

HIS CONSCIENCE GUIDED T. R. IN ALL HIS DEALS

He Says He Worked With "Easy Boss" Platt and the Others Only Insofar as It Told Him He Was Right.

HE USED PLATT TO GET NEEDED LEGISLATION

Colonel Completes His Session as a Witness in the Barnes Libel Suit.

Syracuse, N. Y., April 28.—(U. P.)—Evidently relishing the opportunity to admit he had declared that William Barnes Jr. was a "menace," and that he should be in the same party with "Chief" Murphy of Tammany Hall, Colonel Roosevelt completed his "deal of undergoing cross-examination in the trial of Barnes' $50,000 libel suit here today.

Attorney Ivins of counsel for Barnes brought his questioning of the former president to a close at 10:50, after Roosevelt had for an hour and a half been testifying, which he appeared to enjoy thoroughly. He was again in high spirits. Relieved of the restraining influence of having to listen to the reading of lengthy letters, he plunged into the case and fairly ran away with the lawyers.

Roosevelt emphatically admitted that he had delivered a speech in 1914 in which he said Barnes was a "menace." When the speech was read to him, he also admitted that he had declared that Barnes and Murphy ought to be in the same party and appeared to take extreme delight in admitting his attacks in the last gubernatorial campaign when he made charges of a Barnes-Murphy coalition in the New York legislature.

Colonel Reads Speech. Once while Ivins was quoting various passages from one of the colonel's speeches, he took the copy from the attorney's hand and read it himself with true platform oratory.

Ivins declared that the colonel had exaggerated the libel alleged by Barnes by repeating the charges after the present suit had been filed. At this Roosevelt smiled broadly.

On occasion when his counsel objected to the reading of certain speeches, the colonel caught their eyes and voluntarily pantomimed "Let me answer." Then he was plunged into his reply before they could signal in the affirmative or negative. He often snapped out his answers before his lawyers could make an objection.

This was the seventh day of Roosevelt's session on the libel suit, but several days more testimony from him appeared certain, as his attorneys have the red-direct examination yet to take and Barnes' lawyers will take him again for further questioning.

Roosevelt Is Acrobatic. It was Roosevelt's most tempestuous, not only during the time of his cross-examination, but when the red-direct questioning was taken up. So energetic did his gesticulations become that Attorney Ivins protested, but was overruled by the court and the colonel slapped his thigh, drove his fist into the palm of his hand and otherwise emphasized his remarks to his heart's content.

On redirect examination the colonel explained in detail the contributions to his campaign of 1904 and his relations with the late Senator Platt. He said he worked with the "easy boss" only so far as his conscience permitted, and to the contributions he declared he was mistaken in testifying that they were $3,000,000. George E. Cortelyou, Roosevelt's secretary, told him the contributions totaled only $1,800,000.

There were constant bitter clashes between opposing counsel, but the colonel proceeded, but nothing could stop him. He was full of fire, snap and vim. As he smashed his fist into the palm of his hand in emphasizing his explanation of his relations with Platt, Ivins jumped to his feet. The attorney protested vigorously and finally was allowed to prevent him from making such gesticulations.

"I shall not attempt to regulate the ordinary manner of my witness, even as to his gesticulation," Justice Andrews replied.

Found Platt Valuable. Roosevelt then slammed his hands down and launched into the details of his dealings with Platt.

"On certain points, because of his wide knowledge, I found Platt's advice of the greatest value," said the colonel. "I consulted him on all matters of great importance during my administration as governor. My purpose was partly to gain the advantage of his experience, but largely to avoid a break with the organization, and at the same time to do what the interests of the state demanded.

"My purpose in not breaking with the organization was to avoid disrupting the Republican party so long as it could honorably prevent it, and also to get the affirmative right down at Albany.

"It was convinced that the organization controlled the senate, and that, if I wanted action, I should go where the real power was—to Platt—and must consult him if I wished affirmative action. I was not content to have merely a negative administration."

Resuming his comment on the Platt letters this afternoon, Colonel Roosevelt said: "Platt told me that big corporations whose directors were morally bound to look after the interests of their stockholders, especially widows and orphans, contributed to both parties, that it was a matter of self defense—no coercion.

"They looked to conservative men for protection against fanatics. I don't know that he used the word fanatics—but he said protection against dishonorable men. I wished affirmative action. I was not content to have merely a negative administration."

