

ASTORIA FISHERMEN NOT PLEASED WITH BURKE'S STATEMENT

H. W. Lonston, Secretary of Columbia River Fishermen, Issues Statement.

Astoria, Or., May 14.—The recent announcement made by United States Customs Collector Burke relative to the fishing situation has aroused a storm of protest among the Astoria fishermen. H. M. Lonston, secretary of the Columbia River Fishermen's Protective Union, has issued the following statement:

"Mr. Burke, United States Collector of Customs, is either ignorant of the true condition on the Columbia river, or he is most unfair, when he says: 'The fishermen at Astoria have ruled things for years now, and they must be taught to recognize the rights of others. The large ships which come in here cannot suffer from such loss as they have been to.'"

"The fact is, had the fishermen at Astoria, 'ruled' our river, as he says, there would have been plenty of drifting grounds for the fishermen on the Columbia river, without having to take chances in the channels, as they are forced to now, to earn a living for themselves and their dependents."

"It is the result of underhand work performed by some of the officials, both federal and state, as well as legislators, that is confronting us just now, and to properly adjust matters a hearing should be had, and that should be a public hearing, at which every-thing in connection with the question of gill net fishing, and probably some other, should be taken up and settled once for all."

"It did not take 10 minutes to reach an agreement with the captain of the "Northern Pacific," probably the largest steamer entering the river, which so far has proved O. K. for both parties. He did not need 1000 feet passageway. One hundred feet was all he asked.

"Does any one with any common sense for a moment think that a gill-net fisherman, with a net probably worth $400, will deliberately leave it in the fairway of any vessel, knowing that that would mean a loss of at least $300 on his net, and then loss of fish and time besides? Most assuredly not! Then there must be some other reasons, and there are."

"The fishermen are by a foolish order prevented from making use of their vision at night, thereby making them practically helpless during the dark hours. There was no trouble on the river for navigators or fishermen before that order was issued by Mr. Burke's department, but there has been some since."

"In a letter dated May 27, 1914, addressed to L. M. Garrison, secretary of war, the following suggestions were made:

"Navigators to follow a line on the north off and close to the red buoys when passing up or down the river."

"Vessels bound for Knappa, Wash., to give a certain signal, warning the fishermen in time to get their nets up, out from the vessels way."

"Fishermen drifting near the red buoys, to pick up their nets as soon as a vessel approaches."

"Gill net fishermen when drifting shall have a lantern lighted, ready in a box in the hull of the boat, to be displayed as soon as a vessel is approaching.

"If these suggestions were followed there would be little if any trouble on the river on account of gill net fishermen, because both fishermen and navigators would be in position to know what to do, which cannot truthfully be said now."

Millionaire Hurt In Auto Accident

Walter H. Dupue, Well Known Sportsman, Still Seriously Ill as Result of Smash-up Several Months Ago.

Coronado, Cal., May 14.—(U. P.)—Walter H. Dupue, widely known millionaire sportsman, was today reported in a dangerous condition as the result of an automobile accident several months ago, when his machine, crowded with friends, crashed into an iron post while they were speeding to catch the ferryboat to San Diego. Dupue was confined to his bed for some time and still is in constant care of a nurse. Workmen are just finishing a 25 room addition to his magnificent residence on the ocean front here, where he had intended to entertain during the exposition.

Dupue is known as a breeder of fine polo ponies. Another fad is his model dairy at Lakeside, where is produced pure milk, which he sells to families who have babies. It is run at a considerable financial loss.

How Is This One For Humdinger?

It's a Silver Sunfish; Weight Only 4000 Pounds; Age 100 Years; Measures Across Back Seven Feet.

San Francisco, May 14.—(U. P.)—A silver sunfish, weighing 4000 pounds, ran away with a gasoline launch with a crew of eight today near the Golden Gate. The sunfish was caught in a net with two big sharks. It struggled for three hours, dragging the launch with it and nearly upsetting it several times. When finally exhausted and landed, it was found to measure seven feet across the back. The fishermen estimated it was 100 years old.
