

Women's Clubs BY VELLA WINNER

Forest Grove Woman's Club. The Forest Grove Woman's club has just completed the beautifying of the public school grounds at the various buildings. The work was done through the clever design of the designer, the direction of a competent landscape gardener, and is something that will be more appreciated in coming years. The club is also planning a clean-up day in the near future.

The educational committee has recently organized a Home and School League which will work along with the Parent-Teacher organization. It is hoped that under the broader name to induce more of the citizens to become interested in the public schools.

The social hygiene committee will soon give a series of demonstrations of practical home nursing. This will be given under the direction of the hospital nurses and is intended to be very helpful and is open to all women of the town, together with high school girls.

The library committee gave an entertainment at the local moving picture house, Wednesday evening, at which was realized enough to keep the club library open on Sundays during the winter which will be quite a convenience to the transient public. Oswald Olson of Cornelius, who has just returned from Germany, after an absence of five years spent in study, was present and sang three selections, which were enthusiastically received by his audience.

Elberta Forward Club. The Elberta Forward club met Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. J. M. Kluder, 1021 East Twenty-seventh street, North. Mrs. E. H. Hick gave a delightful talk on her trip around the world and showing post cards and views of the trip.

Portland Woman's Club. At the meeting of the Portland Women's club last Friday afternoon, a program of rare interest was presented. The guest of honor was Governor Withycombe, who addressed the club, choosing as his subject "Oregon." Mrs. Abigail Scott Dunway fittingly spoke in response on behalf of the club women.

Rev. J. Richard Olson of the Immanuel Lutheran church delivered an illustrated lecture on the "Paradise of the Pacific." Rev. Mr. Olson, who is also chaplain of the Oregon Naval Militia, visited the Hawaiian Islands last summer on a 5000 mile cruise with the militia.

By a rising vote of thanks the club extended its appreciation to Governor Withycombe for his able address and to Rev. Mr. Olson for the instructive "course" given the gathering at the club.

Mrs. M. H. Lamond, social chairman of the club, who leaves soon for New York city to reside, was presented with a token of remembrance, Mrs. Frankel, club president, extending the gift of appreciation on behalf of the club.

The social hour closed the very enjoyable meeting. A large number of out-of-town guests were present. The club room was decorated in oriental effect.

Mrs. M. Gabriel-Pullin sang the "Valley of Laughter" (Sanderson), and "My Treasure" (Travis). Mr. Joseph A. Finley sang "Sunset" (Burke), and "See the Pale Moon" (Campana), and was rendered by the two soloists in duet. These numbers were well received and elicited great applause.

It Was Baby Day. Yesterday was observed as the annual baby day by the Richmond Parent-Teacher association. Fourteen babies were registered for the eugenic test at the courthouse next Thursday and 60 babies enjoyed the care of the kindergarten, which is in charge of several mothers and teachers on each association meeting day.

The speaker for the afternoon was Mrs. Robert H. Tate, and her subject was "Constructive Motherhood." Three delightful numbers were given by the primary pupils, and the afternoon was by Frances Graff. There was a large crowd and the afternoon closed with the serving of refreshments.

Supt. Alderman Is Indorsed. Resolutions indorsing L. R. Alderman as superintendent of the Portland schools and asking that he be re-elected were unanimously passed at yesterday's meeting of the South Mount Taber Parent-Teacher association. The school principal, Paulinus MacDonald, was the speaker, and he gave some excellent ideas on school emergency work, told of the working plan of the school banks and advised the organization of baseball and soccer teams for the boys.

Will Replace Burned Books. At a meeting of the Arleta Parent-Teacher association, held yesterday afternoon, it was voted to help replace the books destroyed in the fire at the high school. The books were burned in the recent Franklin High commercial department fire. C. C. Chapman was the speaker, and his subject was "The City Beautiful." Mr. Spiers, the principal of the school, gave some excellent advice in regard to home gardens. The president, Miss McLaughlin, was unable to be present, and the meeting was presided over by Mrs. Hendricks. There was a good attendance.

Shaver Association Meets. The Parent-Teacher association of the Shaver school held its meeting yesterday afternoon with a large attendance. Also entertaining the ladies of the Albira W. C. T. U., several of whom were present. A delightful program was given by the teachers and Aunt Sally's Advice To Beauty-Seekers. W. C. D. says: "My face is freckled the best remedy I know of is to use a good skin cream that will really take off these horrid spots." Have you tried the treatment recommended to you? If you know the best to remove very obstinate freckles.