Resuming his comment on the Platt letters this afternoon, Colonel Roosevelt said: "Platt told me that big corporations whose directors were morally bound to look after the interests of their stockholders, especially widows and orphans, contributed to both parties, that it was a matter of self defense—no coercion.

"They looked to conservative men for protection against fanatics. I don't know that he used the word fanatics—but he said protection against dishonorable men. I wished affirmative action. I was not content to have merely a negative administration."

"They looked to conservative men for protection against fanatics. I don't know that he used the word fanatics—but he said protection against dishonorable men. I wished affirmative action. I was not content to have merely a negative administration."

Peace Congress Picks Miss Addams as Its Chairman

Chicago Woman Will Preside Permanently Over Sessions at The Hague.

The Hague, April 28.—(U. P.)—Miss Jane Addams of Chicago was today unanimously selected as permanent chairman of the International Congress of Women convening here in the interests of peace.

The selection of Miss Addams was regarded as a distinct tribute to the neutrality of the United States in the European conflict. The entire proceedings of the congress today reflected the hope that some method may be devised to bring the women of the various nations together with plans that will make war impossible in the future.

Miss Addams deferred making her opening address until tonight. She expressed thanks for the honor shown her, saying that the women of neutral countries brought sympathy and understanding for the suffering women of the belligerent nations.

Nine hundred delegates, including 60 American women, were present when the congress opened today.

Miss Rosika Schwimmer delivered a spirited speech before the congress, urging that the women work for justice. She plans to support a resolution for an immediate truce among all belligerents. It is her plan to send a delegation of women, each headed by an American, to the capitals of all warring nations to urge peace.

Attorney Ivins of counsel for Barnes brought his questioning of the former president to a close at 10:50, after Roosevelt had for an hour and a half been testifying, which he appeared to enjoy thoroughly. He was again in high spirits. Relieved of the restraining influence of having to listen to the reading of lengthy letters, he plunged into the case and fairly ran away with the lawyers.

Roosevelt emphatically admitted that he had delivered a speech in 1914 in which he said Barnes was a "menace." When the speech was read to him, he also admitted that he had declared that Barnes and Murphy ought to be in the same party and appeared to take extreme delight in admitting his attacks in the last gubernatorial campaign when he made charges of a Barnes-Murphy coalition in the New York legislature.

Colonel Reads Speech. Once while Ivins was quoting various passages from one of the colonel's speeches, he took the copy from the attorney's hand and read it himself with true platform oratory.

Ivins declared that the colonel had exaggerated the libel alleged by Barnes by repeating the charges after the present suit had been filed. At this Roosevelt smiled broadly.

On occasion when his counsel objected to the reading of certain speeches, the colonel caught their eyes and voluntarily pantomimed "Let me answer." Then he was plunged into his reply before they could signal in the affirmative or negative. He often snapped out his answers before his lawyers could make an objection.

This was the seventh day of Roosevelt's session on the libel suit, but several days more testimony from him appeared certain, as his attorneys have the red-direct examination yet to take and Barnes' lawyers will take him again for further questioning.

Roosevelt Is Acrobatic. It was Roosevelt's most tempestuous, not only during the time of his cross-examination, but when the red-direct questioning was taken up. So energetic did his gesticulations become that Attorney Ivins protested, but was overruled by the court and the colonel slapped his thigh, drove his fist into the palm of his hand and otherwise emphasized his remarks to his heart's content.

On redirect examination the colonel explained in detail the contributions to his campaign of 1904 and his relations with the late Senator Platt. He said he worked with the "easy boss" only so far as his conscience permitted, and to the contributions he declared he was mistaken in testifying that they were $3,000,000. George E. Cortelyou, Roosevelt's secretary, told him the contributions totaled only $1,800,000.

There were constant bitter clashes between opposing counsel, but the colonel proceeded, but nothing could stop him. He was full of fire, snap and vim. As he smashed his fist into the palm of his hand in emphasizing his explanation of his relations with Platt, Ivins jumped to his feet. The attorney protested vigorously and finally was allowed to prevent him from making such gesticulations.

"I shall not attempt to regulate the ordinary manner of my witness, even as to his gesticulation," Justice Andrews replied.

Found Platt Valuable. Roosevelt then slammed his hands down and launched into the details of his dealings with Platt.

