

What Society is Doing BY NONA LAWLER

MRS. JOHN A. KEATING was a charming hostess yesterday at her home on Portland Heights, when she entertained with an elaborately appointed tea for the pleasure of her house guests, Mr. Keating's mother and sister, Mrs. N. Keating, and Miss Sabel Keating, who arrived from their home at Muskegon, Mich., recently, to pass the summer in Portland. About 75 maid and matrons of smart society called during the afternoon and enjoyed a delightful time. The house was a bower of Cecil Brunner roses, combined with maidenhair fern and tall spoked clusters of pink snap dragons. On the veranda, which was used as a promenade were huge clusters of Scotch broom. Presiding at the tea table were: Mrs. H. C. Wortman, Mrs. Charles E. Curry, Mrs. P. J. Mann and Mrs. P. S. Malcolm. Ices were served from a prettily decked table in the solarium by Mrs. James B. Kerr and Mrs. F. P. Morey. Mrs. Louis Gerlinger was stationed at the punch bowl and was assisted by Miss Marjorie Forbia. Others assisting in the rooms were: Mrs. R. L. Heustis, Mrs. E. H. Matthews, Mrs. George Collins, Mrs. H. E. Noble, Miss Elizabeth Cradick, Miss Camille Dosh, Mrs. H. C. Kendall, Mrs. R. L. Donald and Mrs. R. J. Marsh.

May Dancing Party Planned.

St. Mary's Cathedral court of the Women's Catholic Order of Foresters is issuing invitations for an informal May party, to be given in the new cathedral hall, Seventeenth and Couch streets, Friday evening, May 14. This being their first dancing party, it is being looked forward to with much pleasure. The affair is in the hands of the officers: Miss Katherine Quinn, Miss Mary Frances McCarthy, Miss Marjorie MacKinnon and Miss Winifred Halston, assisted by John MacKinnon, Frank Elvers, John J. Kenny and Emmett Douglas. The patronesses will be: Mrs. B. A. Rivers, Mrs. E. H. Deery, Mrs. M. J. Driscoll, Mrs. T. S. Hogan, Mrs. P. Douglas and Mrs. C. Walker.

Shirtnwaist Party.

Thursday evening next, Marguerite camp, No. 1440, E. N. A., will entertain with a shirtnwaist dancing party, at W. O. W. Temple, 128 Eleventh street. This party concludes their enjoyable dancing parties for the season. The committee anticipates a good time for all who attend.

New Arrivals.

Mr. and Mrs. G. Walter Holcomb (Marjorie Hubbard) are being congratulated on the arrival of Miss Winifred, a baby daughter, who has been named Marjorie May.

Mr. and Mrs. William Louis Fiedler are being showered with congratulations upon the arrival yesterday, May 6, of a son, William Louis Jr.

Society Notes.

Alfred E. Lunt, formerly city attorney of Beverly, Mass., and his mother, Mrs. Harvey Lunt, who have been attending the expositions, visited in Portland the past week. Mrs. Lunt is an aunt of Attorney A. W. Parshey of this city.

Mrs. G. M. Altman, who is the guest of Mrs. Oscar Rittenberg, will leave Saturday evening for the east.

Among the Portlanders who motored to St. Helena on last Monday to hear the Music Festival under the leadership of Dr. Emil Enna of Portland, were Mr. and Mrs. John Clemson. Dr. and Mrs. Enna entertained his Portland friends at a dinner party at St. Helena hotel.

Mrs. William L. Morgan, Miss Lillian Morgan and Mrs. Harry Summers are at the Morgan cottage at Gearhart for a couple of weeks.

PERSONAL MENTION

MARIE TEMPEST AT HEILIG BREEZES INTO HEARTS OF AUDIENCE

Comedienne, Who Can Sing, Has Splendid Vehicle in "Marriage of Kitty."

Whether or no the last tariff bill took the duty off art put there by Joe Cannon, the kind of art that came to the Heilig last night from England passes all custom houses free, praise be! The only duty that is involved is to one's self, as the Drama leaguers might say, to see the best there is on the stage, whether dashing new stars or settled old planets.

Marie Tempest breezed right into the hearts of the audience last night, and set their hearts thumping with delight. She transcends her name. She's also sunshine, and music—the idea of a comedienne who really can sing! She can, and does, in the title role of "The Marriage of Kitty," which gives her an opportunity to show whence the reputation which she was wafted ahead of her from England to these sundown shores, as Judge Colvig calls the strip of high priced real estate known as the Pacific coast.

For Miss Tempest is English, the supporting company is English, and they all come from The Playhouse, London, where they had 300 nights of the present play. The play itself was French in the first place, but it has been done in Anglo-American about dimming its sparkle, by Como Gordon-Lennox, English husband of its leading woman.

The playing throughout is delightful, and affords an appreciated comparison between English and American pronunciation. There is little difference. "Temporarily" is shortened to "temp'rly" and "idea" becomes almost "idea." The vowels are softened, but this Anglo-English mode resembles the talk of the American business man than it does the dialect that comes from some of our down-east colleges.

There are three acts in Kitty's marital adventure. The plot gallops along merrily to the denouement, which is that Kitty elopes with her own husband. That's the outline. Fill it in with effervescent cleverness, acting buoyant and yet restrained, and plenty of fun not written in the lines, and you have "The Marriage of Kitty."

The entire cast is worthy to play with Miss Tempest. Minor parts are taken as they should be taken—by people entitled to share the applause given the star, and who earn it themselves. The play will be repeated tonight, with another comedy, "Nearly Married," tomorrow afternoon and evening.

Sunset Features of Mediocre Quality

The Sunset has not been especially fortunate in the selection of its big features, consequently honors on the program go to the two comedies. The newest one is a comic, "Axel and Floozy," featuring "Vic," the well known New York cartoonist. The children of an artist's brain come to life in a dream and help him out of his difficulties, but when he attempts the same tactics by daylight they do not work. A Keystone, "Love, Loot and Crash," runs to trained automobiles and high diving for most of its fun. The man who does the female impersonation is worthy of special mention. "The Victim," the majestic feature, with Mae Marsh and Robert Herron, has a very poorly worked out story. It is another theme of a man wrongly sent to prison, who escapes and makes good. "The Power of the Street" is a little, but not much better. It is a tale of Wall street.

Dr. Heber Clafin, 77, of Chicago, is a brother of Lady Tennessee Clafin Cook of London.
