Recent Happenings on the Nation's Leading Campuses.

Reed College.

Professor Norman F. Coleman spoke recently at the student conference of Christian associations at Newburg, Ore. His topic was "Christianity and the World Crisis." Professor Coleman will also speak at a meeting of the Teachers' association at Camas, Wash., this week.

With the coming of spring, athletics is receiving an added impetus. The tennis courts are nearly finished and will be put through some hard use. Each of the classes is already at work on a baseball team. The basketball tournament is in progress among the men, each class being represented by three teams of two men. It is generally agreed that the close matches will be between the juniors and seniors.

Molieres' "Le Bourgeois Gentilhomme" was given by several students last Friday evening. The parts were taken by Edgar Piper, Mr. Cushing, Charles Larrabee, Arthur House, Charles Rogers, Adele Brault, Clara Wuest, Harry Wernberg, Alta Armstrong, Elizabeth McClelleny, James Rogers and Stenposon Smith.

Latin enthusiasts at the college are planning a banquet to be given April 1st. The affair will be staged in the gymnasium in the form of an old Roman banquet, where no English will be heard.

Professor Norman F. Coleman will be the vesper speaker in the college chapel today at 4 o'clock.

University of Oregon.

Many discussions and much reflection have at last produced a commencement play choice. The play is the Molieres' "The Shopkeeper Turned Gentleman," a comedy in five acts that has been popular in France since later in the world. It will be staged in the woods on the north side of Skinner's butte, an Eugene city park; the site of the performance lends itself excellently to dramatics, the Williams river being a fine background for the steep slope having amphitheatre possibilities. The stage is under way until the production will not be put on until the first of June.

The weatherford meetings that will close this evening, have drawn to Valldahl a large proportion of faculty and student body from the University of Oregon. Each of the weeks of preparatory work, the meetings represented what was termed by a faculty member "the highest type of evening of Oregon. It is a member of the international committee of the Y. M. C. A.

A freshman class of 500 is predicted by Dr. John Straub, dean of liberal arts, for September. Dr. Straub has recently addressed 25 high schools.

Oregon libraries are receiving from the University of Oregon, a new floral calendar gotten out by A. R. Sweetser, professor of botany. As a common flower comes into bloom, a calendar sheet is placed in the library board to show a photograph of the plant, and a brief description. The department of botany has also given hints for science teachers that show how native flowers and shrubs may be utilized. "I feel that the textbooks now used are adapted to the western material," said Professor Sweetser.

Oregon Agricultural College.

Dr. W. D. Weatherford, who for 13 years has been student secretary of the Y. M. C. A. at the college, gave a series of four addresses before the students and faculties of the Oregon Agricultural college recently. Dr. Weatherford is a speaker of exceptional ability, having a national reputation among college men. Aside from being a platform speaker, Dr. Weatherford is an athlete of repute and an author whose subject matter works on social uplift. His addresses were well received at the college by students and instructors alike.

The trustees of Columbia University have adopted new methods of admission of students to the university. In past years each school of the

WOODMEN TO WELCOME HEAD CONSUL

Left to right—E. P. Martin, of Portland, deputy head consul, W. O. W. I. I. Boak, head consul of Woodmen of World; J. J. Hoover, of Denver, deputy head consul, W. O. W.

The Woodmen of the World in Portland are preparing to extend to I. I. Boak, their head consul, a rousing welcome when he comes to Portland on April 26. A committee representing every camp in Portland is making preliminary arrangements to make it the big event of "Perfected Woodcraft" in the state this year.

I. I. Boak, a citizen of Denver, Colo., will have served ten years as head consul of the fraternity on the day he comes to Portland. The order of the Woodmen of the World has prospered under his steady and business-like administration, until even those in the ranks who opposed him ten years ago have come to him to yield loyal support and exhibit genuine admiration.

New Members to Be Presented.

The different camps of Portland will present their head consuls with 100 new members on the occasion of his presence here, who will receive the obligation of Woodcraft from him as they stand before the great camp stump that will be erected in the middle of the Masonic Temple auditorium. In addition there will be given "Neighbor" Boak 100 applications of junior class members in this city who have over 6000 members, and it is his largest fraternal life benefit on their poster entitled "India and the Sea Coast." The winners of the short story contest were Miss Marjorie Fleming, first, Miss Mary Lines, second, and Miss Louise Emmons, third.

Yale University.

Dean Jones discussed in the columns of the "Daily News" the pressing need of additional rooming quarters for the undergraduates in the academic department. The failure of the present dormitories to accommodate more than 1000 of more than 1400 men desiring rooms had made necessary a plan by which most of the juniors will be left to shift for themselves for the sake of bringing the freshmen on the campus as a unit. A new quadrangle for either the freshmen or junior class seems the only solution of the problem.

Harvard University.

The Harvard Chapter of Phi Beta Kappa has chosen James Ford Rhodes, L.L.D., Litt.D., and Alfred Noyes, Litt. D., respectively orator and poet for Phi Beta Pappa Day, June 21, next.