"On certain points, because of his wide knowledge, I found Platt's advice of the greatest value," said the colonel. "I consulted him on all matters of great importance during my administration as governor. My purpose was partly to gain the advantage of his experience, but largely to avoid a break with the organization, and at the same time to do what the interests of the state demanded.

"My purpose in not breaking with the organization was to avoid disrupting the Republican party so long as it could honorably prevent it, and also to get the affirmative right down at Albany.

"It was convinced that the organization controlled the senate, and that, if I wanted action, I should go where the real power was—to Platt—and must consult him if I wished affirmative action. I was not content to have merely a negative administration."

Resuming his comment on the Platt letters this afternoon, Colonel Roosevelt said: "Platt told me that big corporations whose directors were morally bound to look after the interests of their stockholders, especially widows and orphans, contributed to both parties, that it was a matter of self defense—no coercion.

"They looked to conservative men for protection against fanatics. I don't know that he used the word fanatics—but he said protection against dishonorable men. I wished affirmative action. I was not content to have merely a negative administration."

Resuming his comment on the Platt letters this afternoon, Colonel Roosevelt said: "Platt told me that big corporations whose directors were morally bound to look after the interests of their stockholders, especially widows and orphans, contributed to both parties, that it was a matter of self defense—no coercion.

"They looked to conservative men for protection against fanatics. I don't know that he used the word fanatics—but he said protection against dishonorable men. I wished affirmative action. I was not content to have merely a negative administration."

Resuming his comment on the Platt letters this afternoon, Colonel Roosevelt said: "Platt told me that big corporations whose directors were morally bound to look after the interests of their stockholders, especially widows and orphans, contributed to both parties, that it was a matter of self defense—no coercion.

"They looked to conservative men for protection against fanatics. I don't know that he used the word fanatics—but he said protection against dishonorable men. I wished affirmative action. I was not content to have merely a negative administration."

Resuming his comment on the Platt letters this afternoon, Colonel Roosevelt said: "Platt told me that big corporations whose directors were morally bound to look after the interests of their stockholders, especially widows and orphans, contributed to both parties, that it was a matter of self defense—no coercion.

"They looked to conservative men for protection against fanatics. I don't know that he used the word fanatics—but he said protection against dishonorable men. I wished affirmative action. I was not content to have merely a negative administration."

FRENCH HURRY 200,000 MORE MEN TO FRONT

All Train Service North of Paris Stopped to Permit Sending of Reinforcements to Neighborhood of Ypres.

GERMAN OFFENSIVE IS EVIDENTLY NOT OVER

British Announce Capture of Het Sas but Correspondents Are Pessimistic.

Italy Begins Inquiry. Rome, April 28.—(I. N. S.)—Whether the submarine attack against the French cruiser Leon Gambetta, which resulted in the sinking of the big warship, occurred in Italian waters and Italian neutrality thereby violated, will be determined by an official inquiry started here today.

Paris, April 28.—(I. N. S.)—Two hundred thousand fresh French troops were rushed to west Flanders and northern France today to reinforce the lines there. Some were massed between Ypres and Dixmude, where the full force of the German drive was felt, while others were strengthening the British lines on the Armentieres front.

All train service to the north of Paris was given over today to the movement of troops. Even hospital trains were sidetracked to give the general right of way. This was generally accepted as meaning that despite the official claims of the war office, the Teuton rush on Calais had been checked, another German offensive is expected.

French troops operating on the east slopes of the Meuse have advanced their lines more than a half mile. The allies also continue on the offensive in the Woerfe district, where the fighting continued today with unabated fury. The main attacks of the French were launched along the front extending.

Cables Holding F-4 Part During Storm. Washington, D. C., April 28.—(I. N. S.)—All but one of the cables attached to the sunken submarine F-4 parted during a storm off Honolulu.

Price Is Put on Huerta. Laredo, Texas, April 28.—(U. P.)—Carranzista leaders at Nuevo Laredo announced today that they would pay $25,000 for Victoriano Huerta, dead or alive. The former Mexican dictator is at present in New York.

Wife of Aqueduct Builder Dies. Los Angeles, April 28.—(U. P.)—Mrs. William Mulholland, wife of the builder of the Los Angeles aqueduct, died today, after a long illness.

All Quiet Along Austrian Front. Russians Suspend Attack in Ussok Pass Region and Eastward Because of Heavy Losses, Says Vienna Report.

Vienna, Va. Wireless to Sayville, I. L., April 28.—(U. P.)—A general lull throughout the Austrian front was reported by the war office today.

