

Club Activities BY VELLA WINNER

Current Literature Department.
 Mrs. S. E. GILBERT and Mrs. W. H. Seigler were hostesses yesterday to the meeting of the current literature department of the Portland Woman's club, the meeting being held at the home of the former at 1149 East Salmon street. Thirty ladies partook of the luncheon, with Mrs. P. J. Mann and Mrs. O. P. M. Jamison pouring tea. The house was decorated in roses and greenery. Memory games were given in response to roll call and during the afternoon short readings were given by Mrs. G. J. Frankel, Mrs. Nathaniel P. Palmer, Mrs. F. L. Thompson and Mrs. H. L. Torrance. Mrs. Palmer was selected chairman of the department. There will be two more regular meetings, and in June the season's activities will be brought to a close with a big picnic.

Junior League Election.
 The annual meeting and election of officers of the Junior League was held Tuesday. The president, secretary and reports were given by Mrs. A. D. Norris; vice-president, Mrs. Henry L. Corbett; second vice-president, Mrs. E. Devereaux; secretary, Mrs. John Benson; treasurer, Miss Ella Low Mills.

The league, which has heretofore interested itself principally in study of social problems which it has launched out into some practical work, it having been decided at yesterday's meeting to take over the sewing room which was this year conducted in the Journal building, the garments first being sent to the suffering Belgians and later being distributed among the sick and needy of this city. The principal attendance was by women who needed the employment, thus serving a double purpose. The room will be conducted on much the same plans next year with Mrs. Isabel Guild in general charge of the enterprise.

Alberta Women Are Active.
 The regular meeting of the Alberta Women's Improvement club was held Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. Josephine Sharp, 1033 East Twenty-fourth street north, with a large and enthusiastic attendance. The principal item of business transacted was the appointment of a sanitation committee consisting of Mrs. E. B. Grunstad, chairman; Mrs. J. W. Cahow, Mrs. M. E. Baird, Mrs. Mary L. Green and Mrs. Elizabeth Day. This committee is already interesting itself in an effort to keep cows from grazing in the parkings and on the streets and to this end they have interviewed the city attorney, who will look into the matter of an amendment to the present ordinance covering this matter.

This club has begun a systematic investigation of street improvements in other cities and of methods of paying for same other than by special assessments of separate property owners. The club is this afternoon holding a social meeting, with the members residing on Twenty-third street as hostesses.

 Hartridge Whipp, the well known singer of Portland, was the soloist at the annual open meeting of the Forest Grove Woman's club held in the ladies' hall of the college the first of the week. The function was a brilliant one and Mr. Whipp made a decided hit. Mrs. Whipp presided at the piano. Mrs. Wilbur McMillon had charge of the musical program and Mrs. J. J. Hoar and Mrs. John Buchanan sang in duet and decorations. Miss M. F. Barnham was hostess of the evening and President and Mrs. Charles J. Bushnell helped in receiving the guests, who numbered upwards of 300. Walker's orchestra furnished music.

Little Stories for Bedtime
 BY THORNTON W. BURGESS
 (Copyright, 1915, by J. G. Lard.)

The School in the Green Forest.
 Peter Rabbit could not keep away from the Green Forest. He just had to go back to see those queer brown babies which he had discovered under a big tree on the bank of the Laughing Brook. Every chance he had he slipped back to watch. He kept as still as still could be and not once did those little brown babies suspect that he was near. Every day they came out to play, but at the least sound they would disappear in that snug home, the doorway of which was between the roots of a big tree.

After a little Peter discovered that there was a school in the Green Forest, just as there was a school at Johnny Chuck's home in the Old Orchard, and another where Danny Meadow Mouse had his home on the Green Meadows. You see, wherever there are babies there has to be a school. This is one of the laws of Old Mother Nature. Peter had been quite right when he had guessed that those babies were the children of Little Joe Otter. At first they seemed to do nothing but tumble over each other and play. It was very rough play, the roughest play that Peter had ever seen. He didn't guess that in that play those two brown babies were learning something, but they were. They were learning how to use their legs and teeth and bodies.

At first, Peter had seen nothing of Little Joe Otter or Mrs. Joe, but he noticed that at the least rustle of a leaf the two brown babies disappeared into their home, and by this he knew that they had been taught that great law of all the little wild people, which is that safety is the first and most important lesson to be learned.