WHAT LABOR IS DOING. Labor Council Seeks Permission to Organize Street Car Employees. Conference to Be Continued. Thursday afternoon a committee representing the Central Labor council, waited upon Franklin T. Griffith, president of the Portland Railway, Light & Power Co., and requested the right to organize the different craftsmen employed by the corporation, particularly the platform men. After two hours spent in an exchange of ideas on industrial relations, the conference was postponed until Thursday afternoon, March 25. The committee reported progress to the Central Labor council Friday evening. C. O. Young, children. George L. Baker was the speaker of the afternoon. A resolution was passed asking that L. R. Alderman be retained as superintendent of the schools. At the close of the meeting refreshments were served.

Woman's Club Has Benefit. An entertainment was given at the Star theater, Forest Grove, March 12, by local talent, for the benefit of the city library. The entertainment was given under the auspices of the Women's club, and was attended by an audience that filled the theatre to capacity.

The program consisted of a series of pictures, solos, readings and numbers by Walker's orchestra. Herr Oswald Olson, who has just returned from a five years' musical course in Germany, sang several songs. Over $100 was realized from the entertainment.

The Woman's club has just completed the work of beautifying the Clark high school grounds, and the planting of trees in the parking around the Lincoln school grounds. The beautifying of the Clark school grounds consisted in filling in the lawn and the planting of hedges, shrubbery and lawn grass. The work was done by the boys of the school, and most of the materials used were donated by local dealers.

Shattuck Entertainment a Success. The entertainment given last evening at the Lincoln High school for the benefit of the Shattuck Parent-Teacher association was a success artistically and called out a large and appreciative audience. The program was opened with a group of orchestral selections by a school children's orchestra. A benefit minstrel was danced by 24 little ones in costume. Eight girls danced a lovely Spanish dance. Twelve boys and girls danced a sailor song and dance. Miss Inez Dagmar Kelly sang solo. Albert Creitz gave violin numbers. Much credit is due F. E. Hunter, one of the instructors in music, for arranging the program.

Trades School Explained. There was a large attendance at yesterday's meeting of the Highland Parent-Teacher association, the speaker of the afternoon being Mrs. Alexander. A quiet talk was given by her very clear idea of what the school is doing, dwelling particularly upon its democracy. The association passed resolutions indorsing Superintendent Alderman and asking the school board for his reelection.

The children from Miss Pike's room gave a little play, entitled, "Springtime." A quartet of girls from Miss Park's room sang and there was a number by the girls' glee club. The president, Mrs. Thomas G. Greene, and Mrs. Krudson were elected delegates to attend the national convention of the Congress of Mothers, which convenes in Portland in May. Mrs. Ira Bodine and Mrs. Billington were named as alternates.

northwest representative of the American Federation of Labor, headed the committee, accompanied by E. E. Smith, president of the Central Labor Union, E. J. St. George, and A. W. Jones, a member of the executive board.

Several Applications Secured. H. Hauer, secretary of the Waiters' union, spent several days this week in Salem, and has obtained a number of applications for membership in the Portland union, where they will be filled out as soon as there are enough members to hold a separate charter.

Carpenters to Hold Dance. Carpenters' union, No. 1106, of Millie Park, has a dance Saturday evening, March 25, set for the date of the next social and dance. These socials attract attendance from outside the ranks, and all are welcome.

Smoker Takes Place Tonight. The Bridge, Dock & Pier Carpenters, No. 872, will hold a smoker this evening at 124 1/2 Second street. The evening refreshments, speaking and an interesting program.

PERSONAL MENTION

Mrs. Benjamin Severly Bruised. Mrs. O. W. Benjamin of 42 1/2 North Sixth street is confined to her home suffering from the shock of being struck by a motorcycle on the Morrison street bridge, Wednesday night. She sustained severe bruises about the head. The motorcycle was ridden by Edwin McKean, a postoffice messenger. She has been ill for several years.

La Grande Couple on Honeymoon. Dr. George L. Biggers, prominent lodge man and physician of La Grande, who has been in Portland spending his honeymoon at the Benson hotel, has returned to his home in eastern Oregon. Dr. Biggers surprised his many friends in La Grande and Portland by quietly marrying Miss Jessie Green, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Green of La Grande, last Sunday. The wedding came as the culmination of a romance that began when Mrs. Biggers was employed as the doctor's office assistant.

