

MYER GETS A NEW TRIAL ON CHARGE OF BURNING A BARN

Indictment, Supreme Court Holds, Was Amended to Extent Not Recognized.

OTHER DECISIONS TODAY

Benton County Judgment Reversed and Ordered Remanded to the Justice Court.

Salem, Or., June 1.—The supreme court today reversed the judgment of Circuit Judge Biggs in the case of George F. Myer, convicted of burning a livery stable in Malheur county, and gave Myer a new trial.

The original indictment charged the defendant with burning the Jordan Valley livery stable and failed to state the owner. The circuit court allowed the district attorney to amend the indictment without entering into the matter to another grand jury. While the constitution permits the amendment of indictments as to form, it does not go so far as to permit changes such as were made in the Myer case, the supreme court holds. The opinion in the case was written by Justice Eakin.

Other decisions today were as follows:

W. Beamish, appellant, vs. W. A. Noon, appellee, from Benton county, action to recover for goods sold, opinion by Chief Justice Moore, Circuit Judge Hamilton's judgment dismissing plaintiff's plea for a writ of review reversed, and case ordered remanded to justice court for trial, burning of livery stable in Malheur county, and gave Myer a new trial.

Grant County Bank vs. Della Hayes, appellant, appealed from Grant county, suit to set aside a void deed, opinion by Justice Burnett, Circuit Judge Morrow's judgment for defendant affirmed.

John Leland Henderson vs. Tillamook Hotel company et al., appellants, appealed from Tillamook county, motion to relax costs overruled.

John W. Boyer et al., cross appellants, vs. J. M. Burton, appellant, appealed from Tillamook county, motion to disqualify appeal as to cross appellants sustained.

Company May Put Meters at Haines

Supreme Court Reverses Circuit Judge Anderson in Granting Injunction Against Power Company.

Salem, Or., June 1.—The supreme court today reversed the judgment of Circuit Judge Anderson of Baker county in granting the injunction against the Eastern Oregon Light & Power company from installing meters.

The Baker Light & Power company was granted a 30 year franchise in 1907 to give service at prices not to exceed certain sums per month, flat rates, but that in case of installation of meters the rate should not exceed 20 cents per 1000 watt hours. The Eastern Oregon company succeeded in the Baker company in business. The supreme court holds that no reasonable doubt can exist when the entire ordinance in consideration that a privilege was conferred to change at pleasure from a flat to a meter basis. The opinion is written by Chief Justice Moore.

Passenger Loses Leg in Accident

Brushing past the brakeman on Southern Pacific Electric train No. 113, at Caching station this morning, A. Davidson, a passenger, leaped from the car step before the train had stopped, lost his footing and rolled under the wheels. His right leg was ground off above the knee.

Davidson was taken aboard the train and carried to Hillsboro, where Dr. J. F. Tammis attended his injuries.

To Show Decorated Autos.

A series of stereoscopic views of decorated automobiles is to be shown at the Portland hotel at 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon instead of at Moler & Frank's as previously announced. The pictures are being exhibited by the women's committee of the Rose Festival floral parade that those contemplating entering their cars in that event may gain an idea of the possibilities of floral decoration of automobiles.

Mausoleum Is Opposed.

Property owners in the vicinity of East Fourteenth and Duke streets are objecting to the proposed erection of a large mausoleum in their neighborhood. In a big remonstrance filed with City Auditor Barbur this morning property owners ask that the council prohibit the establishment of the mausoleum in their neighborhood.

Father Returns After Mysterious And Long Absence

Thirty years ago Charles T. Trengrove went east with his father and mother to settle an estate left by a relative of Trengrove's name. Not long afterward, William M. Trengrove, the father, disappeared. Charles grew to manhood; his mother died, and he came west again.

This morning as Trengrove was frying a steak for a customer at his Market Lunch Room, at First and Alder streets, a gray haired man walked in.

"Hello, Charley," said the man.

"Why, hello, dad, where did you come from?" replied the son.

"You've changed a good deal in 30 years," remarked Charles. "I have you," added the father.

The father explained that he had come to Portland to look after some business, but he did not explain why he had departed so suddenly from his family 30 years ago, but the son said he had done the same thing before though he had returned after previous absences.

McCredie Wires For Pitcher Kahler

Walter McCredie, manager of the Portland baseball club, after a conference with Judge W. W. McCredie, wired President Somers of the Cleveland club this afternoon to send Pitcher George Kahler out to the Pacific coast.

The Portland club, in an effort to provide a winning ball club, will assume Kahler's major league salary, which is guaranteed because of the Federal league invasion. Kahler is expected to arrive in Portland by the end of the week. Kahler is a right hander, and will be the biggest man on the Portland team. He is coming from the Cleveland American club, which he was released by the Cleveland Americans.

VON JAGOW DEFENDS SUBMARINE WAR FOR THE FREEDOM OF SEA

Every nation must have a right on the sea.

England began violations.

"The world must not forget that England was the first belligerent to violate the rule of the oceans. England was the first to put mines in the North sea and the first to declare a war zone. She was the first declaring she would starve our women and children."

"England must be the first to go back and make the war normal."

The speaker of the original address emphasized his last remark with a vehement rap upon his desk.

"What is Germany's position regarding neutral shipping on belligerent ships?" I asked.

"That returns to the Lusitania matter," was the reply. "We feel that it is our duty to discuss this officially with the United States, the two governments must have a clear and definite understanding of the situation."

