OF FIRST CABIN LIST 338 LOST OF 391 TOTAL

Of the Lusitania's 601 Second Cabin Passengers Only 24 Known to Be Saved, With 5 More Probably So.

New York, May 8 .- (U. P.) -The known survivors among the cabin passengers of the Lusitania, according to latest figures, are as follows:

First cabin-Total passengers, 391. Known saved, 51. Others probably saved, 2. Unaccounted for, 338, Second cabin - Passongers, Known saved, 24. Others probably saved, 5. Unaccounted for, 572, Several names were cabled somewhat resembling those on the passenger list and were probably errors in transmission. In addition to the identified survivors, the names of 37 rescued not on the passenger list have been cabled. There were probably cable errors. The Cunard offices announced that First Officer Jones, Second Officer Lewis, the second and third engineers and 51 members of the Lusitania's crew were rescued. They were included in the total of 703 persons previously announced as having been saved. The Cunard company today issued the following list of Lusitania sur-

Among the surrivors are several frantic women on the verge of madness from the hor-ror of the affair. The survivors were unanimous in their praise of the coolness exhibited by Captain Turner. The Lusitania was hit by the tor-pedoes at 2:10 o'clock yesterday afteroon. There was no warning. Many of the passengers were at lunch when the great liner was shook by a jarring explosion from stem to stern. This was followed by a still greater shock and the great ocean greyhound keeled Scores were thrown from their feet. There was a crash as though the ship's boilers had exploded and then the vessel's interior was filled with flying wreckage, leaving scores of passengers wrecked by death and wounds. Then the ship caught fire Before the seriousness of the affair dawned even upon the officials of the ship, officers of the liner and seamen hurried about the various cabins assuring the passengers there was no need for alarm. The work of launching lifeboats from the undamaged side of the vessel was then commenced.

"S. O. S." calls were then sputtered by the wireless operators. Was Making 16 Enots. At first it was not realized by many that the ship had been torpedoed. Nominations for three more candidates for Rose Festival Queen were received at Rose Festival headquarters this morning, swelling the total number of contestants to 19.

These three latest candidates ar Miss Susie Scholes of 1185 East Couch street, nominated by Portland lodge No. 291, Loyal Order of Moose; Miss Tura Janes of 4209 Sixty-third street, southeast, sponsored by the Tribe of Ben Hur, and Miss Lillian Ward of 1690 East Sixteenth street north, put up by the International Union of team and Operating Engineers. Nineteen will probably be the final number of candidates to contest for the position of queen, as it is not deemed probable that further nomina tions will be received today.

Ballot coupons will be published in each of the city's four dailies beginning tomorrow, the voting to continue through May 25 and the last coupons to appear May 23. The following statement respecting ne Women of Woodcraft was given out by C. C. an Orsdall, grand guardian this morning: "It has been represented that the Women of Woodcraft is officially indorsing a candidate for the queen of the Rose Festival. I wish to state officially that this is not true. Women of Woodcraft has no candidate, is supporting no candidate, has indorsed no candidate, and does not expect to do so." The 19 organizations already in the field with candidates are planning vigorous campaigns for their favorite daughters and a close race is considered certain by Rose Festival authorities. A queen and six princesses are

Rev. Mr. Loveland Speaks on Politics

Clean politics was the subject of the address of the Rev. Frank L. Loveland at today's luncheon of the Oregon Civio league.

Dr. Loveland treated the question in a very general way without any reference to local conditions. So long as politicians are regarded as outside the ordinary laws of social ethics, said he, there will be unclean politics.

Four things are necessary, he said, to obtain clean politics, the elimina-tion of greed and graft in public office, gambling in stocks and bonds, the cornering of food stuffs and land
