

What Society is Doing

ANY informal affairs have been given this week for Miss Eleanor Anderson of Colorado Springs who is the house guest of Miss Claire Wilcox. Foremost among these events was the luncheon Wednesday given by Miss Barbara MacKenzie. Covers were laid for eight. The table was prettily arranged with masses of pink sweet peas.

Guests of Dr. and Mrs. Miller.
Dr. and Mrs. Byron H. Miller entertained as house guests Dr. and Mrs. A. E. Wright and son Edgar from Siletto, Or., a few days the first part of the week. Later they entertained Mr. and Mrs. John A. Fiero and daughter of Penn Yan, N. Y.

Pretty Home Wedding.
The home of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence W. Grover, 1107 Rodney avenue, was the scene of a pretty wedding May 11, when Cora G. Maffett became the bride of Lynn J. Moore. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Henry Marcotte, pastor of the Westminster Presbyterian church. The house was beautifully decorated with hanging baskets and huge bowls of roses. White and green formed the color scheme in the dining room and red in the hall. The couple were married under a canopy of greens and roses, a large bouquet of white roses hanging from the center.

Miss Mildred Worden was bridesmaid and wore a gown of blue silk. She carried an arm bouquet of pink roses. The bride was gowned in a lacy white voile and wore a long tulle veil with orange blossoms. She carried a bouquet of bride roses. The bridegroom was attended by Ed A. Kennedy.

Ruth Dennis Grover, the little ring bearer, was charming in a lace dress. She carried the ring on a pillow used at Mrs. Grover's wedding 10 years ago.

Miss Olive Guy rendered "Love's Rosary" in a most charming way before the bride party entered the room. Mrs. Clarence W. Grover accompanied her and also played Mendelssohn's Wedding March. Soft music continued during the ceremony.

Refreshments were served in the dining room by Miss Grace Hovenden, Mrs. Edward E. Drew and Mrs. W. M. Grover.

Mrs. Moore is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Maffett, of Nevada. Mr. Moore is the son of Mr. and Mrs. N. P. Moore.

Mr. and Mrs. Moore will be at home to their friends Sunday, June 1.

Classes to Give French Play.
French classes of Lincoln high school are to produce "L'Eté de la Saint Martin," a charming play by Melchior and Eulvey and Labriche's "Slighted Charge," Friday evening, May 28, at Lincoln high school. Not only those interested in French are invited, but in general, are cordially invited. The students have been working with keen interest for some weeks under the instruction of Miss L. L. Cross and those who recall the play given last year, "L'Angelet Tel Qu'on le Parle," will doubtless look forward to another opportunity of hearing a French play. No admission will be charged. The cast includes Miss Imogene Weston, Miss Neri Imhaus, Nelson Deszand, Harold Eken.

NATIONAL GUARD NOTES

Naval Militia Pleased at Progressive Business Men's Visit.

The officers and men of the Oregon Naval Militia are very much pleased at the visit of the Progressive Business Men's club to the cruiser Boston on Thursday noon. At least 250 men and women inspected the ship and heard General White explain the objects of the organization. The audience cheered when General White declared, "The Oregon Naval Militia will be first in line in point of efficiency in times of peace, and first in line for national defense in time of war."

Will Celebrate Anniversary.
Company C, Third regiment, O. N. G., will celebrate its sixteenth anniversary on Monday night. A banquet and entertainment is planned for at the Armory. All ex-members are invited to attend.

Captaincies Not Popular.
There is no snap in being a company captain. Two companies of the National Guard at the Armory are now shy a captain. There is nothing in it but a strictly financial point of view in time of peace, and it is considerably more than a diversion. Many well qualified officers shrink from the responsibility and the loss of time required to make a success of commanding a company.

Hansen's Rifle Team Leads.
Sergeant Harry Hansen's rifle team of company C now leads the other four teams of that organization.

PERSONAL MENTION

Hamilton Observes Day.
Harry M. Hamilton, chief clerk at the Imperial, celebrated the sixteenth anniversary of his connection with that hotel yesterday. The Imperial Hotel company was formed exactly 16 years ago yesterday and Phil Metcalf Sr. and Mrs. Hamilton are the only members of the original staff that are still connected with the company.

Attorney Hume Goes South.
Wilson T. Hume leaves today for San Francisco to conduct the further hearing in the estate of Mrs. H. M. Helm, involving rich mines in Alaska. Mr. Hume is accompanied by his wife and Mrs. A. R. McKinley, wife of the manager of Brunswick-Blake Colliery company, and expects to be absent three or four weeks.

Government Official Here.
Francis G. Caffey of Washington, D. C., solicitor for the department of agriculture, is a guest at the Benson. Mr. Caffey is a member of the well known New York law firm of Clark, Breckinridge & Caffey before entering the government service.

George D. Hood, Seattle Western Union official, is at the Multnomah.

W. A. Barr and H. Crosby are Corvallis visitors at the Cornelia.

A. J. Thurston and wife of Shelbyville, Ind., are guests at the Oregon.

C. M. Ennis and Matt G. Ennis, Walla Walla merchants, are guests at the Imperial.

Fred Graff is a Washington, D. C., visitor at the Portland.