"Germany seeks to convey in her note to America. 'We believe that Americans are reasonable enough to understand the situation and to reach an understanding upon every fact. We do not believe the American government understands our viewpoint. There was enough ammunition to kill the Lusitania to kill 80,000 soldiers. Do you blame us for using every means to destroy this ammunition to save the lives of our men?'"

As the minister finished, his voice trembled and he plainly showed the deep convictions which his statement carried.

Stage Was Set.

Minister von Jagow was reading the autobiography of Andrew White, former ambassador to Berlin, at the time when I entered his study. He asked me to read where White had declared Germany's attitude toward America during the Spanish war was "all that could be desired."

White wrote that on one occasion, when the American consul at Hamburg telegraphed him that a Spanish vessel, supposedly laden with arms to be used in Cuba, was leaving port.

He hastened to the Berlin office, where I urged that vigorous steps be taken, with the result that the vessel was overhauled and searched at the mouth of the Elbe. White said:

"Germany might easily have pleaded that America had generally shown itself opposed to interference of shipments and that to believe in the passage of arms was to believe in the passage of contraband. She might also have contended she was not obliged to search vessels to find contraband, but that the statute was incumbent upon the belligerent concerned."

Herr von Jagow closed the book without further comment.

Regarding the attacks upon the American vessels Cushing and Gulf light, which have played an important part in the relations between the two countries, the foreign minister said Germany's final answer would be sent to Washington within a few days.

Trading Stamp Case Postponed.

Proceedings brought by the Woodard-Clarke Drug company, Oida, Wortman & King and several other business concerns, to stop Sherry & Hildbrand from redeeming green trading stamps in any way except with merchandise were continued by Judge Bean today. Meanwhile the stamps will not be redeemed with cash, as the company notified its clients, but by merchandise, as at present.

THIS COUNTRY SHOULD JUMP RIGHT IN, SEIZE FOREIGN TRADE NOW

Commerce Department Chief Says Not to Wait End of War; Balance in Our Favor

Edward Ewing Pratt, Ph. D., chief of the department of foreign and domestic commerce of the United States department of commerce, believes this nation should not wait until the European war is over before it jumps in to seize its share of foreign trade.

Pratt addressed the membership council of the Chamber of Commerce at luncheon today on the subject of foreign trade. He told the business men that the greatest opportunities for trade expansion are not so much in Latin-America as in Russia, India, China, nations that are awakening to new needs which someone must supply.

The credit machinery of the world is being readjusted and the balance of trade is now setting so strongly in favor of the United States that it is bound to become the creditor nation instead of the debtor nation.

He told them that the trade balance is increasing at the rate of $100,000,000 per month, and that in a year we will have a billion dollars to offset the six billion we now owe Europe.

The United States is paying $200,000,000 per year in interest alone on the money she owes Europe; our tourists have been spending $250,000,000 in Europe yearly; our foreign-born population has been spending $150,000,000 home each year. Foreign shipowners exact freights. With the readjustment, much of those debts will set the other way. Nations that are creditors speedily become the trade masters.

Since November 1, $247,000,000 in foreign securities have been floated in the United States.

Men Light Fire In Grocer's "Safe"; Money Is Burned

When J. O. Houk, grocer at 523 Union avenue, opened his store last night, he discovered that his money had been burned up. Houk had been using the gas heater in lieu of a safe for several months. Saturday when he closed up he put $125 in the heater for safe keeping.

Of this amount $200 was in a warrant and the rest in gold and silver. Houk and his family then left on a holiday trip to return last night.

Yesterday painters were allowed in the building by the landlord as they needed some hot water. They lit the gas, little knowing that they were heating Houk's safe. Or else the heater got out of control and the gas and the gold and silver were partially melted.

He will have the metal assayed and the warrants reissued.

One Yegg Caught; Another One Works

Penitentiary, Or., June 1.—Blowing open the safe in the Meacham post-office in the store of Bailey Ross last night, yeggman secured about $100 and made a getaway. Sheriff Taylor left early this morning for the scene. News of the robbery came simultaneously with the announcement of the capture of the yegg who blew the safe in the O. W. R. & N. office at Milton, May 9.

Sheriff Taylor arrested a man giving the name of Frank Rogers as a suspect last week, and has just secured a complete confession. The man provided to be known in the criminal world as Rob Roy, who served two terms in the Washington penitentiary for blowing safes at Prescott and Walla Walla.

Queen Elizabeth's Guns Are Worn Out

New York, June 1.—(I. N. S.)—The British superdreadnaught Queen Elizabeth is having her guns repaired in Gibraltar, according to officers of the Greek steamer Vasilis Constantinos, who saw the battleship in that port on May 24.

According to the officers the Queen Elizabeth arrived in Gibraltar on the latter date. She had a number of shot holes in her funnels and in the superstructure but none of them in any way affecting the ship's fighting powers.

Shortly after the Queen Elizabeth put into Gibraltar 600 expert mechanics arrived from British yards on a special ship. They set at once to repair and change the 15-inch guns of the big warship.

The bores of the big guns were worn out and from what the officers could learn it was necessary to reline them and then cut the new bores.

The efficiency of the 15 inch guns does not last longer than ninety shots.

Married at Sea; Again on Land

Toledo, Or., June 1.—Lawrence Althe and Miss Blanche Bateman of this city, who eloped Sunday and who were married at sea, were again married here last evening at the home of the bride's brother, Leo Bateman, by Justice Collins. Neither of the principals was of legal age, so the consent of the parents was received. The bride will be 23 June 3, and the groom will be of legal age in about a year. Miss Bateman is a junior in the Toledo high school.