Ben French to Hold Reception. Ben F. French, librarian of the Oregon A. O. U. W. library and reading rooms at 129 Fourth street, will hold a reception every day next week for his friends and friends of the order. The library hours are from 12:30 to 5 o'clock in the afternoon, and from 7 to 9 o'clock in the evening.

National Theatre Has Change of Bill

For its week end program the National is showing the Hearst Selig Weekly and Lubin society melo-drama, "A Siren of Corsica," with Little Leslie playing the lead. Her work is good and she wears a stunning array of gowns, but the film as a whole is only a good old time of Carlo plays an important part in the story, which is very well set. The work is good in the picture. Today and good things in the picture. Today and the rehearsal of the European States National is the showing of motion picture taken yesterday of the 1450 Jefferson high school students attending the rehearsal of a special feature at the "The Champion" closes tonight.

Famous Suffragist Speaks on Big War

Mrs. Fethick Lawrence Takes Up Part Women Take in International Contexts; Heavy Cost of Life Told. Mrs. Fethick Lawrence, the noted English non-militarist suffragist, spoke at Reed college last night on "England and the War." The speaker paid particular attention to the part of women in the war, and stated among other things that five times as many women and children died as a result of the Boer war as men. The Amanda Reed association of Reed college, an organization of woman students, has affiliated with the Women's National Peace movement started recently in Washington. Mrs. Fethick Lawrence played a prominent part in the launching of the movement.

Little Stories for Bedtime BY THORNTON W. BURGESS

(Copyright, 1915, by J. G. Lord.)

Hooty the Owl Doesn't Stay Still. Now what's the good of being smart when others do not do their part?

If Hooty the Owl didn't say this to himself he might not know that he had made a very cunning plan to get the eggs of Hooty the Owl, a plan so shrewd and cunning that no one else in the Great Forest or the Green Meadows would have thought of it. There was only one weakness in it, and that was that it depended for success on having Hooty the Owl do as he usually does when he is tormented by a crowd of noisy crows—stay where he was until they got tired and flew away.

No. Hooty sometimes makes a mistake that smart people are very apt to make. He thinks that because he is so smart other people are stupid. That is where he goes wrong. The smartest of them is as smart as he thinks he is. He always thought of Hooty the Owl as stupid. That is, he always thought of him that way in daytime. At night when he was awakened out of a sound sleep by the fierce hunting cry of Hooty, he wasn't so sure about Hooty being stupid, and he always took care to sit perfectly still in the darkness lest Hooty's great ears should hear him and Hooty's great eyes, made for seeing in the dark, should find him. No, in the night Hooty was not at all sure that Hooty was stupid.

But in the daytime he was sure. You see, he quite forgot the fact that the brightness of day is to Hooty what the blackness of night is to him. So, because Hooty would simply sit still and hiss and snap his bill instead of trying to catch his tormentors or flying away, Hooty called him stupid. So he felt sure that Hooty would stay right where he was now, and he hoped that Mrs. Hooty would let him tempt and leave the nest where she was sitting on those two eggs and join Hooty to help him drive away that noisy crew.

But Hooty isn't stupid. Not a bit of it. The minute he found out that Blacky and his friends had discovered him he thought of Mrs. Hooty and the two precious eggs in the old nest of Redbill, the hawk, who he had seen. "Mrs. Hooty mustn't be disturbed," thought he. "That will never do at all. I must lead these black rascals away where they will not see Mrs. Hooty. I'm certainly must."

So he spread his broad wings and huddled away among the trees a little way. He didn't fly far, for, on account of the bright light he couldn't see very well. Then, too, the

It is reported that Day "put the screws" to Hurlburt with the result that he is to have the naming of the new appointees. Rushlight is correspondingly down in the mouth.

As patronage is the one remaining thing that Hurlburt has, the political bosses hope to get control of all the county offices. With the present city administration the city officers are out of their reach. In this way good jobs, including the heads of institutions, which the bosses are not overlooking. It is reported that the Oregon National Guard is to be used in strengthening the machine.

It may not be apparent on the face of developments what all the talk of the game are, but that the political machine is being perfected, that the grip of the spoilsmen is tightening about the state, is easily to be seen.

NEW STEAMER WILL BE BUILT BY GRACE LINE

Further aft, as on the Catalina, while an additional cargo hatch will be placed about the houses.