Angus McDougall, a Tacoma mining man, is at Multnomah.

Isaac Best is a Grants Pass visitor at the Seward.

John O. Bosark, a Bay City attorney, is at the Imperial.

Judge A. L. Clarke, of Rainier, is at the Cornelia.

Francis E. Reid, traveling in advance for Billie Burke, is at the Multnomah.

A. H. Hunt is registered at the Seward from Salem.

M. J. Maynard is a Walla Walla visitor at the Oregon.

E. L. Schwarzer, of Pendleton, is a guest at the Imperial.

N. J. Blagden, a Hoquiam lumberman, is a guest at the Multnomah.

Dr. W. Mills of Missouri, is at the Portland.

J. O. Goldthwaite, is a Hood River, visitor at the Seward.

John E. Cogrove, a San Francisco insurance adjuster, is at the Multnomah.

G. E. Chamberlain and Miss Chamberlain are Aberdeen guests at the Portland.

G. D. Gunn of Drew, Or., is at the Seward.

E. S. Long, Mr. and Mrs. P. H. Hummelgar and Edward Hummelgar comprise a Pendleton party at the Oregon.

'Maurine'

[By Permission of Ella Wheeler Wilcox]

Something about the sincerity of value of "Maurine" as a friend, in the story of that name by Ella Wheeler Wilcox, as well as the meliorative word "Maurine" Toilet Preparations, which are now the very latest vogue for milions of dressing women.

Test the merits of "Maurine" in the Rest Rooms on Second Floor or ask the demonstrator near Main stairway, 1st Floor.

Little Stories for Bedtime

BY THORNTON W. BURGESS

Sammy Jay Again Proves Himself a True Quaddy.

The foolish little Otter who hadn't minded his father and mother but had remained behind on the bank of the little pool in the Laughing Brook didn't have time to even squeal before Old Man Coyote had him. Old Man Coyote didn't kill him at once as he might have done with one crunch of his great jaws. He wanted to play with him a little first.

Now, though Old Man Coyote thought that no one saw him, some one did. It was Sammy Jay. Sammy had been following the Otter family, keeping very still and taking the greatest pains to keep out of sight himself. You see, he was very much interested in those children of Little Joe Otter and he thought it would be fun to watch them having their first lessons in fishing. So he was right where he could see perfectly well what they were doing. The instant Old Man Coyote sprang from his hiding place Sammy knew that that little Otter hadn't a chance in the world unless he could do something. Right away he remembered Farmer Brown's boy fishing just a little farther down the Laughing Brook.

"If I scream loud enough and long enough he will come to see what all the fuss is about."

So Sammy opened his mouth and began to scream at the top of his lungs. "Thief! Thief! Thief!" he screamed, flying down just over Old Man Coyote's head.

Old Man Coyote looked up and snarled angrily. "Stop your noise!" he snapped. "This is none of your business."

"Thief! Thief! Thief!" screamed Sammy louder than ever.

Now, the very instant that Sammy began to scream little Joe Otter and Mrs. Joe, who were just around a turn in the Laughing Brook, knew that an enemy was near. For the first time they missed the little Otter who had remained behind. Little Joe didn't wait a second. He started back as he fast as he could swim, which is very fast indeed. Mrs. Joe followed as soon as she had seen that the other little Otter was in a safe hiding place.

Old Man Coyote was still snarling at Sammy when he saw Little Joe coming, and behind him Mrs. Joe. He knew then that he was to have a fight, but he had no notion of giving up that little Otter. He backed away, dragging the little Otter with him and showing all his great teeth in ugly snarls. Mean while, Sammy lay kept up his screaming. Of course, Farmer Brown's boy heard it. He stopped fishing to listen. He knows the ways of Sammy Jay, does Farmer Brown's boy.

"Thief! Thief! Thief!" screamed Sammy louder than ever.

"Something going on back there," he muttered. "Wonder what it is. Sammy's been rushing and Old Man Coyote is terribly excited. Guess I'll have to see what it all means."

He laid his rod down, leaving the bait in the water. Very carefully he tiptoed back to where Sammy was making such a racket. He was just in time to see Little Joe and Mrs. Otter bravely rushing at Old Man Coyote, who was growling and snarling, while with his two forefeet he held down the whimpering little Otter. Farmer Brown's boy didn't stop to think. He just opened his mouth and yelled. Then, grabbing up a stick, he rushed forward.

Old Man Coyote didn't wait for him to get there. At the sound of that yell he jumped as if he had been shot. Then he turned and vanished like a shadow in the brush. Little Joe Otter and Mrs. Joe had been almost as much frightened as Old Man Coyote, and they ran, too. But not far. Oh, my, my, they were so scared that they didn't know their love was too strong for them. They dived into the little pool, but almost at once their brown heads appeared again at the surface. Then they just opened his mouth and yelled. Then, grabbing up a stick, he rushed forward.
