

UMATILLA SPORTSMEN WANT NO CHANGE IN GAME COMMISSION

Not Fighting for Individual
Members but for System
Now in Effect.

TAXPAYERS ARE SATISFIED

Figures Presented Refute Statement That Present Plan Is Burdensome.

(Special to The Journal.)

Portland, Or., Jan. 22.—At a mass meeting of sportsmen and taxpayers held last evening in the Commercial hotel, resolutions opposing any change in the present commission system of game protection and propagation, or in the methods of handling the same funds, were unanimously adopted, and copies were forwarded to the members of the Umatilla county delegation in the legislature.

This protest is the largest in a number of protests that have been sent from this county against the Schuebel bill to abolish the commission, and turn the game funds into the general fund. The Umatilla Fish & Game association, the Round-Up Gun club and the board of managers of the Commercial club had already made formal remonstrances, while signed protests had been sent in from Athens and Pilot Rock.

The sportsmen here are not fighting for the present members of the commission, but for the system. Figures were presented at the meeting last night showing that last year $5611 was paid by the anglers and hunters of Umatilla county for licenses in 1914, whereas the year before the commission system was put into effect the receipts were but $1190. Figures from the county offices also showed that $50 was paid in fines for violations of game laws in 1914 in this county, one half of which went to the county. The total cost to the county in prosecuting these offenders, feeding such as went to jail and in postage for mailing out licenses, was but $129.40, leaving a clear gain to the county of $250.50.

These figures were produced to refute the claims that the game system was a burden to the taxpayers. The cost of protection and propagation is borne entirely by the sportsmen through the license system. The testimony of individual sportsmen was given to the effect that fishing and hunting in this county have improved 100 per cent during the past four years because of the increase in the number of anglers and hunters.

Roseburg Also Satisfied.
Roseburg, Or., Jan. 22.—Douglas county sportsmen are incensed over the proposed plan of the legislature to abolish the game and fish commission, and divert the funds obtained by license fees from the separate game and fish fund into the general fund. The members of the Douglas County Game Protective association will hold a meeting here tonight to discuss and offer a protest against this plan, and it is proposed to hold another meeting at Hiddle (tomorrow night for the same purpose).

The sportsmen are not necessarily proclaiming that the commission should be retained with its present personnel, but they are outspoken in support of the commission system of administration.

The Women's '95 Mental Culture club at their last regular meeting passed resolutions endorsing the present system of game and fish protection and propagation, that the commission plan of administration should not be changed at this time, and protesting against any attempt to draw the game and fish department into politics.

Who Has Cook Stove For Needy Family?

Have you a cook stove stored away that you would like to dispose of in a worthy cause? If so, you may telephone Mrs. Sherwood (Tabor 5876), who will place it with a family in great need of it. The father is out of work and he, with his wife and three children, were put out of the house in which they were living. Their case was taken up by the social service committee of the Montavilla Parent-Teacher circle and they have been given shelter in a house with rent free for a month. Some furniture has been provided but there is nothing to cook with. The father is a bookkeeper but will work at anything he can find to do.

Wasco County Is Helping the Needy

Property of The Dallas Driving Club
Being Improved for Use of Fair and Rodeo; Applicants were Numerous.

The Dallas, Or., Jan. 22.—Eighty-seven men with families to support are being employed by Wasco county on the work of remodeling buildings, improvements, etc., at the county farm. The farm was recently acquired by the county from The Dallas Driving Club association, which organization utilized the race track and rented the grounds for the purpose of holding the annual Wasco county fair and rodeo. Considerable remodeling is necessary to make the buildings adaptable to the uses of a county farm, and a number of the buildings which occupy tillable ground, will be moved to other sites.

The plan of employing only needy residents of the county for this work was originated by County Judge F. S. Gunning. When the announcement was made that only needy men would be employed on the work, the county judge was besieged with applications, which numbered more than 100. Each applicant was required to fill out a blank, stipulating the number of persons dependent upon the applicant for support, whether or not he used intoxicating liquors, etc. The system was adopted to aid only the deserving men who were willing to support their families by doing day work at a laborer's wage.