Then one morning he saw Mrs. Joe out with the two babies, and they were having a grand frolic. Mrs. Joe would get hold of one end of a stick and the two little Otters would get hold of the other end of the stick and try to pull it away from her. In this way they were learning how to grow strong and to take care of themselves. Then Mrs. Joe took them a little way into the woods. It just happened that Reddy Fox had been along that way the night before. She showed them his tracks and made them afraid of them, and when she did this she growled, and thus they knew that Reddy was an enemy, to be watched out for.

Later, right in the midst of one of their grand frolics, Sammy Jay suddenly began to scream. Peter knew perfectly well what that scream meant. He knew by the noise that Sammy had discovered somebody prowling around in the Green Forest. Of course Mrs. Otter knew, and right away she chased her two brown babies into their home and followed them. Thus they learned that the screaming of Sammy Jay is a warning to watch out for danger.

One thing puzzled Peter very much. He knew the Little Joe Otter lives in the water most of the time, and that, of course, Mrs. Joe does the same thing. "I wonder why those youngsters are not taught to swim," thought Peter. "I should suppose that a swimming lesson would be one of the very first things they would get."

Peter puzzled over this a great deal, as one day followed another, and still the Otter babies never once went near the water. They grew fast, and had the very best times ever, but always on the land. In fact, Peter suspected by the way they acted that they didn't like the water any better than he did, and you know he doesn't like it at all. Mrs. Otter, and sometimes Little Joe, brought them fish to eat, and sometimes their mother took them on little short hunting trips, but always on the land. It seemed to him that those Otter children were being brought up altogether wrong.

Next story: "The First Swimming Lesson."

NATIONAL GUARD NOTES
 Company H Makes Most of Its Cramped Quarters.

Few More Men Wanted.
 Company H of the Third regiment has made the most of its cramped quarters and uses the rafters of the attic for supports for its stores and supplies. It has 71 men on its rolls and needs a few more to make up for several who will have to work this summer in the fruit and grain harvests instead of going to the state camp on July 5.

Will Go to Fort Stevens.
 The Coast Artillery corps will be at Fort Stevens for its regular annual camp and instruction from July 15 to 22. Eighth company in this city still can receive about 10 more men. It is yet time for the required number of drills to be had to qualify for this outing and instruction. It is not all drill nor all play, and it is all instructive and interesting. Any young man over 18 is welcome if he wants to learn.

Inspects Eighth Company.
 Lieutenant W. G. Williams, of Eugene, staff officer of the Coast Artillery corps, was in this city yesterday inspecting stores, supplies and accommodations of Eighth company, C. A. C.

Junior National Guard.
 There is a Junior National Guard company in this city composed of boys from 13 to 17. If now has about 60 members and drills every Friday night in the Armory. The captain is a youth named H. M. Miller. Captain W. F. Daugherty, commanding Company B, O. N. G., has devoted considerable time to drilling them, and also has Sergeant Hathaway, United States Army. Captain Miller and his men are allowed to drill with the O. N. G. companies, and they are quite proficient in military movements.

National Offers Bill Of Much Diversity
 The National has a bill that is widely diversified and interesting with the principal feature Helen Gardner in the film "Breath of Araby," a story film directed by the Vitagraph company. It has to do with the last drop of an enchanted perfume.

There are several threads of romance in the story is brought to a startling and effective climax. Miss Gardner gives a portrayal that is at once sensuous in the extreme, almost weird yet fascinating. She is very beautiful, and dominates wherever she appears.

A feature of radically different sort, yet interesting, is "Our Own," a film from the somewhat recent magazine story. It is a tale of department store life, and proprietors who will not take necessary fire precautions. The hero is a fire jockey, the heroine a salesgirl, and the big scenes of the fire are intensely realistic. "Boobley's Baby" is a funny Vitagraph, with Syd Drew and film solo by Louis Diamond completes the bill.

Film at Peoples Is Story of Baseball
 If "Little Sunset" is not popular at the Peoples it will be because the patrons are not Americans and are lacking the inborn instinct for the national game of baseball. The feature has been filmed from Charles Van Loan's story, with sturdy little Gordon Griffith playing Little Sunset, and Hobart Bosworth appearing as the "Terrible Swede."

The film is a happy combination and one is quite as clever as the other. The story is a simple affair, but the picture is full of baseball atmosphere and of abundance of interest, largely created by Little Sunset. There are tugs at the heart strings and laughs galore, for comedy runs rampant and the picture is full of baseball atmosphere and of abundance of interest, largely created by Little Sunset. Japanese Are Shown In American Story
 For the remainder of this week the Star is offering a return showing of an excellent feature, "The Typhoon," filmed from Walker Whiteside's play of the same name. It is a story with American scenes, but the leading actors Japanese, who are on special missions in this country.

