

WIDESPREAD INTEREST IN THE CELILO CANAL CELEBRATION SHOW

Prominent Men From All Parts of Northwest Intend to Be Present at Opening.

VINCENT ASTOR INVITED

President of Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Says Railroads Can Well Wish Undertaking Success.

The Dalles-Celilo celebration committee is receiving letters that indicate wide interest in the completion of the Celilo canal and its dedication to commerce May 5.

Any project of this kind which tends toward the development of this north-west country is to be welcomed by all, and the railroads serving this territory can well afford to wish such an undertaking success, notwithstanding any temporary loss which they may possibly suffer.

Governor Lister of Washington has notified the committee that not only will he be present, but he will appoint a committee of prominent citizens to cooperate in representing the state of Washington at the celebration.

Astor is invited. Vincent Astor and party, who are visiting Pacific coast points and are now attending the Panama-Pacific exposition, were telegraphed yesterday an invitation to attend the celebration.

Colonel George S. Young writes that he will be glad to be present in person to help furnish music for the celebration at The Dalles, Big Eddy and Vancouver, providing transportation be arranged.

United States senators who have either telegraphed or written their intention of being present are: Key Pittman of Nevada, William E. Borah and James H. Brady of Idaho, Wesley L. Jones and Miles Ponder of Washington, George E. Chamberlain and Harry Lane of Oregon, Congressman Addison T. Smith of Idaho, William E. Humphrey of Washington, Willis C. Hawley, C. N. McArthur and N. J. Sinnott of Oregon. Those who have stated that they are arranging to come if possible are: Senator T. J.

Many Ex-Convicts Turn Over New Leaf When Helped by Prisoners' Aid Society

Organization Needs Cooperation of Greater Number of Citizens, Says Superintendent in Annual Report; Instances of Reforms Accomplished Are Given.

In helping men as they leave the gates of prison to gain a new foothold in the industrial world, the Oregon Prisoners' Aid society needs the cooperation of a greater number of citizens to accomplish the work at hand, according to the report of Superintendent W. G. MacLaren, submitted at the annual meeting of the society.

During 1914 the society looked after 125 state prisoners during parole period. Of these 22 broke the provisions of their parole, 21 failed to report, and 26 returned to their homes and families. 167 city and county prisoners were temporarily aided. 42 prisoners' families were cared for, five husbands and wives were reunited, 70 permanent positions were received for released prisoners, 232 odd jobs were obtained for them, besides much other assistance.

Superintendent MacLaren cited many cases where the released convicts, by being given a little help at the time when they most needed it, have "made good" and now are engaged in business or steady employment. "First comes to mind the case of a boy here in Portland," said Mr. MacLaren. "He was convicted of a felony when 17 years old and sent to the penitentiary. After nearly two years he was paroled, during the next three years he worked at his trade here in town and was so successful in 'making good' in every way that he married an estimable young woman two years ago and is still prospering with not the slightest danger of his ever returning to devious ways.

"Quite different in the case of a man who held a well paid position in the abstract business. At 55 years of age he committed forgery while under the influence of liquor. He was paroled after a year's imprisonment. At his age and with a record of indiscreet indulgence in liquor behind him, he had a fierce battle to force reentrance into decent society and the industrial world. But he persisted with patience and courage, mastered his appetite for drink and today owns an abstract business of his own in a town in a neighboring state and is fairly on the road to industrial independence.

"A bright young chap of 26 with expensive tastes, became financially involved through living beyond his means. He committed forgery and fled the city. Later he returned and surrendered to the authorities, pleaded guilty to his crime in court and went to prison. After six years he was paroled to our society, his old employer whose name he had forged, took him back to work, he paid off the indebtedness incurred by the spurious check in addition to the six years he had paid society through the state, and remained in that position until another place carrying a higher salary was offered him. He is a bookkeeper and is now engaged in very responsible public auditing in one of our sister states.

"I think the point which is best considered and remembered is that it is improbable these men, and the others like them, could have crushed down their past and confidently begun a new career were it not for the assistance which societies such as ours are privileged to render, and the sympathetic attitude of those who, like yourself, are willing to give sincere effort at redemption a helping hand at the roughest stage of the journey."

Walsh of Montana and Senator James A. Reed of Missouri. Governor Withycombe of Oregon, Governor Lister of Washington and Governor Alexander of Idaho will be present.

Prominent Men Coming. Major J. E. Withrow and State Senator A. H. Imus of Kalama, Wash., have notified General Secretary Wallace R. Struble of the celebration committee that nearby towns will join with them in the celebration at Kalama.