When the work is completed, Wasco county will not only have a fine farm for the poor, but will have improved grounds for holding the annual fair.

Panoramic View Of Highway, Plan

Exhibit Will Show Columbia Highway to Visitors at the Fair in San Francisco.

The plan to exhibit a panoramic view of the Columbia Highway and photographs of scenes along it at the Panama-Pacific exposition at San Francisco has taken definite shape and the details are under way. The panoramic view is to be 196 feet in length and 15 feet in height and will cover a panel on one of the main aisles of the Palace of Transportation in the heart of the exposition. Below the panorama there will be a space of five feet along the entire length of the panel. It will be covered with large photographs of scenic points indicated on the panorama.

The panorama is being painted in sections by F. A. Routledge and arrangements are being made to exhibit some of these sections at the automobile show at the Armory next week.

Space has also been secured in the Palace of Transportation for a small office at one of the main entrances in which to station a man to give out literature and information concerning Oregon.

PROPOSED JUNKET TO PENDLETON ASYLUM MEETS OPPOSITION

Joint Resolution Gets Rough
Handling in the Lower House.

SENT BACK TO COMMITTEE

Day's Resolution Calling for Investigation of State Institutions Gets Only One Vote.

Salem, Or., Jan. 22.—Official inspection of remote state institutions by committees of the legislature yesterday afternoon when a senate concurrent resolution came up for passage. The resolution called for an expense paid journey of eight members, four from the house and four from the senate, all members of the ways and means committee, who should proceed to Pendleton and look after the needs of the eastern Oregon state hospital.

Another scowl was bestowed upon Senator I. N. Day's resolution to empower the senate ways and means committee to subpoena officers of the state institutions and require them to produce their books and records for the guidance of the committee in arriving at the amount of appropriations needed to carry on the work.

No Need of Expense.
The point at which the house balked was a provision allowing an expense account for whatever assistance is necessary to work out the investigation. This roused the opposition of Representative Littlefield of Multnomah, who declared the committee has the right to call in witnesses any way and there is no reason for incurring a heavy extra expense.

Mr. Eaton rose to remark also that the help hire situation was settled long ago and it would not be fair to go back on a definite stand once taken. Mr. Schuebel declared the idea useless because if any real investigation were to be made, 40 days is too short a time to more than administer a coat of whitewash, if any wrong was found.

When the vote was taken, Thomas Brown of Marion county was the only member to vote "aye."

Just Pay Railroad Fare.
On the larger matter—the eastern Oregon junket—Mr. Eaton amended the resolution so that only three members should be sent, two from the house and one from the senate—and that instead of having their expenses paid in toto, they be compensated for their round trip railroad fare.

This came after Dana Allen of Marion county had moved to lay the resolution on the table. Then rose J. T. Hinkle of Umatilla, sturdy advocate of all things eastward of the mountains. When by parliamentary means he had succeeded in getting the resolution lifted from the table he voiced his opinion of the house in bitter sarcasm.

"This is the funniest thing," he said. "The gentleman from Marion, whose assylum has already been investigated, moves to prevent the inspection of an institution that spends nearly $300,000 of the public funds."

The discussion ended when the resolution was referred to the committee on resolutions.

Tonnage License On Auto Trucks

Counties to Divide Fees When Route
Crosses Boundary Line; Funds to Go for Repair of Roads.

Salem, Or., Jan. 22.—Automobile men had their longed-for victory afternoon before the house roads and highways committee when Tom McCusker explained the bill drawn up by him and introduced by D. C. Lewis, proposing a tonnage license on automobile trucks. Several who attended the hearing could find no particular objection in the bill, which provides that when a truck traverses the public roads between two or more counties, the license fee is divided and goes into the county treasuries, to be put back into road repair.

A bill drawn by E. E. Covert was considered informally by the committee empowering municipalities and counties to raise funds by taxation or otherwise for the improvement of roads lying partly or wholly outside the district limits. C. C. Chapman of the Portland Commercial club stated that the bill probably would favor this measure, as it allows wider extension of roads than the present laws contemplate. The bill will be introduced in a few days.