Other Contracts Probable. Willing to contract call for one vessel, it is said that the company has plans for at least two additional steamers to be built as soon as the Cramps find room for the work. Owing to the crippling of the European ship yards and the demand of capital for more ships flying the American flag, all Atlantic coast yards are said to be rushed with work and it is said that not more than one vessel at a time can be started.

With the awarding of this contract there are now four steel steamers under construction for service out of Portland. The American-Hawaiian Steamship company has ordered two specially designed lumber carriers of the same general type as the steamers Atlantic and Pacific of the Emery Steamship company's line, which were suddenly switched to the Atlantic trade after the opening of the war and also duplicate of the steamer Washington, which was recently sunk off the Delaware breakwater in collision with a sailing vessel.

Hoquiam Ate Salmon

He meant to lead those bothersome crows into the darkest part of the Green Forest.

Instant he started to fly that whole noisy crew with the exception of Blacky was after him, and because he couldn't use his claws or bill while flying, they grew bold enough to pull a few feathers out of his back. So he flew only a little way to a thick hemlock tree, where it wasn't easy for the crows to get at him, and where the light didn't hurt his eyes so much. There he rested for a few minutes, and then did the same thing over again. He meant to lead those bothersome crows into the darkest part of the Green Forest and there—well, he could see better there, and it might be that one of them would be careless enough to come within reach. No, Hooty wasn't stupid. Certainly not.

Blacky awoke to that fact as he sat on the top of a tall pine tree silently watching. He could see Mrs. Hooty on the nest, and as the noise of Hooty's tormentors sounded from farther and farther away she closed her eyes. Blacky could imagine that she was smiling to herself. It was very clear that she had no intention of going to help Hooty. His splendid plan had failed just because stupid Hooty, who wasn't stupid at all, had flown away when he ought to have sat still. It was very provoking.

Patronage Life of Machine

As Hurlburt was elected, Rushlight expected to name the deputies in the sheriff's office. It was an unpleasant surprise to the ex-mayor when he found that Day had the same expectations. Before Hurlburt took office Day's activities were observed and his recommendations were not slighted. Among others Day's son was appointed a deputy sheriff.

Then the recent legislature passed a law transferring the collection to the sheriff's office. The senate bosses were apparently so anxious for more spoils in that office that they hooked the emergency clause onto the measure, and the hour refused to stand for it. The law will go into effect May 22 and it is over the naming of H. A. Booth United States senator, and that Rushlight had brought out T. M. Hurlburt for sheriff after he found he could make no deal with Archie Day.

The result was the deal whereby the Oregonian, which had shown indications of friendliness to Sheriff Word, agreed to support Hurlburt, provided the News would refrain from attacks on Booth. Rushlight also was to throw his support to Booth.

There has been a book printed in the United States in recent years which has created more sensation than any other. It is Elinor Glyn's "Three Weeks." The publication has been so much talked about by reviewers and critics that it has now been plagiarized and shown at the Majestic theatre for one week, beginning today. The picture, far superior to the book, is the opinion of reviewers who have seen the play. It was shown in private performance in New York last week, and reports from there are to the effect that the picture was a great success. It has received the indorsement of the national board of censors and the official O. K. of the local board has been placed upon the Trade papers declare that the picture is vivid in interest, and is not offensive to the most skeptical. It is of interest must necessarily depend upon its sensationalism, since Americans are ever seeking variety in motion pictures. If the film were not different from the general run of impossible, untrue melodrama, it would not be clamored after by exhibitors as to this man has been.

Many of the scenes in the book are faithfully depicted in the film, but many scenes which are offensive in the book have been substituted for in the play, and the result is a charming production, which is bound to create enthusiasm.

The story is well known. It centers about a beautiful young queen, who, against her will, has been married to a dissolute king. He makes her life unbearable and she flees from the palace under an assumed name, and shortly finds herself in Lucerne, Switzerland. Carefully concealing her identity, she established herself in a fashionable resort. Here she meets with a painful accident and in this way meets the man whom she has been attracted to before, but whom she has been careful not to meet. The real heir to the throne of her diminutive kingdom. They fall in love with each other, and in spite of her first aversion her enthrallment, she finally capitulates.

Then follows a few weeks of happiness such as the unhappy little queen has never known and in his way. But because it is stolen happiness, she must discard it. This she finally does, to the grief of Paul and her own sorrow.

Of course, the play does not end happily, but it does the same. The most fascinating of the younger constellation of stars in the play, opposite Mablon Hamilton, a handsome blonde chap, who is ideally suited to the part.