"On the whole front no important developments are reported," the statement asserts. "In several sections there has been heavy artillery exchanges but no troop movements. In the Carpathians, the Russians have suspended their attacks in the Ussok region and eastward, having suffered severe losses."

Bombs Snuff Out Lives of 6 Civilians. Amsterdam, April 28.—On Thursday a plane, coming from the west, dropped four bombs on Oberhorn, a town in Wurtemberg. All the missiles landed upon an arms factory. Machine guns fired at the airman, but he escaped. Six civilians were killed and several wounded. The material damage done was insignificant, work in the factory proceeding without interruption.

FRENCH CRUISER LEON GAMBETTA SUNK BY TORPEDO. Built in 1901. Length, 476 feet; displacement, 12,416 tons; complement, 725 men; four 7-inch, 16 3-inch, 24 3-pound guns; speed, 23 knots; cost, nearly $6,000,000.

DRAWING AT CITY HALL DETERMINES ORDER OF CANDIDATES' NAMES ON CITY BALLOT

From left to right—Dr. George Parrish, Roy W. Kest for George L. Baker; George W. Caldwell, C. H. Tribe for C. V. Cooper; William Adams and Monroe Goldstein.

BIG FRENCH CRUISER IS SUNK BY AUSTRIAN DIVER OFF OTRANTO

Leon Gambetta, After Being Attacked, Tries to Make Port; Most of Crew Saved.

Rome, April 28.—(U. P.)—Attacked by an Austrian submarine assisted by a torpedo boat, the French cruiser Leon Gambetta sank off the Italian port of Otranto, after an attempt had been made to beach the stricken warship.

Dispatches received today brought the first details of the sinking of the Leon Gambetta and stated that a majority of the crew was saved and landed on the rocks near the Santa Maria Leucas light.

Early reports here made no mention of the torpedo boat which accompanied the submarine in the raid into Adriatic waters, but it is now presumed that the destroyer came from Pola to assist in the attack. The torpedo boat it is understood, was also destroyed.

After being hit the Leon Gambetta endeavored to make for the Italian shore, where she could be beached. Off the lighthouse, however, the cruiser lurched to starboard, turned completely over and sank. The survivors of the crew are being cared for at Otranto.

The cruiser was a sister ship of the Victor Hugo and the Jules Ferry. She registered 12,452 tons, and was completed at Brast in October, 1901. She carried a crew of 725 men. The vessel was 476 feet long, and had a speed of 23 knots. Her armament consisted of four 7.6 inch guns, sixteen 4.5 inch, twenty-four 3 pounders and two submerged torpedo tubes.

The number of prisoners taken by the Turks, said the statement, "has been increased to 1000."

"A large force of Ottomans is advancing on Gabi Tepch, where the British are entrenched.

"The operations conducted by the allied fleet against the forts of the Dardanelles so far are favorable to us."

British Claim Success. London, April 28.—(U. P.)—Despite claims of success by the Turks, the allied attack upon the fortifications of the Dardanelles now developing along new lines, with troops participating, is believed to be making favorable progress today.

The fighting is steadily increasing in violence as French and British troops press forward in the land operations, while the warships maintained a constant bombardment of the forts at long range as well as inside the strait.

The admiralty made no comment today on the claim of the official statement from Constantinople that one torpedo boat was sunk and a second seriously damaged during yesterday's attack.

Against the Turkish claim of having repulsed the French landed on the Asiatic side of the Dardanelles entrance, a Paris statement brought assurance that the valley of Fort Kum Kaleh had been occupied and that all operations continued with success.

RUSSIAN EXPEDITION WILL AID IN ATTACK ON TURKISH CAPITAL

Czar Reviews Troops Concentrated at Odessa Who Are to Invade Turkey.

Petrograd, April 28.—(I. N. S.)—Russian expeditionary forces will aid the British and French allies in the campaign against Constantinople.

Troops are being concentrated at Odessa, from which point they will be taken to the eastern coast of Turkey to effect a landing under the protection of the Russian fleet in the Black sea.

Czar Nicholas arrived in Odessa today to review the troops before their departure, which will occur, it is believed, within a few days. Transports and auxiliary steamers have been assembled already.

The recent bombardment of the Bosphorus is explained here as a move to prevent the egress of the Turkish fleet into the Black sea and thereby endanger the landing of the expeditionary forces.

