

DECLARATION WASN'T ANNOUNCEMENT FOR 2ND TERM—WILSON

President Says He Merely Meant Future Generations Must Judge His Acts.

TO SPEED UP JUDICIARY

But Present Term Too Short for That, He Says; Also Wants Federal Employment Bureau Legislation.

(United Press Leased Wire.) Washington, Jan. 13.—President Wilson, was informed yesterday some misapprehension had arisen as a result of his remarks in his recent speech at the Jackson day celebration at Indianapolis. The remarks, he was told, were interpreted as an announcement of his candidacy for reelection in 1916.

The president said he knew that the impression had gone forth that his remarks were intended as an announcement of his candidacy for reelection in 1916. He frankly told callers that his statement was not intended as a declaration of his candidacy for reelection. He laughingly admitted, however, that his statement had been so interpreted.

President Wilson, in talks with callers yesterday, advocated enactment of legislation necessary to carry out the idea, expressed in his Indianapolis speech, of a federal employment bureau. While admitting that the present cooperation between different governmental departments was an aid in solving the unemployment problem, he contended that to bring the scheme to its full efficiency new legislation was necessary. It was not believed, however, that the matter would be pressed at this session, owing to its brevity.

General outlines of a scheme for "speeding up" the work of the judicial branch of the government were indicated by the chief executive, who, however, was not in favor of public discussion of the idea now, believing the time was not yet ripe.

A hint dropped by the president that he would veto the Dillingham immigration bill, presumably because of the literacy test clause it contains, was the first indication of Mr. Wilson's course on that measure.

Wasco Will Show Corn at Big Fair

Secretary Phillips of the Business Men's Association Sends Appeal to Growers to Make Good Showing.

The Dalles, Or., Jan. 13.—Wasco county corn will be exhibited at the San Francisco exposition, Secretary T. B. Phillips, of the Business Men's association having sent out an appeal to the growers of the county for a supply of this cereal to make the display. The corn grown in Wasco county has won many prizes at exhibits and fairs during the past few years, demonstrating that this product can be grown here with such success as to rival eastern states. The object of the exhibit at the coming exposition is to demonstrate to eastern corn-growers, who have some looking for locations in a new country, that Wasco county holds a berth for young men wishing to engage in the growing of corn. It is expected that fully 2000 ears will be used in the exhibit.

NOTABLE CHARACTER IN VAUDEVILLE AT EMPRESS

James Grady and Madeline Clarke as Job Williams and Cheerie in "The Toll Bridge."

James Grady, star of "The Toll Bridge," the headlining playlet at Loew's Empress, is listed as one of the notable character actors in vaudeville. Grady's walk alone, in imitation of a decrepit old man, is notable, as every move is a study. He falls twice as the play progresses and to do that realistically and at the same time in such a manner as not to hurt himself, the actor says, is a trick that required long practice.

"The Toll Bridge" was written by Jimmie Barry, who is known in vaudeville as "The Rube," and who has appeared in Portland vaudeville several times. Grady has been presenting the playlet for several years and it is reckoned as one of the best known sketches along the eastern circuits. Grady's main support in the playlet is Madeline Clarke, who has the role of Cheerie, a girl from the poorhouse. But Mr. Grady offers only one of the good acts on the Empress bill that holds such other attractions as Russell's burnt cork harmony singers and comedians, Ward sisters, Sampson and Douglas, El Cleve and the Spanish

Hysteria Leads Her To Strange Passes

Wealthy Pittsburg Woman Rushes Into Surf at Venice, Cal., and Later Sticks in Bathroom Window.

Venice, Cal., Jan. 13.—Mrs. Jean Nockles, 25, said to be a wealthy resident of Pittsburg, was recovering today from a series of experiences that friends declared resulted from hysteria. While walking on the beach last evening Mrs. Nockles suddenly screamed and rushed into the surf. She was rescued with difficulty by a policeman.

An hour later Patrolman Scarlet was called to rescue her from the window of her third story bathroom, where she had become wedged. Physicians were called to attend her.

Clatsop County Wins

Salem, Or., Jan. 13.—The supreme court has affirmed the decision of Circuit Judge Bakin in favor of the defendant in the case of Northern Pacific Railway company against Clatsop county. Plaintiff appealed from a decree of the circuit court in dismissing an appeal from the county board of equalization to the circuit court in the matter of the valuation of 5636 acres of land in Clatsop county for the year 1912, asserting that the valuations were in excess of the fair and true value of the tracts. The new opinion was written by Justice Bean.

Road Supervisors Appointed

Albany, Or., Jan. 13.—Recommended through elections held in each district, the county court appointed road supervisors for each of the 25 districts in Linn county yesterday to serve during this year. There are only 12 new supervisors in the list, all the others being reappointed. Two of the new ones were appointed for districts 24 and 25, recently created by the court.

Recruiting Office Is in New Quarters

Trip to San Francisco Is One of Encouragements to Enlist in Oregon National Guard.

The recruiting office of two companies, F and E, of the Third regiment, Oregon National guard, is now open at 128 Broadway and has been moved from the Columbia building. It is under the direction of Captain E. A. Libby, assisted by Lieutenant T. W. Swartz. The office is likely to move at any time, as no rent is paid for the premises occupied. A number of good appearing recruits have been obtained in the last two days.

It is held out as an inducement to enlisting that the regiment is to go to San Francisco in June, where 15 days' pay will be given. Admission to the exposition accommodations and sustenance will be free. Those enlisting now will have time to get in line in fine form before the trip. While the official orders of Governor Withycombe are not issued to that effect, and while there is no disposition on the part of Uncle Sam to furnish transportation, the leading officers of the O. N. G. think there will be no abandonment of the program.