Road Work Progressing.

Woodland, Wash., Jan. 22.—Work on that part of the Pacific highway between Woodland and La Center, contract for which was let to Messrs. Hayden Brothers & Bidwell of Portland, is being covered with crushed rock has about been completed, and there was a little over two miles of rock road made. The firm is now crushing rock for Clark county, which is being laid in an eight foot roadway on the main Lewis river road east of here, to a depth of six inches. The county is furnishing the rock, and the farmers interested are hauling it onto the road, and other farmers are placing and leveling it up.

Ida Schwind Brings Suit.

Ida Schwind yesterday sued John P. Schwind for divorce, alleging that he pointed a loaded revolver at her on two occasions, would never let her leave the house unless she obtained his consent, and scolded her when she spent even so much as 10 cents for car fare.

NATIONAL GUARD NOTES

Class of New Recruits Is Put Through Stunts at the Armory.

Reception Is Planned.
Captain Eugene Mosherberger, commanding company J of Woodburn, has invited the officers of the Third regiment to a reception and entertainment to be given Tuesday evening, January 26. A party of officers will probably be made up to leave early in the afternoon of the day set.

Forty-seven Men Respond.
Company F last Wednesday evening had two sergeants busy with the class of new recruits at the Armory. Captain E. C. Libby is very much pleased with securing among the 14 men sworn in during the past week three ex-regular army men, eight Spanish war veterans and two veterans of the British army in the South African war.

The new recruits were thrown right into company formation and made a good showing. After a drill at which 47 men responded, a supper of cocoa and hardtack was provided.

Militia in Fine Condition.
W. E. Finzer, as adjutant general of the Oregon national guard, has submitted his report for 1913 and 1914, addressed to the governor as commander-in-chief. The report shows that there are eight companies of coast artillery corps, one company of field artillery, one troop of cavalry, and 12 companies of the Third infantry, all officered, armed and disposed as required by the war department of the United States. In the two years covered by the report there have been mustered in company A of the Third infantry at McMinnville, and troop A of cavalry at Portland. There were mustered out company A at Baker and the ambulance company at Portland.

The cost of the O. N. G. to the state appears to be $70,000 a year. General Finzer, in his report, says: "The members of the national guard are devoted as much time now as can be reasonably expected without some compensation for money expended and time lost." The total number of men in the O. N. G. of all branches appears to be 1769 men and officers, of which 1292 are privates, 398 non-commissioned officers and 130 commissioned officers. One of the features of the report is the extremely frank criticism of the different companies by the United States army officers sent to report at the time of the field maneuvers in 1913 and 1914. Good full page illustrations of the different armories and buildings throughout the state are given.

Two Promotions Granted.
James J. Kennedy and Ernest A. Robins, color sergeants of the Third Regiment, have been promoted to be sergeant majors, the first of the second battalion, and the latter of the third battalion.

Recruiting Boom Secured.
Friday and Saturday of this week the recruiting officers of the Third

Culture Defined as Nobleness of Spirit

A. R. Vejar, ex-Counsel of Chile and Peru, Addresses City and County
Medical Societies.

"True culture does not consist of knowledge of facts, but in kindness of heart, nobleness of spirit, human sympathy and a large and noble life generally, avoiding always the corruption of talent for any mercenary purpose," said A. R. Vejar, ex-counsel of Chile and Peru for Oregon, speaking Wednesday evening before the city and county medical societies on comparative forms of work and at the Latin-American countries.

"The wrong idea of culture blinds and misleads," he said, "and thus talent and ability become mechanical, dull, lifeless and unsympathetic. Integrity, ability, loyalty and honesty of purpose, in representing what one claims to be in any profession in life, are the fundamental elements necessary to real culture."

Dr. K. A. J. Mackenzie presided at the meeting, which was held in the auditorium of the Medical building.

It proposes to go to San Francisco and to Monterey the latter part of June and will practice with United States artillery with the latest guns. There has recently been received by the battery 133 of the latest form of automatic Colt's revolvers, and practice with them will soon be undertaken.