The sultan's warships have been backed up toward Constantinople, and with a large fleet of Russian torpedo boats off the straits ready to attack should they venture to emerge again, the admiralty here declared the Turks are effectually bottled up.

Allies' Battleships Damaged. Constantinople, April 28.—(I. N. S.)—Via Berlin and Amsterdam—Partial destruction of two battleships of the Anglo-French fleet engaged in the attack on the fortifications of the Dardanelles was claimed in a statement issued today from the Turkish war office.

It was also declared that the Gallipoli peninsula has been cleared of the British force which had there except at one point where the English maintained their position because of the protection given by the fleet's fire.

"The number of prisoners taken by the Turks," said the statement, "has been increased to 1000."

"A large force of Ottomans is advancing on Gabi Tepch, where the British are entrenched.

"The operations conducted by the allied fleet against the forts of the Dardanelles so far are favorable to us."

British Claim Success. London, April 28.—(U. P.)—Despite claims of success by the Turks, the allied attack upon the fortifications of the Dardanelles now developing along new lines, with troops participating, is believed to be making favorable progress today.

The fighting is steadily increasing in violence as French and British troops press forward in the land operations, while the warships maintained a constant bombardment of the forts at long range as well as inside the strait.

The admiralty made no comment today on the claim of the official statement from Constantinople that one torpedo boat was sunk and a second seriously damaged during yesterday's attack.

Against the Turkish claim of having repulsed the French landed on the Asiatic side of the Dardanelles entrance, a Paris statement brought assurance that the valley of Fort Kum Kaleh had been occupied and that all operations continued with success.

THOS. SCOTT BROOKE LEAPS TO DEATH IN FIT OF DESPONDENCY

Financial Worries Caused Prominent Property Owner to Fear Insanity.

George L. Baker wins. His name will head the list of candidates on the official ballot for the city election to be held next June.

The representative of the lucky candidate for commissioner drew lots for the coveted position in competition with a small bevy of other candidates or their representatives at the office of City Engineer Barbur at the city hall this morning.

Mr. Baker's representative was Roy W. Kest.

The name of C. V. Cooper will be second, as C. H. Tribe representing him, pulled No. 2; George W. Caldwell pulled No. 3; William Adams, No. 4, and Dr. George Parrish, No. 5. These were the only candidates who took part in the drawing, although Monroe Goldstein was the first to file for the position of auditor. No drawing was held in this case, however, as A. L. Barbur, the other candidate for the position, was not present to file his petitions.

Superintendent Simmons of the city hall had orders not to open the door until 8 o'clock, and he obeyed orders to the letter.

Exactly on the second, Superintendent Simmons opened the door, and was almost immediately assailed by the crowd of candidates swarming into the room. Each man made a rush for the counter to get his petitions filed first.

(Concluded on Page Five, Column Two)

BAKER WINS FIRST PLACE UPON BALLOT FOR JUNE ELECTION

George L. Baker wins. His name will head the list of candidates on the official ballot for the city election to be held next June.

The representative of the lucky candidate for commissioner drew lots for the coveted position in competition with a small bevy of other candidates or their representatives at the office of City Engineer Barbur at the city hall this morning.

Mr. Baker's representative was Roy W. Kest.

The name of C. V. Cooper will be second, as C. H. Tribe representing him, pulled No. 2; George W. Caldwell pulled No. 3; William Adams, No. 4, and Dr. George Parrish, No. 5. These were the only candidates who took part in the drawing, although Monroe Goldstein was the first to file for the position of auditor. No drawing was held in this case, however, as A. L. Barbur, the other candidate for the position, was not present to file his petitions.

Superintendent Simmons of the city hall had orders not to open the door until 8 o'clock, and he obeyed orders to the letter.

Exactly on the second, Superintendent Simmons opened the door, and was almost immediately assailed by the crowd of candidates swarming into the room. Each man made a rush for the counter to get his petitions filed first.

(Concluded on Page Five, Column Two)

LOSS IS $600,000 IN ST. PAUL BLAZE

Entire Block Burns From Fire Starting in Library Building; 17 Firemen Hurt, One Probably Fatally.

St. Paul, Minn., April 28.—(U. P.)—The block in the business district bounded by Seventh, Eighth, Wabash and St. Peter streets is in ruins to almost a depth of 100 feet. The damage is estimated at $600,000. Early today, although the fire was still burning, it had been controlled.

