will not be constructed this year owing to the lateness of the season, but will be constructed next year, is the provailing opinion in Medford at present. Although the beet sugar promoters have not definitely declined to build this year, as the present accepted acreage only equals about $600 acress and as 5000 acres were required, it is not believed that the factory will be built in 1915. The members of the beet sugar committee, however, are confident that the soil and sunshine of the Rogue River valley have greatly im-pressed the Salt Lake capitalists and that they are determined to come here as soon as their required acreage is assured.

The campaign for irrigation in the Rogue River valley launched in Decemper continues with unabated energy, and a definite plan to put the vall under water will probably be presented to the Farmers' and Fruit Growers' league the last of the month.

The establishment of an irrigation district has been abandoned for the present and now the plan is to pump water from Rogue River to irrigate the north section of the valley, and take water from Butte creek for the southern section near Phoenix and Talent. G. B. Carpenter, chairman of the in rigation committee, says that the sen timent for irrigation is growing stead ly. The shortage of rain for the last six months makes the question of speial importance to the fruit growers.
