More Active Today and Phices Higher

New York, Jan. 18.—Stock market trading was more bullish all around today. There was a better spirit among the bidders and the general market was not only firm and showed a substantial advance over Saturday, but closing figures were close to the extreme top for the day. There is a better feeling in the steel trade and there has been a general re-sumption of activity among the mills.

Settlers on Railroad Grants. Washington, Jan. 18 .- Senator Polhlexter is endeavoring to get some action in the senate on his bill for the relief of settlers on railway grants. The statute of 1898 has been redrafted so as to make it care for those settling since July 1, 1913. The bill, which has been in the senate since the opening of the present session, is acceptable to the agriculture department, but does not make much progress in the senate. A number of affidavits recently were

Nehalem Crecks Swollen. Nehalem, Or., Jan. 18.-Continued

Portland has some of rains last week filled the creeks flowthe finest streets in the ing into the forks of the Nehalem river and raised the river almost to country paved with the freshet height. So far the month of January has brought no serious slides on the railroad. During the past bitulithic two years the county has been isolated from the outside world by railroad tieups. If the rain continues, the usual winter freshet is sure to follow.