The blaze started at 9 p. m. in the Library building and spread with amazing rapidity. Within half an hour a great piece of fire apparatus in St. Paul and Minneapolis that could be spared had been sent to the scene.

The Gaiety theatre was directly in the zone of danger but the crowd left the playhouse in an orderly manner as soon as the management had announced the fire. Twelve business houses are in ruins.

Worried over financial difficulties and haunted by a fear that he might be losing his mind, Thomas Scott Brooke ended his life last night by tumbling from a second story window at his home, 722 Flanders street. He fell at 5:30 o'clock and died at 8:15 at the Good Samaritan hospital.

One of Portland's foremost realty dealers, capitalist and clubman, Mr. Brooke's tragic end came as a great shock and surprise to his host of friends. That he was in a serious mental condition was known to his intimate associates, but they did not expect his despondency to take such a turn.

He was depressed over the financial load he was carrying, as much of his property, estimated at $1,000,000, was non-income bearing, and he saw no opportunity to dispose of it except at a great sacrifice. He was associated in

(Concluded on Page Nine, Column Three)

CELLO CANAL THROUGH OPEN TO NAVIGATION

Steamers Inland Empire and J. N. Teal Pass Through New Waterway in Each Direction, Meeting in Basin

DREAM OF CENTURY BECOMES REALITY

Open River Spells Beginning of New Era of Progress and Development.

By Marshall N. Dana. Cello, Or., April 28.—The dream of a century came true today.

Navigation on the Columbia river was extended from the Pacific ocean 500 miles into the inland empire of Idaho, eastern Washington and Oregon.

The Dalles-Cello canal, complete, was opened to passage by boats of commerce.

A boat of the upper river, the Inland Empire, came down for the first time into the lower river.

A steamer of the lower river, the J. N. Teal, for the first time in history, went above the rapids, the falls, and the falls of the Columbia.

In a passing basin of the Cello canal two boats met, the Inland Empire never met before. They had never passed before.

The J. N. Teal and the Inland Empire were built by the Open River Transportation company and originally operated as members of the Open River fleet.

The commerce developed by the company, the freight carried by the line, largely constituted to considerable extent the evidence demanded by congress in advance of appropriations to show that business and development and trade justified the effort to establish the canal.

(Concluded on Page Eleven, Column Five)

Black Bread for Germans Proposed

London Papers Suggest Interesting Millionaires of German Birth in England as Hostages.

London, April 28.—(I. N. S.)—In an editorial today the Morning Post demands that practical measures be taken to prevent the alleged mistreatment of British prisoners in Germany.

The newspaper suggests that the names of all Germans in the British empire and holding them and their property as hostages for the good treatment of British prisoners should be put behind barbed wire and on a diet of black bread, the same as our men have in Germany.

Experts to Confer On the Unemployed

Washington, April 28.—(U. P.)—Confidence was expressed at the department of labor today at the national conference called by Secretary of Labor William B. Wilson in San Francisco that the government will consider the New method of providing work for the unemployed as scheduled to be considered.

Capture Troop Train. Brownsville, Texas, April 28.—(I. N. S.)—Villistas attacked a Carter's troop train on the Matamoros-Monterrey railroad in the vicinity of Camargo today. New method of providing work for the unemployed as scheduled to be considered.

50 H. P. BOILER WHITE STEAMER. For Sale—Kosses—51. Especially attractive, new, modern bungalow, with bath, fireplace, built-in conveniences. Restricted locality. Will sell for $25 per month to responsible party.

For Rent—Kosses—15. $12—New 5 room cottage, white Dutch kitchen, fine lawn, roses, good locality. 10 feet north of Scott car. $525 525 st. cor. 59th ave.

Furnished Flats—50. "MODERN" well furnished 5 room flat, $25; references; phone after 6 p. m.

Automobiles—Accessories—44. "TYPE" passenger White steamer; good condition. $300; terms; good jitney car.

Automobiles Wanted—75. "I WANT to trade my Ocean View lot, 50x200, 5 blocks from ocean, fine sandy beach, fine fishing, for 2 Buicks, motor car in good condition."

For Sale—Miscellaneous—19. "DROP head White sewing machine, practically new, $15; bargain."

"FOR SALE—50 horsepower Russian built, 1910, 5 blocks from ocean, fine sandy beach, fine fishing, for 2 Buicks, motor car in good condition."

"ARCHITECT and carpenter work to exchange for dentistry."

Swap Columns—28