George W. Sanborn raised $250 in 2 1/2 minutes yesterday to aid entertainment of delegates to the Columbia and Snake rivers waterways convention, which will meet at Astoria, climaxing the Celilo celebration trip from Lewiston to Astoria, the week of May 3-8. Astorians will go to Lewiston by rail, returning by boat.

Great Falls, Mont., Commercial club will be represented at the celebration, according to a letter from A. J. Breitenstein, secretary. A young lady from Great Falls will be in the Mt. St. Helens river water to mingle with the waters of the Columbia at the Big Eddy program.

Notice was received this morning that Miss Alma Moore had been appointed to represent Lyle, Wash., at the Big Eddy celebration. She will take a bottle of Klitkatit river water to break in connection with the ceremonies dedicating the Celilo canal.

Verdict for $7500 Damages. The second trial of the $30,000 damage suit of Charles A. Chadwick against the O-W, R. & N. Co., resulted yesterday in a $7500 verdict for Chadwick. In Judge Kavanaugh's court, Chadwick was awarded $5000 damages in a trial last year, and on appeal, the judgment was reversed and sent back for a new trial. Chadwick was injured in a collision between engines at Perry, Or. He was employed by the company as a switch engineer. The accident occurred August 20, 1912.

During the four years ending with 1913, Oregon's fruit crop brought to the state $7,183,270.

J. N. TEAL WILL STATE PORTLAND'S POSITION AS JOBBING CENTER

Case of Tremendous Importance Comes Up at Washington Next Monday.

NEW RATES ARE SOUGHT

F. W. Robinson, Assistant Traffic Manager of O-W, R. & N., Will Represent Carriers.

One of the biggest railroad rate problems ever threshed out in this country is staged for next Monday at Washington before the interstate commerce commission. It involves the fight of the railroads to regain practical control through the influence of the Panama canal by the establishment of the new principle of building up interior cities as jobbing centers where formerly they championed the coast cities.

Joseph N. Teal started for Washington Tuesday to participate in this hearing. What his position will be was not announced, but as counsel for the Chamber of Commerce he received no instructions as to procedure. It is supposed he will assert merely that Portland still holds claim to being the jobbing center of this territory because of her geographical position, and that no artificial rearrangement of rates can upset it.

The railroads are seeking to have the commission authorize lower rates to certain interior points on commodities moving chiefly by water. During the litigation over the Spokane rate case, the opposite view was held by the roads, which resisted Spokane's effort to secure the concessions.

One competitive factor against the application of the rail lines with reference to the northwestern situation is expected from the fact that the proposed rates from Portland to Spokane are lower than those from Butte and other Montana points to Spokane. Montana is expected to intervene.

F. W. Robinson, assistant traffic manager of the O-W, R. & N., has gone to Washington to handle the railroads' side of the controversy. Other traffic men from the eastern offices of the other lines will be in attendance.

John Shipley Dies In Ocean Park, Wn.

John J. Shipley, deputy under County Assessor Henry E. Reed until February 1 of this year, died yesterday at Ocean Park, Wash., to which place he went some time ago on account of his health. Mrs. Shipley was with him when he passed away. The news was received here by the son, Ben W. Shipley, deputy in the assessor's office, and the daughter, Mrs. Harry J. Stroubridge.

Mr. Shipley had been ill since December. He was born in Ohio in 1850 and came to Portland 40 years ago. He operated a sawmill at Dayton, Or., till 1887, when he came to Portland and entered the commission business on Front street. He retired and was associated with the internal revenue service until appointed assistant postmaster under John W. Minto. In 1901, he was member of the house of representatives. He was a prominent Republican, and a son-in-law of Captain W. S. Powell, who settled in Oregon in 1847. Funeral arrangements have not yet been made.

Emergency Money Situation Reviewed

Only $12,000,000 of Sum Authorized Last Year Remains, Says Cashier of Local Bank.

circulation, according to advices received today by Edgar H. Sensesch, cashier of the Northwestern National bank. This comparatively meager total is what is left of the $384,452,025 issued.

Of the amount authorized, the maximum actually in circulation was $368,316,990, which was on October 25. That all this has been retired except for the trifling balance, Mr. Sensesch declared, is a remarkable indication of this country's ability to absorb its obligations.

That even this small balance will be wiped out within the next few weeks, is the belief in financial circles.

To Pay for Stolen Articles. Pleading guilty to the theft of tools from Circuit Judge Gatens' automobile, and the attempted theft of a tire from the rear of an automobile, Hal Hill, timekeeper for the Warren Construction company, was fined $75 in the municipal court yesterday, and Judge Stevenson gave him time to pay the fine in installments.
