

ROSEBURG IS CHOSEN FOR NEXT MEETING OF THE OREGON I. O. O. F.

Officers Installed Last Night; Delegates and Visitors Leave for Their Homes.

H. S. Westbrook, deputy grand master.

Newport, Or., May 21.—At the I. O. O. F. grand lodge and Rebekah sessions yesterday afternoon it was voted that Roseburg be the meeting place for the convention next year. After a short session the orders adjourned for the cross guard drills and the clam bake, which events were attended by most all the delegates. Last night installation of officers was held. Most of the delegates have now left for their homes, there being two trainloads out this morning. Grand High Priest Andrews said that the convention was the best and largest attended convention of the order in this state, to his knowledge. The grand lodge Thursday elected John F. Hall, grand master; H. S. Westbrook, deputy grand master; Mr. Trefferson, grand warden; E. K. Sharon, grand secretary; and Dr. O. D. Doan, grand treasurer. No new legislation of importance came up. The Muscovite meeting Wednesday night was largely attended.

Airship Easier to Get Than Airmen

Dutch Officer Says, in His Opinion, Army Not Equipped Now for Battle Near the Clouds.

Los Angeles, Cal., May 21.—(U. P.)—If the United States should suddenly find itself at war its armies would be nearly blind. This is the opinion expressed by Lieutenant H. Ter Poorten of the Netherlands Indian army, who is supervising the construction of war aeroplanes here for his country. He based this opinion on the death of army aviators in the United States. Lieutenant Ter Poorten has studied aviation in nearly every country in the world and is considered an international authority on army aviation. "Since the war began in Europe," said the Dutch officer, "the manufacture of aircraft sprung up in many sections, and many planes are now being sent to Russia and England from this country. If an occasion should suddenly demand it, I think these factories could supply the United States army about ten war planes a day. This would increase your air fleet to an effective size, but I am told that there are not more than 50 trained air pilots in the country. You would have the craft, but not the men to man them because it requires at least one year to train an effective military flier."—deed.

Population of Rose City Is 260,601

Portland's present population, according to the abstract of the United States department of the census, just issued, is 260,601. Figures compiled by the statistical department of the Portland Chamber of Commerce had made the population 259,524, or 1077 less than the government's estimate.

Swiss Mobilizing Army of 400,000

Geneva, May 21.—(I. N. S.)—The entire Swiss army has been mobilized and stationed along the northern, southern and eastern frontiers, to prevent violation of Swiss neutrality as a result of Italy's expected entrance into the war, it was announced here today. The little mountain republic's forces guarding the border have been increased to 400,000 men.

'BIG FOUR' IN FILM WORLD MAY PUT ITS DEPOT IN PORTLAND

Matter of Locating Distributing Plant Here to Be Discussed at Luncheon.

Tom North, who has been appointed the northwestern representative of "The Big Four," a combination in film distribution, embracing the Vitaphone, Lubin, Selig and Essanay companies, will be tendered a luncheon at the Chamber of Commerce Monday, next, at noon.

At this luncheon a representative of the Chamber of Commerce will be present to discuss with Mr. North the establishing of his distribution plant at Portland instead of Seattle.

The General Film company, up to a very recent date, has refused to recognize the growing tendency on the part of the public to demand big plays with big stars.

Recently, however, four of the largest members of the so-called film trust recognized public desire for big plays with big stars, and organized into what is known as "The Big Four," and are putting forth some of the greatest plays exploiting some of the greatest stars of the known world. This combination has been sprung recently, and in its organization the country has been distracted. There will be a central office at San Francisco which will have general supervision over the coast and another office at either Portland or Seattle.

PORTLAND ENTERTAINS TWO GOVERNORS AND EXTRA EX-GOVERNOR

Executive Heads of Colorado and Utah and Former Chief of Idaho in Party.

Portland today entertained two more governors than usual and one extra ex-governor.

They were the chief executives of Colorado and Utah and the former governor of Idaho. They ate breakfast here, rode around town a little and hurried east at 10 o'clock. They were on their way home from the conference of governors at Seattle, which adjourned last night to reconvene in Portland next September.

Governor Carlson of Colorado, Governor William Spry of Utah and former Governor James H. Hawley of Idaho were in the official party. Mrs. Carlson, who was an interested attendant of the conference, was also along.

When the train came in from Seattle at 8:45 this morning, the visitors were met by Mark Woodruff and M. E. Smead of the Chamber of Commerce and by Ralph Coan, an old friend of Governor Carlson's. Governor and Mrs. Carlson went to breakfast at the Coan home and the others, having other appointments, busied themselves until 9:15. R. & N. train No. 18 pulled out.

Both Governor Spry and Governor Carlson expressed the opinion that the water power question discussed at the Seattle conference are among the most important of the many problems affecting the west.

"When we come back in September, we want to make a united stand on the policy we feel the government should pursue," said Carlson. "With all the western states backing some one plan, the general government can do little else than follow it out. There was some difference of opinion as to the Ferris bill, but all were agreed that the fullest use of the western resources must be released, whatever policy or plan will bring this about. We don't want the west bottled up against investment any longer. That much was plain from the discussions and that was the point on which all agreed."

Governor Spry declared that the west needs the stimulus of development and that its boundless resources, so far but scratched, have potential influences that should make this the greatest region of the world. Mr. Hawley looks upon the future of the west as the greatest of the nation's internal policies. He, too, declared it had been held back long enough and that the time has come for utilization of water powers. The Chamber of Commerce sought to induce the governors to stay a day longer in Portland, but they had appointments they felt they had to keep at home.

Captain Finds Mine; Accused of Larceny

Because Captain Henry Austrom of the halibut fishing schooner Myrtle Andren, steadfastly held to this opinion, he is under arrest here today charged with larceny on the high seas. Bound for Seattle yesterday through the Straits of Juan De Fuca, Captain Austrom and his crew picked up a detached mine. There is a standing reward of $20 offered by the United States to the finder of wandering mines. This reward Captain Austrom would not accept. Naval officers believe that the mine is one of three belonging to the Fort

EXTORTION NOT WANTED

The board of county commissioners indicated to a committee of business men yesterday that under the provisions of the Bingham bill advertisements for bids would state that local bidders would be given a preference of 5 per cent. "We are perfectly willing to give a preference, all things being equal," said Chairman Lightner, "but we do not want any combinations that will extort 5 per cent."