The most important element of these with a Parisian actress leads to a stirring climax. The feature has been splendidly directed and presented by the Japanese. It is a well played by a capable cast headed by some talented Japanese actors.

Dr. Hegele's Case In Hands of Grand Jury
 The second trial of Dr. Herbert W. Hegele, charged with improper conduct toward young women who applied at his office for positions, which was to have started in the municipal court this afternoon, was dropped yesterday by Judge Stevenson, on the motion of Deputy District Attorney Dech. Mr. Dech said that the case had been taken up by the grand jury with a view to having the physician indicted under the nuisance act. At the previous trial the jury failed to return a verdict, standing for conviction and one for acquittal.

ABOUT THE HOUSE I know a housekeeper who for years has given over Monday mornings to shopping. She picks the bargains when the season is ripe, shopping is always a pleasure to her and never more so than when the days grow warm. She finds no crush in the shops in the early hours. The air is good and she doesn't get a headache from lack of oxygen. Advertised goods are all in their places and the salesfolk in theirs, eager and happy to make records.

THE HOUSEKEEPER who would emulate the woman I have in mind must be as forehanded as she is in other respects; must have made her laundry list and laundry package ready on Saturday night for the Monday morning call of the laundryman; must have cooked bountifully of cakes, sauces and rolls on Saturday and have a little store of canned sweets and keeping vegetables laid by; must have appropriated a third of the meatiest portion of Sunday's chicken dinner, before serving the dinner, against Monday's needs. In that case she is ready for a moment's shopping. She needs have nothing on her mind but her hat and her shopping needs she will carry on a neatly written slip in her hand-bag.

MARKETING. Canned shad, which was first put up in the Columbia river salmon canneries three seasons ago is now attracting favorable attention all over the country. Being a white fish, shad is consumed by many people unable to eat salmon. It is not only a first-class sibia fish, but it is today the cheapest meat on the market. Fresh shad is now in the market from Willamette slough and lower Columbia river points and is selling at a low cents per pound. The shad run each year is short, but it is very heavy while it lasts. The surplus over what is consumed is now canned and sold with profit, this surplus in former years being "dumped" the fish canneries only realizing its commercial worth two years ago.

HOME GROWN ONIONS do not seem to have the proper lure for our own people, "seemingly the people of Portland have more money than they know what to do with," said a well-known market man in discussing the onion question. "They are paying from two to three times as much for new California onions of an inferior quality than they can secure old onions of first-class quality. Every year as soon as green onions come in the people go crazy about them just because they are new. Only a short time ago thousands of dollars' worth of onions from Spain were sold here for 10 cents a pound when better local onions were available for a fraction over 1 cent a pound. I wonder why it is that people like things better if they know they have been shipped from."

NEW POTATOES continue to be high. The earlier shipping sections of California have practically exhausted their product, so great is the demand from various parts of the United States. The last shipping sections will not ship for some weeks, hence it is wise to lay in a small supply of old potatoes.

BIG SHRIMPS are now being shipped in from Puget sound and Olympia. There is no accounting for their unusual size this year. The prices are about as usual.

TODAY'S RECIPE Here is a new way to prepare those razor clams that you are so fond of:
 One pint clams, 2 eggs, 1/4 cup milk, 1-3 cups flour, 2 teaspoons baking powder, salt and pepper. Clean clams, drain from their liquor and chop. Beat eggs until light, add milk and flour mixed and sifted with baking powder, then add chopped clams and season highly with salt and pepper. Drop by spoonfuls and fry in deep fat. Drain on brown paper and serve at once on a folded napkin.

THE SHOPPER. Natural color silk hose are an innovation in "hosedom." The silk in these hose is just as it is spun—without dye of any sort. They're a lovely soft, lustrous cream shade, bound to harmonize beautifully with summer frocks. I was assured they would outwear two pairs of ordinary silk hose that have been dyed, as the chemicals, no matter how perfectly blended, have a tendency to eat into the tender fibers of the silk. They're a famous make—always sold at once price. Women who

DETTNERS IS PRESIDENT
 Rev. Carl C. Dettners of Seattle was elected president of the Pacific-German Congregational conference at the business session held yesterday in the First German Congregational church (Ebeneser), East Seventh and Stanton streets.