SOCIETY FOLK TAKE FLING AT HOCKEY

The fascination of ice hockey has not only gripped society maids as spectators, but they are taking a fling at the game themselves. Since the completion of the big hippodrome last fall, every morning the maids and younger matrons of society have applied themselves studiously to becoming really good skaters. Many now have the real free poetry of motion when swinging over the smooth surface and there is no longer that anxious organization in Portland, or in Oregon, or in the nine Pacific Coast states. Its largest local camp is in Denver, the first local organization founded in the Pacific jurisdiction, with 2708 members; but third on the list is Multnomah camp, of this city, with 2400 members and a determination to be in the 3000 class. The jurisdiction, which comprises nine Pacific Coast states, has 115,000 members, over $7,000,000 in reserve, much of which is invested in Oregon municipal and school bonds, the total interest on which is over $300,000 a year.

The W. O. W. was founded in Denver, Colo., in 1890, and will celebrate its silver anniversary on August 11 in San Francisco with a general celebration at the Panama-Pacific exposition. It is to make arrangements for this silver jubilee that Head Consul Boak is visiting the coast at this time.

Mr. Boak has been identified with the work of the organization department since its founding, and is one of the men who was some in the face of bitter opposition and founded one local camp after another in state after state. He has been one of the public sub-committee is composed of William Reidt, chairman; George L. Baker, J. J. Jennings, J. O. Wilson, J. W. Booth, L. W. Oren, H. J. Blaesing, A. L. Barbur.

He is assisted by three deputy head consuls, E. P. Martin, of this city, Peter F. Gilroy, of San Francisco, and J. J. Hoover, of Denver.

Members of Committee.

The following is a list of the Head Consul Boak reception committee: Webfoot Camp No. 65—George Rossmann, chairman; Chas. B. Turley, secretary; A. L. Barbur, F. D. Fitzey, Fred W. German, Patrick McHale.

Multnomah Camp No. 77—James Riddiman, T. J. Kreuder, F. J. Melndie, R. W. Elsea, C. E. Turley.

Portland Camp No. 107—E. E. Crofoot, J. R. Gladwyn, A. H. Harms, A. W. Schmale, C. S. J. Kurtz.

Prospect Camp No. 140—J. J. Jennings, George W. Tabler, C. Dudley, T. J. Hewitt, S. O. Weaver.

Rose City Camp No. 191—J. T. Fitzgerald, G. C. Stanley, J. H. Jordan, J. W. Booth, O. E. Nordstrom.

George Washington Camp No. 261—H. W. Kassebaum, A. Schroeder, H. L. Baker, W. G. Frey, P. Schuh.

Sunnyside Camp No. 318—C. A. Ward, W. F. Harris, W. Oren.

Arlita Camp No. 806—Z. T. Saulcer, E. B. Gillmore, C. W. Johnston, H. Bush, J. A. Bowen.

The publicly sub-committee is composed of William Reidt, chairman; George L. Baker, J. J. Jennings, J. O. Wilson, J. W. Booth, L. W. Oren, H. J. Blaesing, A. L. Barbur.

It is reported through trade papers of the bakers that Boston and New York proprietors have been mixing large quantities of plaster of paris and other chemicals with their bread to give it weight, color and a whole lot of some flavor. The amount of plaster of paris said to have been used in some samples is almost incredible.

"Mrs. Gilman is well known in the United States and in Europe, where she is hailed as supreme amongst American women in intellectual attainment and with few superiors as author and lecturer.

Even the ultra-conservative and anti-feminist London Times, in reviewing Mrs. Gilman's book, "The Home," called attention to the wit and humor contained in it, along with its instructiveness. The Times contrasted her with those it dubbed "systematic unbalanced suffragettes, untrained and taking themselves too seriously to be capable of that sense of proportion which is the sense of humor."

She has had a long career. In a recent interview, mentions Mrs. Gilman as the highest type of woman that America has produced and her work as the most valuable of any woman of her time, not only for women, but for the race.

Mrs. Gilman, as a member of the Beecher-Stowe family, has a right to great intellectual interest, and with her splendid scientific training she has been enabled to formulate and give to the world a system of philosophy which is more helpful to humanity than the work done by any other woman of her time.

Mrs. Gilman's book, "Woman and Economics," placed her definitely as a great intellectual thinker, thorough along economic and sociological lines. This book has been translated into German, Dutch, Hungarian, Italian, Russian, French and Japanese and is used as a text book in many schools and colleges. In 1899 in London, in Berlin in 1904 and in Budapest in 1913 at the International Congresses of Women, Mrs. Gilman was hailed as the greatest living English and foremost woman of her time.

Mrs. Gilman will speak on "War and the World Hope" on Saturday evening, March 27, at the Y. M. C. A. auditorium.

FRATERNAL NOTES

National Director Does Great Work for the Moose.

Closes Duties Here.

