California or British Columbia when a well regulated system of distributing depots (that could deliver only in the original package and to the home) would not only keep the business in the state but would be

For similar reasons it is believed that Oregon manufactories should be permitted to operate to sell their product for family consumption in the state, and for export, instead of being obliged to suspend and give the family trade permitted by the proposed supplementary laws to the constitutional amendment to other states. Promiscuous Use Prowned On. "The people of Oregon voted to put pay, is proposed.

in five years there will not be an open saloon in the United States. "But with the saloon gone, the laws should be so made that the rights of the individuals are protected and that the investment of millons in the hotels of Oregon are protected. "Every precaution should be taken to guard against the promiseuous use of these beverages, and the amendment proposed by the hotel men is aimed in this direction. We believe, however, that inasmuch as the individual may the guest of the hotel-which is his home-should have the same privilege, and bona fide hotels with kitchens should be permitted to serve refreshments in their dining rooms or grills.

Amount Is Too Large. "If anything, the amount of bever agas permitted to each family in the committe of 100 bill is too high. The population of Oregon is 750,000. Figuring four people to the family, there are 187,500 families in the state. Figuring 20 gallons of malted drink for each family every four weeks, the families of Oregon would be allowed 3;-750,000 gallons each four weeks. 750,000 gallons each four weeks.

ork) -Why not a Balkan federation?

This is a proposition which is being ncreasingly agitated, as time passes hroughout the near east. It has been more or less talked of for a number of years. The pending it. The federation promoters want it, European war has brought it very much to the front. It cannot exactly be said that the plan has yet won widespread popularity. It has the even the Austrians alone, are beaten, backing, however, of some very in-fluential men. And the idea at last tenegro between them will get Bosnia war may so develop that they can get together at the psychological momen and put the scheme through. Their efforts have been watched from here, and there are some good judges of Balkan affairs who think it more than a possibility.

Five Countries Involved. The countries in which the plan has friends are Greece, Roumania, Bul-garia, Servia and Montenegro. Their notion, in view of the sultan's participation in the war, is to drag Turkey into the combination, too. They feel that the Balkan states have a much better title to Ottoman territories in Europe than have the more at Last Beginning to Take distant powers with which the Turks are at war.

To some extent, of course, the acquisition of European Turkey would be against its people's will. That is to say, the Turks would object. Turkey, however, has a very large Greek and Bulgarian population and respectable Roumanian. Servian and Montengrin epresentations. These people would welcome the country's absorption by the proposed federation. So would all the rest of the sultan's Christian subjects, and so, for that matter would the Jews.

The federationists also have their eyes on Albania and the Austrian provnces of Bosnia, Herzegovina, Transylvania and Bukovina.

Italy will have something to say about Albania, and the federation, it one should be effected, might not get however, and will include it if they are able to do so.

If the Germans and Austrians, or seems to be "taking" with the masses, and Herzegovina, which would mean Its supporters are hopeful that the their addition to the group Transylvania and Bukovina might!

conceivably fall into Roumanis's hands, and so be added to the com-bination. It yet remains for Roumania to win them, however, and this may not happen, especially in view of the fact that Russia has already occupied Bukovina and will perhaps prefer to keep it for the czar.

Population Is Considerable. A federation consisting, however, of Greece, Roumania, Bulgaria, Servia and Montenegro alone would have a population of about 16,500,003, or with the addition of Turkey between 22,000,000 and 23,000,000—a pretty respect-

It is pointed out that there is no reason why these various peoples should not pull together as well as those of the various German states The general feeling seems to be that Greece, as being of predominant pres-tige, though not the largest of the little family of nations, probably would be the combination's principal center though this is a detail which would have to be threshed out later.

From the standpoint of population the federation, however, would Mainly Slav. For this reason it is surmised that Russia would be friendly to it. Germany admittedly would not, but the federation's advocates are openly hoping that the war will so end as to deprive the kaiser of any voice in the matter