Edgar Easter, director for Oregon of the organization department of the Moose, will close his work here April 7, and take up a new field in Minneapolis, Minnesota. During his stay in Oregon, since last July he and his assistants have organized four new lodges and secured not less than 2200 members, nearly half of them for the Portland lodge, No. 291. "Pap" Easter is 34 years of age, a native of Pennsylvania, and a graduate of the Dickinson School of Law, of Carlisle, in that state. He has been four years an active upholder of Moosedom and has made many friends throughout Oregon, Washington, British Columbia, Idaho and Montana, while engaged in this fraternal work. His capture marks the end of a low relation fee in Portland lodge, which hereafter will be $25, the regular rate, instead of $5, the special rate. It is expected that a very large class of applicants will be on hand next Wednesday evening.

New Chapter Planned.

A new chapter of the Order of the Eastern Star will be instituted Saturday evening, March 27, at Redmond, Crook county, by Mrs. Nellie McGowan, grand matron, and C. H. McGirr, grand patron. They will be aided by the members of Prineville chapter, who will put on the work and arrange the details.

The grand matron is now visiting local chapters in eastern Oregon, and is closing her tour of the state, expecting to be in Portland the first week in April on her return to her home in Medford.

Silver Trophy Is Prize.

The whirlwind membership campaign of the Knights and Ladies of Security in Portland is on in earnest during the month of March. The cup is an exhibition in the windows of the Meier & Frank annex at Fifth and Alder streets.

Anchor council will hold an open meeting in Foresters' hall, 129 Fourth street, Wednesday evening, March 24, TRouble Not Settled.

Carpenters of Stockton, California, have not been successful in settling the labor troubles of that city are not yet settled, and that 120 members there are still drawing strike benefits and have not worked for eight months.

Accused of Playing Politics.

C. H. Kelley, secretary of the Barbers' union at the Central Labor Council last Friday, told the delegates that they were "playing politics like a lot of school boys and deserved to be spanked unless they took matters seriously and worked together in a unit."

CUPID AGAIN IS VICTORIOUS

Dr. Henry Waldo Coe to Wed Los Angeles Girl on March 25.

Dr. Henry Waldo Coe will leave today for Los Angeles where he will be married March 25 to Miss Elsie Ara Waggoner. Dr. Coe is a well known professional man and his engagement comes as a great surprise to his many friends. He obtained a divorce a year ago from Dr. Viola May Coe, a prominent suffrage worker of Portland. Dr. Coe has three sons, George, Wayne and Earl Coe. Wayne will accompany his father south.

The bride-to-be is residing with her sister, Miss Bessie Waggoner, at their home in Hollywood, near Los Angeles. Bessie Waggoner is superintendent of the department of art in the public schools of Los Angeles.

Miss Elsie Waggoner is a clever and interesting girl and a University of Minnesota graduate. She is secretary of the College Women's club of Los Angeles.

The wedding will be a simple affair at the home of the bride-elect. Dr. Coe has planned a wedding trip by motor to Santa Barbara and San Francisco where, after visiting the exposition they will sail for Honolulu. On their return they will make their home at the Portland Hotel.

Back in the beginning of his career, when Dr. Coe was in the legislature at Bismark, North Dakota, fighting for the Open Wheat Market bill, and on the eve of the victory for the measure, which was a great boon to the farmers of the surrounding country, he can recall a girl in a white dress who sat among the spectators and applauded his speech. That was just an incident of a happy occasion and a picture which stayed with him for many years. Again, when he went to Dakota, in 1894, had less than a thousand members, followed by card playing and refreshments.

The drill teams are also to contest for a silver loving cup on the evening of April 26, at W. O. W. hall, east Sixth and East Alder, also on exhibition at Meier & Frank's window, Fifth and Alder.

Fluffy Hair Takes Years From Your Age

Soft, fluffy hair, becomingly arranged makes any woman look her best because it softens the outlines of the face and every woman can have dainty, fluffy, healthy hair if she will take the trouble to always shampoo her hair properly. In washing the hair it is not advisable to use a makeshift, but always use a preparation made for shampooing only. You can enjoy the best that is known for about three cents a shampoo by getting a package of canthox from your druggist; dissolve a teaspoonful in a cup of hot water and your shampoo is ready. After its use the hair dries rapidly, without uniform color. Dandruff, excess oil and dirt are dissolved and entirely disappear. Your hair will be so fluffy that it will look much heavier than it is. Its lustre and softness will also delight you, while the stimulated scalp gains the health which insures hair growth. (Adv.)

Since the completion of the big hippodrome last fall, every morning the maids and younger matrons of society have applied themselves studiously to becoming really good skaters. Many now have the real free poetry of motion when swinging over the smooth surface and there is no longer that anxious expectancy that at first marked furrows in the brows of most of the women on the ice. The professional players left their sticks lying about one day a few weeks ago, in an absent-minded moment, and immediately a group of girls caught them up and started to shoot the "puck" about the rink. Groups formed into teams after a few days until three women's teams were organized. The men shook their heads and said: "They will break their necks," but still the women play and have no end of fun out of it. The popularity of the sport grew so fast that it was a scramble between the three teams as to which should get to the rink first and play. The debutante girls, the debutantes and younger matrons have grouped together to form the different teams, so finally days were set for each to practice and women's ice hockey might be said to have arrived. Friday afternoon of last week a friendly match game was played, in which the younger girls won.
